Troops Win 2½ Mile Foothold; Losses Considerable.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, Feb. 20 [Tuesday] (AP).—Thousands of marines of Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt's 5th marine corps "are taking Iwo Island," Adm. Nimitz said with conviction today, altho front line reports made clear the battle is fierce and is costing many lives.

Tokyo radio conceded that 20,000 marines already have been put ashore and said "the enemy is constantly bringing up reënforcements and landing them."

Nimitz, whose last bulletin said the leathernecks had carved out a beachhead two and a half miles long and 500 yards deep on the southeast coast in a drive which has reached one air field, expressed confidence in the success of the operation in a message to the fleet.

He said the same skill, courage, and teamwork displayed by carrier pilots over Tokyo "are now being displayed by forces which are taking Iwo Island only 660 [nautical] miles from Tokyo." The statute mile distance is 750.

Savage Battle Raging.

Nimitz's message to the fleet said display of the same qualities now bearing fruit in the current operations "will bring success when our troops land in Japan itself."

Broadcasts from the front all agreed a costly and savage battle is raging on the tiny island in the Volcano group.

In a broadcast 28 hours after the marines landed Don Pryor, representing the combined networks, said there had been a continuous "vast display of fireworks." From the flagship of Vice Adm. Turner Iwo looked to him "like a garbage scow—serviceable but without charm."

He said the marines had to drive up straight rocky hillsides to reach a plateau "and the Japs are showing that they won't let go without a bloody fight."

Army and navy flyers who took part in the repeated bombings and strafings of Iwo reported to the staff of Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commander of the army air forces, that Iwo has "one of the greatest concentrations of guns ever massed by the Japanese on a small Pacific island."

Japs Take to Caves.

Within two hours after the first barges had grated ashore Monday morning, the marines had pushed halfway up the beaches of this rocky island that may prove tougher than Tarawa. First official reports said American casualties were "moderate."

In a Tuesday broadcast from Guam, Robert McCormick, NBC war correspondent, said the marines already are so strongly established that the enemy has no hope of driving them off the island, but "we will lose a fairly high percentage of men."

McCormick said the Nipponese are holed up in thousands of natural hideouts such as caves from which they are resisting fiercely.

Japs Fight from Volcano.

The Japanese fought back from strong inland positions. They used artillery, mortar, machine gun, and rifle fire in their efforts to hold back the leathernecks.

Japanese positions apparently were located in the northern sector of Iwo and in the steep sides and crater of the extinct Suribachi volcano at the southwestern tip of the island, which has an area of only eight square miles.

In the pre-invasion softening up Iwo had been hit daily by heavy bombers, including B-29s on some raids, for 72 days. It also had been

Ft. McKinley, Near Manila, Captured by Cavalrymen.

MANILA, Feb. 20 [Tuesday]—(AP). Eleventh air borne division troops captured Fort William McKinley at the southern outskirts of Manila Sunday, Gen. MacArthur announced today. Other Yanks swarming over Corregidor fortress mopped up the Japanese defenders behind their own gun batteries, and pursued enemy remnants on Bataan.

McKinley is one of Manila's two forts. The other is Fort Santiago, inside the old Intramuros [walled city] where the Japanese are making a final stand, jeopardizing thousands of civilian lives.

Cavalry Takes Fort.

Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson, at Fort McKinley, said officers hesitated to claim the full capture of the fort until mopping up is completed. Elements of the 1st cavalry division aided the 11th air borne push into the fort annex and most of the old military area.

Gen. MacArthur said in his bulletin the "steady reduction" of the Japanese holed up in the Intramuros was continuing.

Mop Up Corregidor.

Heavy mortars began tearing apart the outer walls of the Intramuros where the cornered Japanese defense garrison is holed up for a final stand. Some of the 7,000 civilians held as hostages within the ancient walled city may have reached freedom already. At least a few were reported to have filtered to the waterfront and escaped in boats.

Mortars were taken across the Pasig river on pontoon bridges and put to work tearing chunks out of the thick outer wall of the Intramuros so tanks and infantry can move in.

Japanese strongpoints on Corregidor were being eliminated by paratroopers and infantrymen who landed by air and sea on the island fortress Friday. Enemy defenders were being killed as they manned their fixed gun batteries.

Two Towns Captured.

The towns of Hagonoy and Tagig on the northwest shore of Laguna de Bay, southeast of Manila, also were taken.

Frequent patrol clashes were reported near Novaliches and Norzagaray, northeast of Manila, while in the Zambales mountain sector along Luzon's west central coast the 40th division was clearing Japanese remnants.

Light naval craft operating in Manila bay, now open to United States fleet units with the invasion of Corregidor, sank four barges.

Associated Press Correspondent James Hutcheson, on Corregidor with the invading 11th corps, reported it was amazing how Japanese resumed firing from caves after apparently being wiped out.

SIMMONS, TRIBUNE WRITER, COMMENDED BY MANILA GENERAL

For exposing himself to enemy fire to get the news, Walter Simmons, war correspondent for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in Manila, and fourteen other correspondents have been officially commended by Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge, commander of the 1st cavalry division at Manila. The citation said:

"By undertaking this hazardous mission, during which you were continually exposed to enemy fire, and on several occasions actually engaged in fights with the enemy, you were able to gather material for the press and radio that gave the allied public a true, living picture of actual warfare in the Philippines. Your presence with the troops in actual combat was in itself a high morale factor that is readily recognized."

It's Tax Collector Who Pays in This Village

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 19.—For the thousandth-odd time, the lucky inhabitants of Wargnies-le-Grand, a village near Valenciennes, today collected from the tax collector instead of paying him. The strange ceremony, which is called "the great almsgiving," was instituted more than 1,000 years ago by the Sire de Wargnies, who left a large donation with orders that the dividends should be distributed annually by the tax collector to all inhabitants of the locality, rich as well as poor.

Gallant Jests, Blank Eyes— 988 Are Back

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—The soldier in the faded blue striped flannel pajamas leaned from an upper bunk of the troop transport and said, "I can't kick."

Some Want to Talk.

They were two of 988 western front battle casualties who arrived at the New York port of embarkation from Europe aboard three army transports yesterday — men with splints and crutches, men with eye patches and casts, men with head bandages and dangling sleeves, men with blank, staring eyes and empty faces.

The men who could still show emotion were jubilant to be home. They stuck white bound heads and pajama clad shoulders out of portholes and called play-by-play descriptions of the landing to their bunk-ridden friends.

But tempering the jubilance was a kind of bewilderment.

They wanted you to look at the jagged red scars that twisted their arms and legs and faces. And they seemed to watch you looking and to try to catch even the slightest sign of revulsion or pity.

Pvt. J. T. Cummings of Valley Mills, Tex., who had nine body wounds and was completely bandaged from the waist down looked up with soft, questioning eyes and said, "I'll be all right."

The mental patients filed off the ship supported or led by medical corps attendants. The face of one Negro twitched uncontrolably, a tall sergeant laughed to himself, but most stared straight ahead.

One man kept shaking his head and repeating over and over as tho he were mimicking another voice, "Poor guy, he's in bad shape. Poor guy, he's in bad shape."

A Tin Cup and Some Apples.

The casualties were divided into four groups—troop class, who could care for themselves; ambulatory, who could walk; litter patients; and those with combat fatigue. They were taken from the ship to the station hospital at Camp Shanks, a staging area of the New York port of embarkation, for redistribution.

At Camp Shanks the whole ward became excited as Pvt. David Craig telephoned his home in Indianapolis and discovered he was the father of a boy, born Sep. 8. In another ward a blind boy from Brooklyn, who hadn't yet told his family how he was wounded, grinned and said, "I'll just get me a tin cup and shine up some apples. That's an easy way to make a living."

Then he stopped and added seriously, "I always wondered what it would be like to be blind. It wouldn't be so bad if it weren't for my imagination. Every morning I wake up and my eyes feel good because I've had so much sleep. Right away I grab a book to see if I can read. But of course I never can."

U. S. WILL FLY REPATRIATES FROM POLAND

How 3 Hitch-Hiked to Moscow.

MOSCOW, Feb. 19 (AP).—Many United States officers and men have been liberated from German prison camps by the Red army offensive and measures for their repatriation now are being taken in coöperation with the soviet government, Maj. Gen. J. Russell Deane announced today.

Maj. Gen. J. R. Deane.

Deane, chief of the American military mission in Moscow, said he had ordered an army detachment, including a medical officer, to proceed to Lublin, Poland, where some of the American prisoners have assembled. Other groups of prisoners are known to be sheltered in Praga, suburb of Warsaw, and farther west.

Officers Get Care.

Two hundred to 400 officers, the majority of whom gained their liberty in the confusion of the German evacuation of Stalag Oflag 64 at Szubin near Bydgoszcz, are among the Americans now being cared for by the Poles and Russians.

Deane disclosed that American army air force bases in the soviet union had "paid off" in recent months by bringing the liberation of at least 25 American airmen and the salvage of a dozen or more Flying Fortresses and Liberators which had been grounded behind the Russian lines on the eastern front.

Under terms of the allied agreement for repatriation of war prisoners, American transportation, principally aircraft, will enter Poland to bring out the liberated Americans.

"We probably will establish a camp where passage will be arranged for our people," Deane said. "United States officers will administer the camp at cost, just as the Red army will run a similar camp in France."

Canada Given Air Route with Terminal Here

BY FRANK STURDY.

Chicago will become an air terminal for foreign aircraft for the first time under the terms of a new air route agreement between the United States and Canada, disclosed yesterday in announcements at Ottawa and Washintgon, D. C.

The agreement gives Canada a route from Toronto to Chicago, as well as five other new routes into the United States. The United States, which now has eight routes into Canada, received five new ones.

Canada's government owned Trans-Canada Airlines is the only Canadian company permitted to operate internationally and doubtless will be the line designated to operate into Chicago. C. D. Howe, munitions minister of Canada, who has authority over air lines, has advocated single company policy for his country.

When TCA will be able to establish its service will depend upon the line's ability to secure airplanes and organize ground services.

Limit Set by Pact.

The agreement stipulates that no thru services may be operated from Chicago to points beyond the territorial limits of Canada [thus preventing Canada from going immediately into the trans-Atlantic field with Chicago as a base], before the rights of United States air lines in international route competition are established.

Canadian airplanes will be permitted to land at Detroit, but will not be allowed to land at Windsor, Ont., across the river. The reason for this is that the Windsor airport is situated more conveniently to downtown Detroit than Detroit's own airport, and American lines might lose passengers to TCA were it not for this prohibition.

Pick-Up of Passengers Regulated.

Air lines of either country may pick up passengers only at their points of destination in the other country. Thus, TCA could stop at any Canadian city, except Windsor, to get passengers, but would be permitted to pick up passengers in the United States only at Chicago.

American companies operating into Detroit will be permitted to stop at Windsor.

Additional new routes granted to Canada: Halifax to Boston; Toronto to Cleveland; Port Arthur to Duluth; Victoria to Seattle; Whitehorse to Fairbanks, Alaska.

New routes granted the United States: New York or Boston to Quebec; New York to Ottawa; Washington to Montreal; Washington to Ottawa; Seattle to Whitehorse.

Reciprocal Service System.

Canada now operates TCA from Toronto to New York. The United States has lines from Boston to Moncton; Boston to Montreal; New York to Montreal; Buffalo to Toronto; Fargo to Winnipeg; Great Falls to Lethbridge; Seattle to Vancouver; Whitehorse to Fairbanks. Hereafter, the United States will have two lines from Buffalo to Toronto.

Planes of either country may land anywhere in the territory of the other for nontraffic purposes: fueling, maintenance, or in any emergency.

BYRNES CLAMPS WAR CURFEW ON AMUSEMENT

Coal Saving Edict Hits 9,430 Here.

War Mobilization Director Byrnes yesterday decreed midnight closing for all saloons, night clubs, road houses, theaters, dance halls, sports arenas, and other places of entertainment, effective next Monday.

The decree will affect 9,430 places in Chicago, including 8,212 establishments with regular liquor licenses; 574 taverns which have special 4 a. m. closing licenses, 430 amusement places, principally theaters, and 214 restaurants with late closing hour privileges, according to figures in the city license bureau.

The only night spots excluded from the curfew are restaurants serving food only and places which sell liquor "only as an adjunct to the serving of food," and even these will have to cease liquor sales at midnight.

The new curfew, which applies to every day of the week, is designed primarily to save coal used in heating and providing electricity, Byrnes said. He added that the curfew also would be useful in the fields of transportation, man power, "and in other ways."

Saloons to Suffer Most.

The order is expected to weigh most heavily on Chicago's saloons, particularly those which hold 4 a. m. closing licenses.

State Rep. Michael Hannigan president of the Illinois Tavern Owners' association, said at Springfield last night that the after-midnight business of many taverns represents the difference between operating at a profit and at a loss. He expressed fear that midnight closing of saloons might lead to the mushrooming of hundreds of speakeasies.

"Also," he said, "the tavern owners have paid license fees to the city in expectation of being able to operate their accustomed hours. Obviously, with midnight closing, the license should be reduced."

Reduction to Be Asked.

He indicated that a request to this effect would be presented to the city council.

News of the curfew order caused momentary consternation yesterday at a meeting of the Chicago Cafe Owners' association, which was in session at Hotel Sherman.

The association is made up of more than 50 night club and cafe owners, including the largest night clubs in the city. By a rising vote, the members agreed to abide by the ruling, but they also voted to send a representative to Washington to consult with Byrnes' office.

Night club owners pointed out that their most profitable business is after midnight, and that most places with floor shows present the shows at 9 and 11 p. m. and 2 a. m.

Earlier Theater Hour Urged.

Art Goldie, manager of the Latin Quarter cafe at 23 W. Randolph st., said an effort would be made to have legitimate theaters advance their curtain time in order to permit theater goers to visit night spots before midnight. He said the Latin Quarter will present its first show at 8, instead of 9 p. m. This schedule was expected to be adopted by other clubs, but it will mean abandonment of the last show daily.

Chuck Jacobson, co-owner of the Rio Cabana, 400 N. Wabash av., said his place would start the dinner show at 7 p. m. instead of 9 p. m., with the last show starting at 10:30 p. m.

Ernest Byfield, executive manager of the Sherman and Ambassador hotels, said night clubs in hotels would not be seriously affected by the order.

"Most of these orders appear to be more serious at first than they actually turn out to be later," he said. "The convention ban, for instance, brought a much smaller drop in business than was anticipated. We will coöperate with this order as we have with the others."

Jack Belasco, manager of th

Biggest B-29 Raid Hits Tokyo

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., GUAM, Feb. 20 [Tuesday] (AP).—The biggest Super Fortress raid of the war Monday on Tokyo war factories resulted in the destruction or damaging of 66 enemy planes, bringing the total since the first B-29 attack on Honshu last Thanksgiving day to 732.

Maj. Gen. Curtis Lemay, heading the 21st bomber command, disclosed today that in Monday's big strike, delivered in support of the marine invasion of Iwo island, more than 150 bombers shot down 21 enemy fighters, probably destroyed 20 and damaged 25. Three B-29s were lost.

Several large fires were left burning in the center of Tokyo.

Malaya Base Pounded.

The Super Forts, which obtained good bombing results on targets which included the Nakajima aircraft factory, added their bag of 66 to the more than 650 enemy planes destroyed or damaged by carrier planes which hit the Tokyo area Friday and Saturday.

Gen. LeMay said that since last Thanksgiving the B-29s have destroyed 242 enemy planes, probably destroyed 185 and damaged 300 in air battles over Honshu.

This eighth B-29 raid on Tokyo came as 60 other Super Forts, flying from India, plastered Japanese installations at Kuala, Lumpur, Malaya, almost 3,000 miles southwest of Tokyo. The sky giants bombed railroad yards and repair shops with good results. All returned safely.

Claim 10 Shot Down.

Radio Tokyo, busy reporting on the American marine invasion of Iwo, took time out to say that approximately 100 Super Forts hit the city. It claimed 10 were shot down and said damage was slight. In an earlier broadcast Tokyo said between 70 and 80 of the B-29s bombed Honshu, Japan's main island.

Marine's Manslaughter Plea Accepted

Watertown, N. Y., Feb. 19 [Special].—Despairing of obtaining a murder conviction against Marine Corp. Arthur D. Foster, 28, because of what he said was general sympathy on the jury panel for the accused veteran of the Pacific war, District Atty. Carl J. Hynes today asked dismissal of the murder charge and acceptance of Foster's guilty plea to manslaughter.

Victim Accused of Rape.

County Judge Howard B. Donaldson complied with the request.

Hynes' action brought the week old trial of Foster to an abrupt close with only nine of a needed 14 jurors selected. Hynes said in an affidavit that he had examined 107 veniremen and had discovered a prevailing sympathy for Foster as well as opposition to capital punishment. The corporal was wounded in fighting at Bougainville.

The murder charge was the result of the fatal stabbing by Foster of Robert E. Hodkinson, 35, in a downtown restaurant here last Nov. 16. Foster attacked Hodkinson with a Commando knife after the marine's wife, Lilybell, pointed out Hodkinson as a man whom she said raped her last summer.

"I am convinced it will be impossible to obtain a murder conviction against this man," Hynes informed Judge Donaldson. "The trial has already lasted one week and if it continues will require at least three more weeks with every prospect that the most the state can expect will be a disagreement."

Faces 10 to 20 Year Term.

Judge Donaldson agreed to the substitution of a manslaughter charge and received Foster's guilty plea. He said he will pass sentence tomorrow.

When the prospective jurors had been dismissed, many of them stepped over to Foster and shook hands with him.

Woods theater, which operates all night, said the curfew order would be observed.

A spokesman for the Clark theater, which runs on a similar basis, said a conference of executives would be held to determine upon future schedules, and the Balaban & Katz organization, which controls the Garrick theater, ordinarily closing at 3 a. m., said an announcement of policy will be made later.

Bowling alley proprietors said the curfew order would chiefly affect leagues which normally bowl in the early morning hours, such as those composed of war workers on swing shifts. Lyman Bolger, president of the Chicago Bowling Alley Proprietors' association, pointed out that some of the industrial leagues start bowling at 2 a. m. Jerry Peck, manager of the Arena bowling alleys, said he did not believe the order would seriously affect most alleys, since they have experienced difficulty in getting pin boys after midnight.

Byrnes himself expressed the view that closing of entertainment places at midnight should "impose no real hardship, and I am convinced our people at home will gladly comply with this request in view of the fact that in the period just ahead of us those in the armed services will be making greater sacrifices than ever before."

Violators Face Penalties.

He said he felt sure that state and local officials would coöperate "wholeheartedly" with the federal government in carrying out the curfew conservation order, and report any violations to the "proper authorities."

Altho the curfew decree is worded as a "request," violators face the following possible penalties:

Revocation of man power ceilings by the war man power commission, which would deprive them of employes; shutting off of their electricity, by order of the war production board; prohibition by the office of defense transportation of shipment of supplies to violators; possible revocation of rationing privileges by the office of price administration, and such additional penalties as might be imposed by local or state authorities, both of which have been requested to aid in enforcement.

Follows Many Other Curbs.

The curfew decree comes as the latest of a list of steadily tightening home front controls ordered since the German breakthru in Belgium. Others include:

Freezing of civilian production by industry at current levels, Dec. 16; closing of race tracks, ordered Dec. 23, effective Jan. 3; employment ceilings on firms rated as "less essential," Dec. 23; draft deferment reviews for professional athletes, Dec. 23; return of virtually all meats and vegetables to the ration list over the Christmas week-end; induction ordered for draft deferred job jumpers, Jan. 3; review of farm deferments for men from 18 to 25, Jan. 3; the convention ban, Jan. 5; the brown-out, with outdoor advertising and decorative lighting forbidden, Feb. 1; wiping out of most new civilian goods production authorizations, Jan. 12.

Penalty Procedure Bared.

W. H. Spencer, regional director of the war man power commission, said last night he assumed that revocation of a man power ceiling for an offending establishment would mean that the owner would be notified by the WMC that his employment ceiling is zero; in other words, that he is not entitled to hire any employes.

This fact would be certified to the war production board, which, in the event the employes did not consult the United States employment service for other jobs, could revoke the owner's MRO [maintenance, repair, and operation] order, without which he would find it difficult to operate.

In the event that the owner or owners were the only employes, similar steps might be taken directly by the war production board.

Congressman Opposes Act.

In Washington, Rep. Baldwin [R., N. Y.] opposed the midnight curfew as unnecessary and said it probably would lead to the reopening of speakeasies.

"Members of the armed forces on leave must have their entertainment—and they will get it some way or other," he said. "No such curfew is in effect in London or Paris—and I don't think it's necessary here."

Sen. McCarran [D., Nev.] felt that the ban, if continued for any length of time, would "bring the speakeasy back."

Temperance Committee to Open Session Today

The executive committee of the newly organized National Temperance Movement opened a two day session yesterday in the La Salle hotel. President W. Earl Hotalen of Birmingham, Ala., said the organization's main objective is to collaborate with all state temperance units in the nation.

Clark Gable Goes Thru City

MIDNIGHT EDICT IS BLOCKBUSTER TO MANHATTAN

Expect Curfew to Kill Supper Clubs.

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—Broadway reacted to the request of War Mobilization Director Byrnes to close all places of entertainment by midnight Feb. 26 as if a blockbuster had landed on Manhattan from Times square to Columbus circle and from 8th av. to 3d.

Several night club owners, who asked that their names not be used, said it would mean the finish for a great many of Manhattan's supper clubs for the duration of Byrnes' request. Others said it would mean immediate mushrooming of speakeasies, since the request covers drinking establishments of all kinds.

Earlier Programs Urged.

Many night club owners said they would start their day's program earlier, with cocktail hour entertainment if the Byrnes decision permitted.

Theaters will not be affected, since most legitimate stage shows end around 11 p. m.

Several night club owners said they would try to "get together" with producers in an attempt to have stage shows begin earlier, thereby permitting a brief after-theater business.

Some club owners said the curfew would throw many entertainers out of work. Several owners estimated gross revenues would be reduced by as much as 25 to 50 per cent, since the bulk of business was done in the late hours and the largest profit was realized from the sale of drinks. The legal New York closing hour for bars is 4 a. m.

Billy Rose's Comment.

Billy Rose, owner of the Diamond Horseshoe, one of Broadway's largest night clubs: "If it will help end the war one hour sooner, I'm for it 100 per cent."

Nat Harris, manager of the Latin Quarter: "Certainly we will abide without argument by whatever the government feels is needed to end the war."

Jack Entratter, manager of the Copacabana, east side night club: "We will coöperate in every way with whatever is considered necessary to win the war."

Richard Flanagan, manager of Monte Carlo: "There is no sense in kidding ourselves about this sort of thing. The boys on Iwo haven't any night clubs or saloons."

URGES JUSTICE QUIZ ON INDIANA ELECTION FUNDS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—Chairman Stewart [D., Tenn.] said today his subcommittee of the senate campaign expenditures committee probably would recommend that evidence gathered in its Indiana election inquiry be turned over to the justice department.

Stewart told a reporter that he expected to reach an agreement with Sen. Ball [R., Minn.], the other subcommittee member, over disposal of the findings.

One of the principal charges made before the committee concerned the purge of 25,000 names from the Marion county [Indianapolis] voting lists. The use of funds in the election also has been involved in the investigation.

No Marriage Plans

Looking fit and tanned after a stay in Arizona, Actor Clark Gable passed thru Chicago yesterday on his way to New York "to see the shows and pick up a story or two." Asked if he has any marriage plans, Gable answered emphatically, "No!"

When a fan at the Dearborn station, where he arrived on the Santa Fe Chief, said she hoped he would play the role of Bruce Carlton in a film version of "Forever Amber," the actor said he would "like to."

Autograph seekers, most of whom Gable obliged with a signature, included men as well as bobby soxsers.

WILLIAMS SILENT ON DROPPING OF MINISTRY PLANS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—Aubrey Williams today told the senate agricultural committee considering his nomination as chief of the rural electrification administration that his reasons for changing his plans about entering the ministry are "no concern of this committee."

"That is a matter between me and my God," he asserted.

Williams' testimony was given under questioning by Sen. Bilbo [D., Miss.] in response to a telegram from Dr. Joseph M. Broady, former pastor of the Sixth Avenue Presbyterian church, Birmingham, Ala., opposing confirmation on the grounds that Williams "denied the divinity of Christ after the church educated him for the ministry."

Williams said it is true he received a college scholarship from the Presbyterian church with the expectation he would go into the ministry. It was worth about $750, he said, adding that there was no contractual agreement that he repay it and no request for repayment ever was made.

Thruout the hearing Williams denied any connection with Communist groups.

GOSS OFFICIALS ASK RULING ON JOBS OF WOMEN

The Goss Printing Press company, 1535 S. Paulina st., has asked the federal conciliation service to define the rights of war time women workers in its plant, Emmett J. McCarthy, attorney for the company, said yesterday.

Because 10 women workers refused to leave their jobs at the demand of district 8 of the International Association of Machinists [AFL], of which they are members, 500 male employes struck recently, halting the company's production of machine tools for manufacture of navy rockets.

Arbitration that followed the men's return to work 10 days later has left the status of the dispute "more muddled than ever," McCarthy said to explain why the conciliation service has been asked to act.

HOUSE GROUP VOTES TO PROBE FARMERS' DRAFT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—The house rules committee voted today in favor of a congressional investigation of "the wholesale induction of essential farmers and farm workers."

A resolution directing the inquiry was sent to the house floor after a lively committee session, during which committee members told Maj. Gen. Hershey, selective service chief, that the drafting of farmers in many cases violated the intent of congress.

TRACTION PACT FAILS TO WRECK TRUSTEES' PLAN

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Judge Michael L. Igoe of the federal District court said yesterday the general agreement on a Chicago traction solution, reached last Saturday by Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly, would make no difference in his determination to push the so-called trustees' plan for the unification of the surface and elevated lines.

The trustees' plan would keep the transit properties under private management; the Kelly-Green set-up would be municipally owned.

"Until we see the new state legislation for the creation of a new transit district, it cannot be certain just what the program means," Judge Igoe said. "If the trustees' plan is put thru, it will be easier, when the municipal plan is ready, to absorb one company than for the city or the district to deal with bondholder groups direct."

Preliminary Work Begun.

Preliminary work on the drafting of the transit district law was started with a conference yesterday in the city hall. Present were Corporation Counsel Hodes and his assistant, Joseph Grossman; Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and super-highways; Ald. Bowler [25th], and State Sen. Daley [D., Chicago], Democratic leader in the senate.

Harrington said after the meeting that progress was made. One of the first questions taken up was the size of the proposed district. As now figured, the district would take in all the north and south suburbs and all those close in on the west.

The villages and towns can come in now or later, Harrington added, and are to hold their referendums separate from that of the city. It has been agreed that a vote of the people will be held to validate the suggested plan.

La Salle Street Calm.

La Salle street responded calmly to the news of the state-city agreement on principles. First mortgage bonds of the surface lines were up only one point, selling at 76¼, and series A bonds, a junior issue, were up from 26 to 27¾. It is regarded that under municipal ownership the firsts would receive 100 cents on the dollar.

The Kelly-Green plan would finance the purchase of the lines with funds raised by the sale of some 85 million dollars of revenue certificates, secured only by the earnings of the merged company. No taxes could be levied by the district.

Management would be placed in the hands of a seven men board, three to be appointed by the governor and four by the mayor. It would have power over rates of fare and all expenditures.

Buyers May Want Voice.

Investors in the revenue certificates, if a default should occur, would have no recourse other than to foreclose on the properties and throw them into receivership or bankruptcy. It was said foreclosure rules would be written into the agreement with the revenue certificate buyers. In this regard it was believed the buyers would probably want representation on the board, as well as an acceptable agreement on foreclosure.

Both the mayor and the governor expressed the view that the certificates would be readily salable at a low interest rate, and that ample funds for modernizing the traction lines could be borrowed.

STATE ST. BOND BUYERS GIVEN CIGARETS FREE

State st. stores opened a war bond campaign yesterday under which every buyer of a bond will receive cigarets free of charge. The premium ranges from a package of cigarets with a $25 bond to a limit of 10 for a purchase of $250 or more in bonds. The campaign, which will continue thru April 28, was initiated at Goldblatt Brothers' store, where it will run thru Saturday. It will continue in other State st. stores from week to week. At Goldblatt's, where 400 persons were in line when the doors opened at noon, the volume of bond sales exceeded a million dollars, said R. A. Richman, advertising manager.

WALLACE WOULD HINDER BETTER LIFE, TAFT SAYS

Urges Rejection in Long Senate Speech.

BY PHILIP DODD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Henry Wallace, who was denied another term as Vice President at last summer's Democratic convention in Chicago, was defended by Democrats in the senate today for the same views that kept him off their party's ticket.

Sen. Taft [R., Ohio] touched off a two hour debate with a 10,000 word speech urging the senate to vote down President Roosevelt's nomination of Wallace as secretary of commerce when it comes up for a vote March 1. Taft asserted Wallace's confirmation would destroy the confidence on which post-war prosperity depends.

Rising to Wallace's defense, Senators Hill [D., Ala.] and Pepper [D., Fla.] punctuated Taft's speech repeatedly with declarations that Wallace was an able administrator, a defender of private enterprise, and a friend of the common people.

Why Was He Shelved?

"Every argument made against Mr. Wallace has been made against Mr. Roosevelt," Pepper said. "Not only are Mr. Wallace's views the views of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, but they are the views of the American people."

"Then why," asked Taft, "did the Democratic convention deny Mr. Wallace another term as Vice President?"

"For the simple reason the delegates chose another candidate," snapper Pepper.

Taft, in his speech, said the passage by congress of the George bill—introduced by Chairman George [D., Ga.] of the senate finance committee—demonstrated an overwhelming lack of confidence in Wallace's ability to administer any position where extensive power and large sums of money are at his disposal.

Would Handicap U. S.

The George bill, which was sent to the White House after its passage by the house Friday, would remove the Reconstruction Finance corporation and other lending agencies from the commerce department and place them in an independent agency. President Roosevelt has said he will sign the bill.

"The confirmation of Mr. Wallace and his activities as secretary of commerce would destroy the very confidence which is necessary for full employment," Taft said. "It will be the greatest handicap the American people could face in seeking a higher standard of living and greater prosperity. It is hard to imagine a more inappropriate appointment."

Taft based his opposition to Wallace on three charges. They were:

1. That Wallace has clearly and repeatedly indicated his opposition to business men and their philosophy.

2. That the policies Wallace has advocated as aids to free enterprise are the very things that will destroy the freedom of the individual business man.

3. That business can have no confidence under the leadership of a man who has indicated his sympathy with communism as clearly as has Wallace.

Reads His Speeches.

Taft read excerpts from speeches and writings by Wallace in which the former Vice President called business men "Fascists" and charged that business men had to be "dragged into the war by the scruff of their necks." Taft said he didn't know of a business man who refused to go into war business "once the government had made up its mind and decided what it thought he should do."

Taft said Wallace has supported organizations cited by Atty. Gen. Biddle as subversive, has told radical groups that America has overemphasized "Bill of Rights democracy," and has predicted violence and revolution unless the American Constitution is brought "up to date."

"In my opinion," said Taft, "Mr. Wallace's program does not lead to freedom and prosperity, but must lead to national bankruptcy and a totalitarian state. The trouble with Mr. Wallace is that he can't add or subtract, and he always moves in a global sphere above the laws of gravity and arithmetic."

MRS. ROOSEVELT ASKS FOR 'GOOD,' NOT BIG, FAMILIES IN AMERICA

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 [Special].—Large families are a help to a country only if the parents are able to feed and educate their children decently, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said today in response to a question at her press conference.

"We do not want to encourage indiscriminate large families, but really good families," she said. "It does not help a country to have families of 12 children if they have inferior health or mentality."

Mrs. Roosevelt said we "have left the pioneer period during which women felt they had to have a lot of children to make up for all those who died in infancy."

She said this country does not need to make special allowances to encourage "extra children," because it is better to have more homes with four or five children, than large families of poorly educated or hungry children.

SEDITION CASE TRIAL HEARING SET FOR MARCH 1

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Echoes of the turbulent mass sedition trial of last year were heard in District court today when Justice T. Alan Goldsborough ordered a hearing on March 1 on defense motions for a speedy trial.

Altho only a few of the score of defense attorneys and only two of the defendants were in court, there were occasional flashes of the bickering that marked the eight months of the mass sedition trial—a trial that ended with the death of the trial judge, Edward C. Eicher.

Motions by Atty. James Laughlin on behalf of defendants Ellis O. Jones, Robert Noble, and Ernest F. Elmhurst brought the case back into court. Laughlin is the attorney who was barred from the first trial by Justice Eicher after he twice had been fined for contempt of court.

O. John Rogge, the special assistant attorney general who prosecuted the first trial, said that altho the government has not decided how it intends to proceed with the retrial he is ready to go to trial immediately if ordered by Justice Goldsborough.

BLASTS STIMSON FOR DISTORTED DATA ON LABOR

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 [Special].—Sen. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] today accused War Secy. Stimson of giving an "utterly unbalanced" account of the man power picture in his criticism of congressional delay on modified national service legislation.

In a radio speech last night Stimson said voluntary means had failed to hold trained men to their essential jobs, that national service legislation is the only remedy, and that "we dare not delay longer" enacting it.

"It seems to me the secretary's broadcast gives an utterly unbalanced impression to the soldiers and their families of what the United States has produced for this war under the voluntary systems," said O'Mahoney, who is a member of the senate military committee and advocate of legislative support for voluntary man power controls.

Suggests a Message.

He told reporters it "would be a pity" if the soldiers and their families got the impression from Stimson's broadcast that "management and labor have let them down."

"Our soldiers have not been let down by the people on the home front," the Wyoming senator continued. "I like to think that we alone of all the nations in the world have done this job in the free system by the voluntary acts of our people. That, I think, is the message the secretary of war ought to give the soldiers on the fighting fronts.

"For the exact measure of the 'ineffectiveness' of the voluntary system, I refer Secretary Stimson to the record of lend-lease to Britain and Russia, the nations to which he points as an example to the United States.

"We have supplied the United Kingdom, exclusive of foodstuffs, over eight billion dollars worth of ordnance, aircraft, tanks and other materials of war. To Russia, exclusive of foodstuffs, we have supplied over six billion dollars worth of war materials."

Meantime, a report circulated on Capitol hill tonight that President Roosevelt had sent up to Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] a communication supporting man power control legislation.

A bill to apply jail penalties to men 18 thru 45 who refuse to work in war jobs has been passed by the house but thus far has failed to emerge from the senate military committee.

Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.], who joined O'Mahoney in criticizing Stimson, estimated that 11 of the 18 senate committee members would vote against the bill. A compromise bill that would strengthen authority of the war man power commission over labor distribution may be reported out of the committee this week.

IMPEACHMENT OF FRANKFURTER ASKED IN HOUSE

Lifting of Ban on Reds in Army Assailed.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19. — A demand for the impeachment of Justice Frankfurter of the Supreme court was voiced by a southern Democrat on the house floor today as legislators aired their indignation over revelations of subversive trends in the new deal.

Rep. McGehee.

Two exclusive articles by Walter Trohan of THE TRIBUNE'S Washington bureau were referred to repeatedly in the heated discussion during which members demanded an immediate investigation by congress of apparent intentions on the part of those high in authority in the administration to communize this nation's form of government.

One dispatch disclosed that Justice Frankfurter is the key figure in White House intrigue aimed at placing himself on the international court of justice to be established under the Dumbarton Oaks program and men of his leftist philosophy in other high places in the post-war set-up.

Reds Permitted as Officers.

The second story revealed that the war department has issued a directive countermanding former regulations which barred Communists from officer training and assignments involving military secrecy.

The house military affairs committee, it was reported, will investigate this new army policy. The war department meanwhile announced that it had "no information" and "no comment" on the article which carried the text of the directive sent to all commanding officers.

Rep. McGehee [D., Miss.], in a sizzling speech, said congress has long been aware of the behind-the-scenes maneuvering of Justice Frankfurter "who has for 12 years been trying to change the whole set-up and structure of this great government."

"The press now reveals that this member of the Supreme court has launched out on a program of controling this country, and probably the world, by and thru the henchmen who are endowed with his philosophy," he asserted.

Charges Justice Connives.

"For some time, his tactics and conniving behind closed doors to secure appointment of men in key positions have been known. This has been done to the extent that practically every government department is now infested with those who see eye to eye with him. His intent and purpose is eventually to change the form of this government in accordance with his ideas.

"I am wondering what he is going to do with the Montgomery Ward case when it comes before the court. Any primary student in this land knows that the seizure was illegal.

"In my opinion, which is also the opinion of thousands of patriotic American citizens, this man Frankfurter, together with a few others, are the Rasputins of this administration.

Urges Impeachment Action.

"I suggest that the house committee on un-American activities delve immediately into the actions of Frankfurter with a view to bringing impeachment proceedings against him, relegating him back to private life if possible, and sending him back to the land from whence he came.

Referring to assertions in the Tribune article that Justice Frankfurter has told his friends the President will nominate him to be chief justice of the international court and that he will have the support of Churchill and Stalin, McGehee said:

"I am of the opinion that Stalin will favor him but I am loath to believe that our President and Churchill would. Stalin will no doubt favor him because of his championship of the causes of Sacco and Vanzetti, the Reds who went to the chair for murder in Massachusetts, and his work in behalf of the I. W. W. deportation cases."

Rep. Rankin, referring to the army's removal of distinction between Communists and loyal Americans, said the directive "If not treason, is very close to it."

Peril to Government.

"Communists are known to be dedicated to the overthrow of the government," he told the house. "This directive is a violation of the law of congress. It ought to be investigated and the man responsible for it ought to be impeached."

"If they are going thru with this directive on Communists," said Rep. May [D., Ky.], chairman of the house military affairs committee, "I propose to have the war department before the committee to explain it. I'm against Communists holding commissions in the army."

Rep. Rich [R., Pa.] asserted the administration "during the past few years, has been doing everything it can to aid and assist the Communists."

ASSAIL OPENING OF U.S. OFFICER CORPS TO REDS

Act Held Traitorous; Ask Congress Quiz.

Chicagoans yesterday expressed indignation at the action of the war department in permitting Communists to become officers in the army. Col. Thomas R. Gowenlock, coördinator of law enforcing agencies in Illinois, called the action traitorous, and former Rep. Fred E. Busbey [R., Ill.] said a thoro investigation should be made by congress.

Col. Gowenlock, who was intelligence chief for the 1st division in World War I., said the Communists have been trying for some time to get control of army and navy confidential files dealing with subversive elements in this country.

"The Communists, no doubt, are interested in destroying or sabotaging these files which contain information on their activities," he said.

Fear Red Caste in Army.

"Up to the present the army and the navy have had no religious, racial, or political groups. The new war department directive undoubtedly will permit the creation in the army of a communist caste which will be dedicated by its communist constitution to overthrow the United States government.

"If the directive means that the officers' corps is thrown open to full fledged Communists, it is a criminal and traitorous act."

Busbey, a former member of the Dies committee, said Communists, their sympathizers, left wingers, and so-called "liberals" are the nation's present fifth columnists.

"It is high time that the people of the United States throw off the apathy caused by the sedatives administered by these elements," he said.

Assails New Deal Trend.

"If the military affairs committee of either the senate or the house of representatives would make a thoro investigation of the intelligence branches of the war and navy departments, the dangers inherent in the directive would be revealed.

"It is additional proof of the trend of the New Deal administration to permit Communists to be placed in key positions in various departments of our government. I repeatedly brought this trend to the attention of the public."

The former representative from the 3d Illinois district said the Dies committee was informed that the intelligence department of the army was being sabotaged by the removal of older and experienced men whose places were being filled by young and inexperienced officers.

POLISH LABOR COUNCIL BACKS BIG THREE AIMS

The American Polish Labor council and the midwest division of the American Slav congress issued statements at a joint press conference yesterday supporting the recent declaration of the Big Three following the Yalta conference. The statements approved the decisions regarding Poland.

"The agreement reached at the conference guarantees the Polish people free and secret elections in which they will choose their final government. They lay the foundation for a quick victory and guarantee the freedom of the Polish nation," the statements said. The American Polish labor council says it represents 600,000 persons of Polish descent affiliated with labor unions.

Officials of the Polish American congress, which says it represents 6 million Polish people, denounced the labor council's statements. Poland is being divided for the fifth time without regard for its national rights, they said.

Shoots 10 Germans

It was a dark day for the Nazis who captured Pvt. Joseph Kelsoe, 23, of Avery, Tex., an oil field derrickman before he joined the army, while he was on a patrol mission which took him and six buddies into an enemy firing trench.

Kelsoe, bathed in the blood of one Nazi who was shot after he jumped Joe in the trench, was brought before a German officer in a house back of the enemy lines. The officer, with a revolver at his side, threatened to shoot Joe because he wouldn't give information.

While awaiting execution Joe grabbed his rifle which a guard leaned against a wall, flattened the guard with it, shot the officer and another guard thru the head, and made his way back under fire to the Yank lines. He fired 13 rounds and asserted he drilled 10 Nazis.

"I was sure worried about my wife and two kids back home," said Joe. "She had a bad cold last December."

TERMS TO ITALY DENIED, BUT ARE PUT IN RECORD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Purported Italian armistice terms that would send 800,000 Italian workers to Russia were placed in the congressional record by Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.] today after some grumbling by Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.].

Even before Bridges spread the terms in the Record, as he had announced yesterday he would do, the administration had acted to discount the document that contained them, Acting Secretary of State Grew said at a press conference before the Senate covened that the Italian armistice terms "do not include any provision whatever with regard to the exportation of labor."

But the flat confirmation or denial of the authenticity of the document, which Bridges asked yesterday, was not forthcoming.

The terms presented by Bridges were published by the International Law Review at Geneva, Switzerland. The official armistice terms have been thus far suppressed on the grounds of military security.

CUT OF CLOTHES TO COME SHOWN TOMMY ATKINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 19.—For 90 minutes today war office officials and staff waited for customers at "the largest men's shop in the world"—a London clothing depot where soldiers now may have a preview of their civilian wardrobe before discharge.

Shoals of invitations had been sent out to men on leave from overseas, wives, mothers, and sweethearts to inspect the demobilization suits. After an hour and a half in walked Sgt. Peter Donaldson, on leave from Italy, and his sweetheart. With a swarm of officials and clerks helping out, he earmarked himself a dark, chalk striped flannel suit for post-discharge wear.

The new clothing depot is said to be capable of handling more than 1,000 men daily. The civilian outfit includes a raincoat, suit, shirts, two collars, a tie, two pairs of socks, shoes, and a hat, estimated to be worth about $80.

Swedish Legation Moves 62 Miles West of Berlin

BRITON REVEALS RADAR SECRETS GUARDED BY U.S.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The blanket of censorship that has covered the miracle weapon, Radar, has been lifted by the British publication, Wireless World. While the story of how it works and what it can do has been taboo up to now for American publications, the British have been permitted to disclose some of the secrets.

In the February issue of Wireless World, Dr. R. L. Smith-Rose of the National Physical Laboratory flashes these lights on Radar:

1. The size and nature of the object [target] under observation can be determined to some extent.

2. A "picture" or "graph" of the object under observation appears on a cathode ray tube installed in the receiving equipment.

Effective for 35 miles.

3. Radar is effective for at least 35 miles.

4. The approximate elevation of a plane under observation can be determined.

5. It is effective in observing both stationary and moving targets.

In a partial explanation of Radar the author states: "A complete station consists of a combination of a transmitter and receiver. The transmitting or sending portion emits radiation over a broad arc in the approximate direction it is desired to explore. When this radiation strikes an object having apreciable conductivity or dielectric [nonconductive] constant, some of the energy is reflected or scattered back towards the receiver, which is installed moderately close to the transmitter.

Transit Time Measured.

"If the latter emits the radio waves in short trains or pulses, the time of transit of these to the reflecting target and back can be measured by displaying the received signals on the screen of a cathode ray tube." Cathode ray tubes also are employed to receive images in television.

Defining Radar, the author says, "It may be described as the art of using radio waves for the detection and location of an object, fixed or moving, by the aid of the differences of its electrical properties from those of the medium adjacent to or surrounding it."

An intrinsic feature, the writer points out, is that no coöperation whatsoever is required of the object under observation; the latter, be it an airplane, ship, building, or human being, is merely required to reflect or scatter some of the radiation which reaches it from a radio transmitter forming part of the whole radar installation.

Diagrams Type of Reflection.

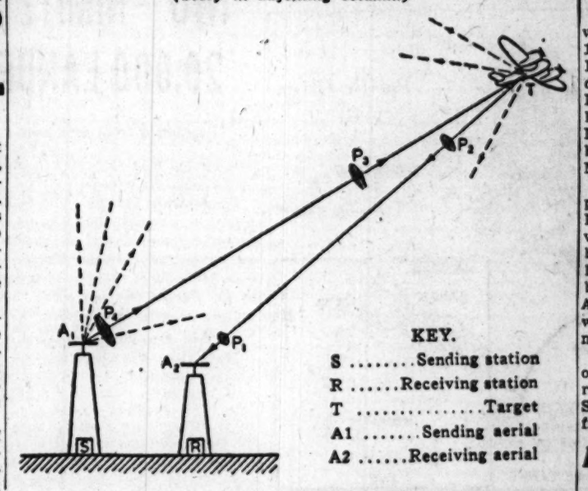
One diagram in the article purports to show the type of "picture" or reflection seen on a cathode ray tube screen when contact has been made with an object under observation.

The article points out that since the velocity of radio waves is known to be that of light [approximately 186,000 miles a second], as determined by the late Prof. A. A. Michelson of the University of Chicago, the distance can be calculated.

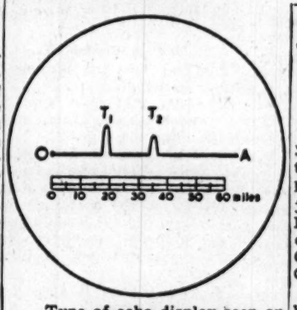
The distance figure must be "supplemented by a determination of the direction of the arrival of waves in both the horizontal and vertical planes before the actual position of the reflector in space is completely known. These measurements can be made by well established methods for observing the bearing, or azimuth [arc of the horizon], and the angle of elevation above the horizontal."

How Radar Finds Target Range

(Story in adjoining column.)



The use of pulses of radio waves (P1 to P4) emitted at regular intervals to determine the distance of the target from the sending and receiving aerials. The pulse (P4), sent from A1, bounces off the target and is received at A2.



Type of echo display seen on screen of cathode-ray tube. The fluorescent spot sweeps along the time base OA in synchronism with the transmitted radio wave pulses. The received echoes from two targets, T1 and T2, are seen at a distance from 0 corresponding to the time taken for the pulses to travel to and from the targets. The range scale shows the distances in miles of the two targets.

Kipp, whose parents live at 896 Spruce st., Winnetka, was reported missing Jan. 13. His letter was written Jan. 19.

JONAS, FISHER LISTED IN G. O. P. JUDICIAL RACE

Two more Republicans were listed yesterday among possibilities for the three places expected to be allotted to the party on the coalition judicial ticket June 4. They are Edgar A. Jonas, who sat in Superior court in 1941 by appointment of Gov. Green to fill a vacancy, and County Chairman George M. Fisher.

A sixth vacancy was made last week when Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude, Republican, announced he would retire to private practice. Republicans claim his place, in addition to the two vacancies granted them in the early stages of coalition talk.

Jonas had previously served 13 years as a Municipal court judge and had been first assistant state's attorney. Fisher, an Englewood lawyer, is a member of the state court of claims.

Republicans previously mentioned include former Speaker Schnackenberg, Leonard C. Reid, John F. Tyrrell, state chairman; Charles O. Rundall, L. A. Westcott, and Edwin A. Robson.

FRENCH SEEKING TO SMOOTH OVER F. D. R. SNUBBING

PARIS, Feb. 19 (AP).—Questions and answers in the French assembly's foreign affairs committee today confirmed reports that Gen. De Gaulle had refused an invitation to meet President Roosevelt in the Mediterranean area. Wide sections of French officialdom were critical of De Gaulle's action and were striving to arrange a face-saving compromise meeting.

Members of the committee demanded that Foreign Minister Georges Bidault explain why De Gaulle had rejected an invitation from Mr. Roosevelt to meet him somewhere in North Africa.

Bidault replied that "faithful to his policies, De Gaulle found himself unable to accept the invitation."

TANKS BATTER JAPS BURIED INTO CONCRETE FORTS

Foe Battles to Hold Volcano Slopes.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

WITH THE U. S. FLEET OFF IWO ISLAND, Feb. 19.—Covered by a merciless three day naval gunfire barrage, the United States marines are enlarging a foothold on Iwo Island tonight. The island is called the best fortified in the world.

From a terrace, an underground, concrete protected gun position was prepared to harass the attacking Americans. Most of the shore batteries, however, were silenced by the pounding of heavy naval guns.

The first wave hit the beach, traveling in armored amphibious tractors, shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. They surged 200 yards on to the island before they encountered much opposition. They were followed ashore by five waves of amphibious tractors bearing assault troops. By 10 o'clock a handful of tanks was ashore, the rest moving toward the smoke filled beach.

Artillery Goes Ashore.

Shortly after the tanks, artillery moved ashore preparatory to blasting the island, two by five miles in size. Heavy but not concentrated hell began to appear from concealed enemy batteries.

Aided by bombing and strafing from carrier based planes, the marines worked their way toward Moto airfield No. 1. A rolling naval barrage preceded the troops across the island, inhabited by 1,000 civilians. The scant distance from the mainland kept the air screen alert for bombing planes from Japan. A close watch also was kept for attempts to reënforce the Iwo garrison from nearby Japanese islands.

Japs Abandon Trenches.

They jumped into these to escape the intense artillery and mortar fire turned upon the beaches by the Japanese from inland positions.

Associated Press Photographer Joseph Rosenthal, who went ashore, said the marines were advancing from shell holes and bomb craters made by the intense American bombing and bombardment.

Japs Go Underground.

Rosenthal said he made his way 200 yards inland and 600 yards southward along the beach without seeing a single Japanese body. The Japanese apparently moved back from the beaches and went underground, as they did at Peleliu in the Palaus, where it took months to dig them out.

The defenders have good natural positions in the Suribachi volcano crater at the southern tip of the island and along the rocky northern coast. There are no coral reefs, such as at Tarawa and Kwajalein in the Marianas. Iwo lacks any sort of harbor. Vegetation on the island is sparse, with no jungle as on Guam and in the Solomons.

Looks Like A Dragon.

ABOARD ADM. TURNER'S FLAGSHIP OFF IWO, Feb. 19 (AP).—Iwo loomed today like a black, fire-spitting dragon, and tonight two marine divisions were scrambling up to an enemy airfield atop its monstrous back.

The leathernecks fought uphill and 600 yards inland from Iwo's eastern beaches to the edge of the vital bomber strip.

The field lies on a low plateau between an extinct 554 foot volcano known as Suribachi Yama and the high northern end of the island.

American casualties were considerable. Heavy Japanese artillery and mortar fire enfiladed the ranks of the marines thruout the day. Enemy shells fell on the beach area as well as offshore, making the supply problem difficult.

Jap Guns in Caves.

"Our men are spread all over hell's acre out there," Gen. Holland M. Smith said, "and they're going after those hidden Jap guns which are mighty hard to locate. Most of those guns are in caves. They come out and fire five or six rounds and then go back into hiding."

Shore batteries in the rocky caves of Suribachi Yama spat fire. Red tracer shells from our bombardment craft also were visible against the dark dawn backdrop.

Old battleships formerly of the Atlantic fleet—the Texas, New York, Idaho, Tennessee, Nevada, and Arkansas—hammered the enemy installations.

Marines Storm Beach.

Herds of amphibious tractors growled forward from LST's to the starting line. Marines crouching in Higgins boats moved into position. A lethal barrage from LCI gunboats shrouded the beach area. A heavy carrier borne strike following a dawn attack by army Liberators made the dragon island thud and shudder.

At 9 a. m. the marines stormed the beach.

In two minutes all of the first waves were ashore, meeting only slight resistance until the Japanese reorganized to place artillery fire on the 3,000 yard long beachhead.

One of the old World War I battlewagons slammed the dragon a blow in the neck, a geyser of smoke boiling up from the thin strip of the island connecting Suribachi Yama with the plateau.

On the steep slopes of the beaches you could see the tanks inching their way up the precipitous grades, belching from their flame throwers.

"The bombing and naval gunfire excellently cleaned out the heavier installations," Vice Adm. Turner said, "but by no means all of them. The over-all progress is satisfactory."

The admiral said most of the anti-aircraft guns seemed to have been wiped out. The skies over Iwo belonged to the United States, but the people aboard were crossing their fingers that the supremacy could be maintained.

800 Ships in Armada.

ABOARD A NAVY LIBERATOR BOMBER OVER IWO, Feb. 19 (AP).—Tiny, tough Iwo was ablaze from end to end today as this bomber dropped down into its battle smoke to watch wave after wave of marines plough ashore from an 800 ship invasion armada.

From 1,000 feet over the beachhead, it was obvious that the marines had a terrific battle on their hands.

Even as the mighty battleships, cruisers, and destroyers circled endlessly, sending crushing salvoes into the volcanic slopes of the island, marines were dashing for cover on the rocky southeastern beach. Some were far inland toward the airstrip.

Twice as we swung over Mount Suribachi's crater at the south end of the island and around the northern wooded section, the Japanese gave us bursts of anti-aircraft.

As we approached the island, hundreds of small craft moved toward the beach, unleashing a fierce barrage of thousands of rockets. Waves of marines followed within 45 minutes.

CHICAGO M. P. ALMOST SEIZED BY GUERRILLAS

WITH THE 96TH DIVISION IN THE PHILIPPINES. — Pvt. Allen Raff, 8049 Oglesby av., Chicago, and Pvt. John Hooper, Boston, Mass., are M. P.s in the 96th (Deadeye) division. They sought shelter in an unoccupied native shack from a sudden rainstorm recently and sat quietly smoking cigarets. Soon they became aware of noises around the shack. Looking out they saw armed Filipinos moving thru the brush and a doughboy advancing on the shack with a Browning automatic rifle. Immediately the Chicagoan and his friend were faced by 25 Filipino guerrillas armed with rifles and bolo knives and a platoon of doughboys. The owner of the shack had turned in a report that two Japs were hiding in it.

Insulted by the mistake, Raff and his pal went out in the rain and made their way back to their outfit.

JAPS ABDUCT 4 U. S. OFFICIALS OF INTERNEE CAMP

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—The Japanese appear to have abducted American officials of the Santo Tomas internment camp in Manila just before it was liberated and still may be holding them.

The disclosure came when the Philippine government's office here released a copy of "the liberation bulletin" mimeographed at the camp on liberation day, Feb. 3. Exactly who is being held is not indicated, but an entry in the latter part of the camp chronology states:

"Dec. 23. Chairman of internee committee and three others arrested and taken out of camp by military police." There is no mention of their release. The bulletin lists C. C. Grinnell as chairman of the internee committee, with L. Earl Carroll and S. L. Lloyd as members.

Bong Remains Top Ace; Downed 40 Jap Planes

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—Maj. Richard I. Bong, altho idle for several weeks, is still the ace of American army flyers with 40 "kills" to his credit, a war department compilation disclosed today. Runner-up to Bong, as of Feb. 15, was Maj. Thomas B. McGuire Jr. of San Antonio, Tex., a 5th air force pilot now missing in action. He is credited with destroying 38 enemy planes in the air. Third on the list is Lt. Col. John C. Meyer of Forrest Hills, N. Y., who has destroyed 37½ enemy aircraft. He is a pilot of the 8th air force.

'WE'RE TAKING IWO'—NIMITZ; 20,000 LANDED

shelled by United States warships on 10 separate missions.

Fleet Adm. Nimitz said Sunday night in his first bulletin on Iwo ground fighting, "The operation is proceeding satisfactorily." Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith, commander of the Pacific marines, said, "Overall progress is satisfactory."

Two Warships Damaged.

More than 800 ships were in the invasion armada. Adm. Nimitz said only two light units were damaged. The invasion fleet included battleships of the most modern type and heaviest tonnage, as well as resurrected survivors of Pearl Harbor.

A terrific fight was soon under way as the Japanese recovered from their initial shock. Japanese fire intensified as the marines moved inland. When the more rugged volcanic country back from the beaches was reached the leathernecks used flame throwers to burn out pill boxes.

Men in Command.

These are the top men in immediate command:

Vice Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner, commander amphibious expeditionary force.

Lt. Gen. Holland M. [Howlin' Mad] Smith, commander marines in the Pacific and immediate over-all commander of the invading troops.

Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt, commander of the 5th amphibious corps, United States marines, in tactical command.

Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commander 4th division.

Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commander 5th division.

The landings had the support of the United States 5th fleet under command of Adm. R. A. Spruance.

Fleet is Safeguard.

Seizure of Iwo, 675 statute miles south of the closest point on Honshu, the main Japanese island, breaches the inner ring of Japan's empire defenses and eliminates the island as a threat to the Tokyo raiding Super Fortress base in the Marianas 800 miles to the south.

The 5th fleet, including more battleships and cruisers than ever before were assembled for any operation, provides a safeguard against a Japanese naval thrust toward the Iwo beaches.

In the face of such an overwhelming American naval force so close to Tokyo, it was doubtful the elusive Japanese fleet would venture within range. Bombers flying from the mainland were the sole immediate threat.

Formed by Volcanoes.

Iwo is formed by two volcanoes, Suribachi in the southwest part and Moto on the northwest end. These are connected by a narrow neck of lowland. Suribachi is extinct and offered tough defensive positions. Moto still emits steam and sulphur vapors.

Iwo has two operative air fields and a third under construction. The main field is toward the southern end. It has three runways in a triangle pattern, the longest able to accommodate heavy bombers.

The 1943 population of Iwo was 1,091 persons—all Japanese. Thus the marines for the first time in the war were on hostile land.

JAP VERSION OF INVASION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Domei, Japanese news agency, said American warships ringing Iwo had shelled the fortress island from all points of the compass Sunday before marines stormed ashore.

Earlier Japanese broadcasts had reported simultaneous landings at two points on Iwo, but a late radio dispatch concerned itself with the thrust onto Futatsune beach, at the southwestern end of the Island. Domei said 300 landing craft, in three waves, stormed the beach.

"Japanese garrisons are fighting heroically, exacting a heavy toll of the enemy forces," the news agency claimed.

Cruisers Join Attack.

Domei broadcast these details:

"Prior to the commencement of landing operations, the enemy task force operating around Iwo on Feb. 18 fiercely shelled and bombed the Japanese positions. Between 6 a. m. and 5 p. m. two enemy battleships in waters south of the island bombarded the Japanese positions. Meanwhile several enemy cruisers approached the southern shore of the island and also bombarded our positions.

"Other enemy cruisers continued shelling the western and northeastern sectors of the island. In concert with the bombardment carried out by the enemy warships, enemy planes conducted reconnaissance over the island all day long on Feb. 18.

"Early this morning, Feb. 19, the enemy forces, under cover of an intense bombardment and aerial attack, commenced landing on Futatsune beach, located on the southern tip of the island, from approximately 300 landing craft, divided into three groups."

'WOOF' DOOMED BY FAMILY: THEY CAN'T TRUST HER

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 19 [Special].—Turning down the emotional pleas and criticism of hundreds of "dog lovers," Sgt. and Mrs. Charles Derdenger today sealed the fate of their Staffordshire terrier Woof with the decision she will die in a gas chamber this week-end for killing their baby, Marguerite, 21 months, apparently in jealousy last Tuesday night.

Efforts of others to save the dog's life by legal procedure were stalled when the city council, by a vote of 7 to 5, refused to hear an appeal for rush legislation to guarantee "every dog has his day in court." Gracy C. Terry, cafe owner and "friend of all dogs," sought vainly to have the coroner interfere and finally attempted to reach Gov. Warren by long distance telephone. A councilman commented: "There seems to be more sympathy for the dog than for the mother who lost her baby."

"Knowing Woof as we do and seeing her unpredictable act, we could never trust her again," the Derdengers said in a statement. "We feel the kindest act would be to have her put out of the way painlessly."

DRAW VEIL FROM FLOATING BASE, SECRET WEAPON

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC, Feb. 16 [Delayed].—Uncle Sam, stirred by the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, has given history a new concept of naval operations in beating the Jap fleet in waters nearly half a world away.

Aboard an administrative ship in the midst of the huge floating navy yard serving as rear echelon for the expedition against the Volcano Islands, officers of Service Squadron 10 pulled aside the curtains today to let correspondents see details of the task of servicing the greatest fighting fleet the world has ever known.

For security reasons neither the size of the fleet supporting the Volcano attack nor the make-up of its auxiliary armada can be disclosed in detail. But by a series of similes and figures, Commodore Worrall R. Carter, commander of Service Squadron 10, better known as SERONTEN, conveyed an idea of the mammoth organization that has enabled us to throw overboard the ancient principle that a navy cannot operate more than about 1,000 miles from land bases.

Nimitz' Secret Weapon.

He took the outer wraps off our floating base and gave the first comprehensive view of what Adm. Nimitz has termed his secret weapon.

Here, in a force of several hundred ships and other craft, we have every facility to handle all the major needs of our navy's fighting front. There are oilers and gasoline tankers and lubricating oil craft to keep the mechanical monsters' veins filled.

There are floating drydocks and cranes and foundries, and heavy machine ships capable of making all except the heaviest major repairs. There are ammunition ships, hospital ships, ocean-going tugs, net laying ships, surveying craft, and destroyer and small craft tenders.

There's a floating hotel to move alongside a big repair job so crews can work around the clock. There's one ship that does nothing except bake bread and pastries to feed the tens of thousands of men who give SERONTEN its life.

It's a Floating City.

SERONTEN was pictured to us as a floating industrial city equipped to keep a colossal naval task force in action and administer to its needs for fuel, ammunition, food, fresh water, medical supplies, clothing, spare parts, and personnel. Few cities of any size could accomplish the feats within the capabilities of this floating metropolis containing vessels of 36 types, according to Commodore Carter, Yarmouth, Me., who organized it.

Capt. E. E. Duvall, Baltimore, Md., is Carter's chief of staff.

Capt. Khem Palmer, Union City, Tenn., ammunition officer, explained some of the problems of hauling bombs, shells, and bullets more than 6,000 miles from the United States. An issue load comprising a complete assortment of explosives needs a train of 30 ships of 6,000 tons each, he said. For the reloading of the fleet magazines we used 12 ships carrying a cargo equivalent to 408 freight car loads.

Capt. J. B. Goode, Leaksville, N. C., operations officer, said his department was responsible for scheduling nearly 500 pieces of floating equipment.

Feeding and supplying the personal needs of the task force men is the job of Capt. W. J. Nowinski, Nanticoke, Pa. His department handles 7,000 separate items.

Comdr. J. M. Farrin, formerly of 6433 Minerva av., Chicago, represented the maintenance division. He said all except major battle damage was repairable here and that when a ship must return to its main base parts needed to repair warships remaining are stripped off.

PURSE SNATCHER GETS $13.

Mrs. Mary Lee, 846 Oakwood blvd., was robbed of $13 by a Negro who snatched her purse in front of 3349 Prairie av., yesterday, she told police.

68 TRIBUNE YANKS GET 'SHOP' LETTERS BY LINOTYPE WOMAN

A letter yesterday from Staff Sgt. George S. Smith of the 83d division in Germany to an employe of the Tribune composing room disclosed that Mrs. Nellie Mitchell, 162 E. Ontario st., a Tribune linotype operator, is corresponding with 68 men on military leave from the composing room.

Mrs. Mitchell keeps her eye on the composing room's honor roll, and when a new name is added, she puts his address on her mailing list. The men are stationed both overseas and in the United States. Mrs. Mitchell writes letters of shop activities on her linotype machine and runs off proofs which are mailed out.

Sometimes the messages are in verse, at other times in prose, and quite often they include letters from men who wish to be remembered to their former co-workers in other battle areas or camps.

Mrs. Mitchell receives many letters and some of the men have sent her souvenirs. "The men tell me that the letters take them 'right back into the shop again,'" she said.

OAK PARKER'S PT SAVES 4 IN JAP HELL FOR 3 YEARS

Britons Tell of Life as Jungle Slaves.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 7TH FLEET PT BOATS OFF LUZON, Jan. 29 [Delayed by Censor]. — Three young Englishmen and a Scot, who were captured by the Japanese at Singapore three years ago and became resigned to death, today began life anew.

A PT boat under command of Lt. George Mullen, 841 Cuyler av., Oak Park, Ill., found them living with guerrillas along the Luzon coast and brought them to an American camp.

Their story is one of horror. It begins with their capture a few days after they had arrived from England to help try to save Malaya.

They were marched with other prisoners for days into the Malayan wilderness. Men who fell were bayoneted. Then the survivors were crowded into a wire enclosure to endure months of starvation and increasing sickness. American sailors from ships sunk in Indies waters were taken to the prison and an American naval officer became "father" to the prisoners, giving them hope.

Turned Into Jungle Slaves.

The Japs needed a railroad thru Thailand's mountain jungles, a country that few white men had seen. The Japs made slaves of the prisoners, who were forced to dig out a bed for the railway and to carry heavy rails and timbers. A handful of rice morning and evening was all their food. There were no medicines. Thousands died.

Thirteen months ago 1,300 British prisoners were marched to the Indo-China coast and loaded into two stinking holds of an old lugger bound for Japan. To call it a hell ship is an understatement.

Many times the ship's machinery broke down. For four months it lay off Borneo. All the white prisoners were kept cooped up. Ten months after it left Indo-China it put into Manila as heavy aerial blows were being made on Luzon preliminary to the Leyte landing. Each evening the ship put out to sea to escape the night raids. But one night the planes saw her, saw that her decks were crowded, and believed her a troopship. They attacked.

As the first plane dived for a bomb run, the prisoners rioted. They jumped their guards, grabbed whatever floats they could, and leaped into the sea. The Japs diverted their guns from the planes to the men in the water, a fatal error. Two bombs hit the ship, one in each hold. Then a torpedo crashed amidships, and the lugger sank.

Seven Mile Swim—to Japs!

The prisoners swam for shore, seven miles away. Jap troops awaited them and retook many prisoners, but guerrillas stepped in and freed many, including the four Mullen rescued.

The four are Semin Christie, Renfrew, Scotland; G. Sizer, Bournemouth; Harry Jackman, London, and Royal Money, Cambridgeshire, England.

As they got aboard the PT boat they went wild; they hugged every one; they jumped about on their swollen, rag-wrapped feet; they shouted; they cried. One went around kissing the deck. "I'll never forget that moment," Mullen said. "It made you feel you'd done something."

The crew members fixed toasted cheese sandwiches. The four men gobbled them and their stomachs revolted, but as fast as the sandwiches came up more went down.

A sailor gave one of the Englishmen crackers and a can of cheese. Before he thought the Englishman slipped the cheese in his pocket—he must save for another day.

The four men asked questions: Was Berlin being bombed? How was England? What were PTs doing in the Philippines? The Japs had always taunted them, told them America and England were beaten.

The men wanted to know about our planes. Mullen radioed to Black Widow night fighters flying overhead and asked them to demonstrate. The planes dived and rolled and climbed.

That was the end of a perfect day. "Bloody, bloody wonderful," the men said.

URGES 'LITTLE CHURCHILLS' TO SERVE AMERICA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Sen. Mead [D., N. Y.] today told his colleagues in the senate war investigating committee that it is "the little Churchills" who are keeping the Americans at the foot of the table all over the world.

Sen. Burton [R., Ohio] was telling of British domination he found on a recent trip to North Africa and the middle east. Mead, who visited battle fronts last year, described the little Churchills who are serving their country at many strategic points around the globe.

They are Britishers of cabinet rank, he said, "who can call together the military and civilian agencies in the field and coördinate their problems and serve them." He suggested America needs such aids.

"Little Churchills are nothing new," Mead said with a sigh.

BIG JAP SUPPLY DUMP FOUND IN HILLS OF LUZON

Trucks, Tires, Canned Goods Captured.

BY WALTER SIMMONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FORT STOTSENBURG, Luzon, P. I., Feb. 19.—What is believed to be the largest Jap supply dump captured in the Philippines was taken by 40th division troops in the hills five miles southwest of here today.

After fighting their way up a series of almost perpendicular ridges, 108th regiment troops commanded by Lt. Col. Maurice Stratta of Los Angeles, Cal., looked down into a saucer shaped valley filled with enemy stores.

Find 400 Motor Vehicles.

More than 400 trucks and civilian cars taken from the Filipinos were found. There was much air field machinery, such as rollers and graders. The infantry men picked up four truckloads of machine guns. In caves they found tons of rice, hundreds of cases of canned and bottled goods, tools, ropes, batteries, chemical warfare supples, and other goods.

Cave Full of Tires.

One cave was filled with new tires, many of them American made. Another was stacked to the walls with radios. Many of the tires and trucks had been damaged by previous Yank air attacks. Some of them were burned out, but others were being used to bring the supplied out of the hills.

Outstanding among the quantities of ordnance material seized was a six inch self-propelled Jap howitzer —one of the first ever captured. How the Japs ever got the mass of material into the hills was a mystery, since the troops had difficulty getting it out over roads made by bulldozer and engineer crews.

REPORTS 4 NAZI DIVISIONS BEGIN LEAVING ITALY

ROME, Italy, Feb. 19 (AP).—Fresh reports that German forces have begun withdrawing from northern Italy came from the Swiss-Italian frontier tonight, but the allied command maintained silence on the subject. From Chiasso, Swiss border town, came word that fascists in northern Italy frantically were seeking means of assuring their own safety as Nazi troops began filtering northward. Previously there had been reports that German units from Italy already were in action on the Russian front.

The newspaper Der Bund of Bern, Switzerland, said Hitler ordered the evacuation begun last week and that four divisions already were moving thru the Brenner pass and toward Graz in Austria.

In fighting on the 8th army front near the Adriatic the Nazis again employed a new rocket weapon. The projectile is about four feet long and contains more than 80 pounds of explosive. Its range is estimated at two miles.

DECORATE LEAR FOR TRAINING COMBAT TROOPS

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Feb. 19 (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower presented an oak leaf cluster to the distinguished service medal today to Lt. Gen. Lear for "exceptionally meritorious service" as army ground forces commander from July 13, 1944, to Jan. 12, 1945.

On behalf of Gen. Marshall, the supreme commander cited Lear for his "relentless drive to more efficiently train the soldier for combat. Thru rigid adherence to sound training principles in the training of ground forces he made a distinct contribution to the fighting efficiency of the army."

Lear now supervises the allocation of American man power in this theater. As deputy theater commander he is in charge of a program to shift rear echelon personnel to reënforcement depots and combat outfits.

ONE SHIP TODAY COSTLIER TO U.S. THAN 1795 NAVY

Supply Job Growth in 150 Years Cited.

Observance of the 150th anniversary of the supply corps of the navy Friday brings into sharp contrast the present problem of supply as compared with that of 1795, when the purveyor of public supplies looked after needs of the navy along with all other government agencies.

Today the supply and maintenance cost of one small ship exceeds in a year that of the entire navy of 150 years ago. In the last two years the purchase division of the bureau of supplies and accounts has spent 12 billion dollars with 14,000 contractors for more than 100,000 separate items required to keep the fleets at war. Radio equipment alone last year cost 2½ billion dollars. Twenty millions went for one item—binoculars.

900 in Unit Personnel.

Functions of the bureau are procurement, storage, transport, banking, and salvage. The purchase division has about 900 officers, enlisted men, and civilians, including 75 of the nation's top business executives as reserve officers. Thruout the world the storage division is using 86 million square feet of space. Four thousand persons are required to disburse 80 million dollars in family allotments, and 90 millions additional monthly for war bonds and savings for the 3½ million men in the navy.

Feeding the 3½ million men three times daily is one of the largest tasks in the navy. Last year the navy needed 700 million pounds of potatoes alone.

Another Vast Item.

Clothing is another vast item. Four years ago the navy bought 200,000 work shirts. Now it needs 20 million. In addition to the regulation uniform, the bureau also supplies more than 50 types of special and protective garments.

Salvage crews operate overseas as well as in the United States. At the end of last year salvage operations had saved for the nation 60 million dollars, and this year it is estimated that 100 millions will be saved.

To expedite its tremendous task of clothing, feeding, and supplying the naval fighting forces the bureau has cut red tape by eliminating 400 forms, reports, and records. By reducing the number of copies from six to four on one form alone, 4 million sheets of paper were saved.

HALSEY RARING TO RIDE MIKADO'S HORSE IN TOKYO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19. — Adm. Halsey, commander of the 3d fleet, expressed supreme confidence today that the Japanese cannot stop us anywhere in the Pacific, and warned that the allies should beware of Japanese peace feelers.

Adm. Halsey.

Adm. Halsey, summoned to Washington by Adm. King, told reporters at a press conference it would "be the greatest crime in the history of this country" if we accept anything short of unconditional surrender by the Japanese.

"I have been one of the few who thought the Japs would break eventually," he said. "The handwriting is on the wall now. Their industrialists, who think just as much of a dollar as any one else, see what is coming and if they can get control they will put out peace feelers."

An Appeal to Mothers.

He said this phase will be most dangerous to the war program, because the Jap propaganda will appeal to the mothers of our fighting men.

"These mothers, of course, want their sons back home, but if we stop short of beating this enemy completely it will mean that we are sentencing the grandsons of these mothers to another war," he said.

The gray haired, square jawed admiral, repeatedly referred to the Japs as "rats."

He said the invasion of Iwo Island will be "tough" but not so costly as Tarawa.

"It is another magnificent show by our forces against a rapidly deteriorating ex-Japanese fleet," he said.

Possession of Iwo Island, he said, will enable us to bomb Tokyo with medium bombers as well as the B-29s and to provide fighter escort. He said there is room on the island for three air fields, and "if that isn't enough room the Seabees will build an island to hold two or three more fields."

Wants to Ride White Horse.

Asked if our pilots are under instructions not to bomb the mikado's palace, he said our forces never bomb anything except military objectives.

"Anyway, I hope they don't hit the emperor's white horse because when we get to Tokyo I want to ride it down the street," he added.

Asked if there is any "danger" that Gen. MacArthur will get to Tokyo ahead of him, he said, "We'll go to Tokyo together."

"He is a very fine man," the admiral added. "I have worked with him for two years and I have the greatest respect and admiration for him."

Adm. Halsey said he didn't know what would bring the Japanese fleet out for battle because "I can't get myself into a rat's frame of mind." The quality of Japanese pilots is deteriorating all the time, he said.

BRITISH EXPAND HOLDING SOUTH OF MANDALAY

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 19 (AP).—Despite bitter Japanese resistance, Indian and Gurkha troops are steadily enlarging their week-old bridgehead across the Irrawaddy river 35 miles below Mandalay in Burma and have the situation well in hand, allied headquarters announced today.

The 10 mile wide bridgehead is rapidly developing into a pincers threat to Mandalay in conjunction with the southward drive of British forces along the east bank of the Irrawaddy about 40 miles north of the river port. By official announcement, the march on Mandalay is under way. The Japanese were reported throwing in incessant counter-attacks against the new bridgehead near Myinmu and to be fighting around the clock. Casualties were described as heavy on both sides.

Troops of the Indian 25th division have made a successful landing at Ruywa, on the west coast of Burma, 66 miles southeast of Akyab, a bulletin disclosed.

Nazi Bigwig in Argentina? Latins Say It's Fairy Tale

Arthur Woolf said last night that he has not heard from his mother since the attack on Pearl Harbor. BURMA SURGEON BACK AT SCENE HE WROTE ABOUT

Redlands, Cal., Feb. 19 (AP).—Dr. Gordon Seagrave, missionary surgeon in Burma for 20 years before the war, has returned to the hospital in Namkhan he described in his book, "Burma Surgeon."

The doctor's wife says she has received a letter from Seagrave, recounting that he got there in time to welcome the first convoy over the Stilwell road, named for the American general with whom Seagrave and many of his hospital staff evacuated Burma when the Japs invaded. Seagrave was commissioned a colonel in the medical corps during the hazardous journey into India with Stilwell's forces.

The natives, Seagrave wrote, welcomed his return with a festival during which 150 roast pigs were served. The hospital and school buildings, he said, had been used by the Japs as barracks, and these, with the Seagrave home nearby, consequently had been bombed by American planes.

SCOTS CAPTURE MOST OF GOCH; 3D ARMY GAINS

Storm City on North Flank of Siegfried Line.

PARIS, Feb. 19 (AP).—Scottish troops and tanks virtually cleared the Siegfried line keystone of Goch tonight, and east of that town of 14,000 other forces battled south a mile and a half in a drive threatening the rear of the wavering enemy defenses of the Ruhr basin.

In the center of the western front, the United States 3d army expanded its assault lines in the Eifel mountains to 55 miles, engulfed seven more German towns and hacked clear thru the three mile deep Siegfried line on a seven mile sector south of the Rhennish Prussian base at Bitburg.

Farther south in the Moselle valley the 94th division gained a mile to a point near Muzingen, five miles inside the reich.

7th Army in Saar.

Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army, fighting on German soil in the Saar river loop, recaptured woods north of Auersmacher, six miles southeast of Saarbruecken, after the Germans had pushed back into the woods despite heavy losses. Two French villages near the Saar border farther south were cleared. Five miles southwest of Saarbruecken other units reached wooded heights overlooking the French city of Forbach.

The Roer river on the United States 1st and 9th army fronts in the area of Aachen was dropping slowly, the reservoirs upstream feeding the flood were expected to be drained within several days, and the river above the reservoirs also was receding as the effect of recent thaws waned.

The Canadian 1st army was carrying the brunt of the attack for the moment in the corridor between the Maas [Meuse] and Rhine rivers leading to the Ruhr and Rhineland.

Without waiting to withdraw the last of the battered garrison from Goch, German artillery and mortars opened up on the strategic highway center and shells fell among friend and foe alike.

Cut Across Highway.

While the final struggle for Goch neared a conclusion, Field Marshal Montgomery struck with tanks and infantry in the same sector where a near break-thru Saturday outflanked Goch.

His forces slashed across the already severed Goch-Calcar highway three miles northwest of the enemy's rear base at Uedem and were in position to sweep in behind bitterly defended Calcar two miles away, a field dispatch said.

On the 12th day of the offensive, Gen. Crerar's offensive was 17 miles beyond the jump-off line and 9,000 prisoners had been taken.

Seize Commander in Bed.

The Scots struck with such suddenness at Goch that they surprised the German commander and his staff in bed.

With fixed bayonets and supported by tanks, the infantry charged on thru the rubble of Goch's ruined streets, clearing the enemy from the north side of the Niers river, and driving the garrison from half of the southern part of the city.

The Scots applied a pincers to Goch, one column driving down from the northeast, head-on into the city, bisected by the Niers river.

The second column, already across the Niers, knifed in at the back door, and this was the force that seized Col. Paul Matussek, the garrison commander, and his staff of a major and two lieutenants, in their nightshirts.

Farther south Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army advanced up to a mile on a 55 mile front, captured several more German towns, tied down large numbers of enemy troops and was cutting them down with artillery.

A front report said some German units suffered casualties as high as 50 per cent, while American losses were described as light.

Scots and Yanks Make Gains

(Story in adjoining column.)

the last few days after hitch-hiking by train and truck 1,000 miles. Plans for large scale movement still are in process of completion, however.

All the prisoners reaching here confirmed the old charge that the Germans provided a starvation diet for allied officers and men alike. Without Red Cross parcels there would have been a situation tantamount to mass murder, they said.

The Germans drew no distinction between American Jews and non-Jews, except to forbid Jewish medical officers to treat any patients.

The released prisoners estimated that the daily ration provided by the Germans contained not more than 1,300 calories, altho 1,800 calories is commonly accepted as the minimum necessary even for bedridden persons.

Suffer from Cold.

It is estimated that 85 per cent of the prisoners in Szubin's Oflag 64 suffered chilblains from temperatures only five degrees above freezing in their unheated barracks.

The Germans supplied no clothing and eventually discontinued the practice of giving a new arrival two thin blankets for bedding. One small face towel was issued weekly for individual use and a second one was refused if the first came back "too dirty."

Allied wounded were not removed from the German camp at Wollenstein on the German border and all the patients were reported to have fallen into Russian hands safely.

Three American officers in the adventurous vanguard of escaped prisoners told today of hitchhiking across Poland and a part of Russia.

The three are Capt. Ernest M. Gruenberg, 29, New York, a physician in the 101st air borne division; Lt. Frank H. Colley, 29, of Washington, Ga., a member of the 17th field artillery, and Lt. John N. Demling Jr., 30, Winston-Salem, N. C., a member of the 30th infantry.

From Camp in Poland.

On Jan. 21, 1945, the Germans herded the American officers, who were able to walk out of the camp, and started them west just ahead of the drive by the 1st White Russian army group.

The sick and wounded were left behind, but they now are in safe hands.

The officers said for several days before they hurried off they saw the road which passes the camp choked full of German civilians fleeing westward.

"We strung in with them—we and our German guard," Colley said.

This strange column of frightened German housewives, perspiring men civilians, minor members of the Nazi party, Polish slaves, and several hundred American officers in uniform slowed down near a manor estate on which had recently been living one Baron Von Rosen from the Baltic country.

Last Night as Captives.

"Our guards shoved us in the baron's barn," Demling said, "and with lots of other American soldiers we slept there for a night—a night which turned out to be our last in captivity."

While the American prisoners and German guards were resting at the manor, White Russian tanks were rolling westward rapidly and as the tanks rolled nearer the guards disappeared.

"Off in the distance we heard a lot of yelling," Gruenberg said. "This was followed by the unmistakable sound of tanks. We rushed to the window and looked out and there they were—the Red army rolling up in Sherman tanks."

"We kept looking out the baron's window at the passing scene," Colley said, "and there were many Shermans, Studebakers, Chevrolets, G-M's, Fords, half trucks, and so on."

Colley said the Russian stream kept up for hour after hour—tank after tank piled high with Russian infantrymen heading westward.

"Boy, those Russian made tanks were something," Colley continued. "I'd say they were about one and a half times as big as our Shermans."

Set Up Hospital.

The next day a large group of Americans went to the town of Exin and, while they were waiting for transportation, Gruenberg and two other American doctors, a captain Van Gorder and a Captain Radda, both of the 101st air borne division, set up a hospital with German medical supplies they found in a church.

The doctors worked alone until the Russians came in and set up a regular hospital with a woman major in charge. The Americans and the Russian doctors worked side by side until the Americans left for Moscow.

The woman major gave one of the American doctors a piece of paper on which she scrawled that he had treated Russian wounded and this document served as the Americans' pass all the way across Poland and into Moscow.

A large group of American officers set out on their own Feb. 3, receiving what they described as "wonderful coöperation" from the Russians and the Poles all the way.

Change Gauge of Rails.

"About 20 of us rode in the caboose of a train as the guests of Russian officers," Demling said. "But we had to get out after a while because we ran into a place where the track was being changed from narrow gauge to Russian wide gauge.

"We got a good explanation. The Russians told us, 'We'll make it wide gauge all the way to Berlin.'"

The Americans encountered a Russian general the following day who told them to go to the highway and hop a truck. They took his advice and continued their trip.

The driver "told us he had gotten his Studebaker in Iran, and had driven it right into Germany," Gruenberg said.

The officer, now safe in Moscow, said a number of Yanks—he knew of at least one personally—now were fighting beside Russian troops following escape from German camps.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—The names of 27 American prisoners of war reported unofficially to have been liberated from German prison camps in Poland by Russian forces were released today by the war department. Relatives will be advised when official confirmation and further details are obtained.

Among the 27 were an Illinoisan, two men from Michigan, and one from Indiana. They were:

NAZIS HAIL NEW MIDGET SUB AS POTENT WEAPON

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP).—German broadcasts boasted today of successes for new midget U-boats, and hinted at a new secret air weapon.

DNB declared midget submarines, penetrating the Thames estuary to attack an allied convoy bound from Britain to Holland, sank one freighter and probably another. It described the craft as "long, bulky iron swimmers," and added these details:

Calls Activity Promising.

"In the center is a small turret just big enough to give space for one man. On top of this is a vaulting glass dome and the periscope. Before entering this novel weapon, a man must train several months and for the last three days live on a light diet."

A Nazi broadcaster, Dr. Rudolf Semmler, asserted "recent German U-boat activity is most promising for the development of the west front situation, and even indirectly promises relief to our hard pressed east front. Every ship sunk now carrying supplies to the allies' west front armies is worth two or three sunk during the last U-boat offensive."

Semmler also hinted at a new air weapon in declaring that "the destruction of Dresden will not remain unavenged."

Moscow Reports Disorders.

"It should not be forgotten," he said, "that the German high command still has some means at its disposal with which to revenge attacks on refugees, as happened at Dresden."

Moscow radio and other continental sources reported disorders in bomb blackened Dresden and other Saxony towns imperiled by the soviet offensive.

ARMY SEX FILM MAKES HIM FEAR GIRLS, YANK SAYS

Lectures, Pamphlets Blamed for Neurosis.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 19.—High pressure propaganda sometimes defeats itself. It happened in the case of Staff Sgt. N. Shapiro of the signal corps.

Shapiro's complaint is not about the propaganda to raise his morale, or make him believe the allies always will see eye to eye, or convince him Stalin believes as fervently in democracy as does the average American. Shapiro objects to the effect propaganda is having on him and his attitude toward womanhood. Following is the letter he wrote to Stars and Stripes, United States army newspaper here:

"For quite a long time I have been harboring a really serious complaint, but only recently has it finally become unbearable—merely because of the army signal corps picture, 'Pickup.' I feel it your duty as the representative of the enlisted man to appeal to the powers that be, which are turning good, red-blooded Americans, against all womanhood.

Attitude Good—At First.

"When I entered the army I was instructed in the dangers of loose acts, and the results were, I believe, beneficial. But as time went on and I was exposed to more and more lectures, booklets, and films on the subjects, I noticed a distinct neurosis developing in my attitude toward women—all women. In days of yore I would stand on a corner and indulge in the good old American custom of whistling at all the pretty girls who passed. And if, perchance, one glanced demurely my way and lowered her eyes, I received an electric shock in my spine which kept me pepped up for the balance of the day.

"Observe the change which has come over me now.

Allergic to All Women.

"Lovely blondes accost me with 'Hello, babee,' but no thrill runs down my spine. Instead, the memory of the poor sucker in the film 'Pickup' and the lunatic who continually stroked his hair and muttered gibberish rise up before me, and I shrink away in horror. I find I am now afraid even to talk to the Red Cross girls. The thought of all the female relatives and friends I must kiss on returning home nauseates me. I'll be due for rotation soon, but how can I return home in this condition?

"Surely you can see the menace of this policy, which is undermining the traditional pedestal upon which all red blooded Americans always have placed their ideals. Please, before it's too late, do something! Leave no stone unturned—there may still be time."

YANK AIRMEN TEAR AT REICH IN 'WOLF PACKS'

LONDON, Feb. 20 [Tuesday] (AP).—British bombers kept the mighty allied aerial assault rolling against Germany last night after nearly 1,400 United States and R. A. F. heavy bombers had pounded 13 rail and industrial targets in the western reich during the day and other heavies from the United States 15th air force in Italy ripped enemy communications in Austria.

Shortly before midnight the R. A. F. announced that a force of Mosquito bombers had attacked the important rail and road junction of Erfurt in Thuringia, 63 miles southwest of Leipzig.

The major daylight operations were carried out by 100-bomber "wolf packs" of the United States 8th air force, which sent aloft more than 1,100 Flying Fortresses and Liberators with an escort of 500 fighters.

Scores of workers, mostly women, were killed or injured when a German V-bomb smashed into a factory in southern England recently. The missiles continued to land in southern England yesterday, the air ministry announced.

CHURCHILL BACK TO GIVE REPORT ON YALTA TRIP

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill returned tonight to 10 Downing Street, and conferred immediately with his cabinet on the Crimea decisions for winding up the war and winning the peace. He is expected to address commons in a first-hand report, perhaps later this week.

Selection of the British delegation to the San Francisco conference in April, when a united nations security league is to be formed, is expected to be one of Churchill's early acts. Diplomats here said they believed the post of first president of the security league would be offered to former Secretary of State Cordell Hull as a gesture for his "blueprint" work at Dumbarton Oaks.

The post would not be taxing on his health, they said, since the president would preside over only one session of the general assembly.

SHOT RESISTING THREE ROBBERS.

Alvin T. Lewis, 38, of 1220 N. Clark st., a boat repairman, was shot in the neck early yesterday in front of 1247 N. Clark st., when he resisted three men who tried to rob him.

TO SMIGIELSKIS THE 12TH BRINGS GRIEF AND JOY

The 12th of the month has often been an eventful day for the Smigielski family of 4323 Belden av. This month the 12th brought mingled joy and grief to the home as Vincent, 58, the father, died 12 hours before his son, Sgt. Bill, 25, was reported safe as a prisoner of war in Germany. Grief over Bill, who had been reported missing in action Dec. 12, hastened his father's death, the family said.

Sgt. Smigielski.

Bill, who was graduated from Lane Technical High school in 1936, entered the army Aug. 12, 1943. On June 12, 1944, he went overseas. On Oct. 12 he was awarded the air medal for meritorious work over Germany. Then on Dec. 12 he was reported missing in action over Germany. The family has another son and a daughter.

BATTLES RAGE ALONG 62 MILES OF BERLIN FLANK

Reds Fight Into Guben, Then Hurled Out: Nazis.

LONDON, Feb. 20 [Tuesday] (AP).—Russian troops, advancing up to six miles, yesterday captured the Polish Vistula river fortress town of Nowe [Neuenburg], 47 miles south of Danzig. An early morning soviet bulletin said 1,500 enemy troops were slain as they tried to break out of encircled Grudziadz, 10 miles south of Nowe.

Berlin reported meanwhile that Russian forces had temporarily captured Guben, key road hub 51 miles southeast of the German capital.

Enemy broadcasts said Nazi counter-attacks later expelled the Russians from Guben and also recaptured the strongholds of Sommerfeld, Sorau, and Sagan, on a 35 mile front southeast of Guben.

Moscow's bulletin did not mention that vital sector, where the 1st White Russian and 1st Ukraine armies under Marshals Zhukov and Konev were trying to weld their flanks securely in preparation for an all-out blow toward Berlin.

Fight on 62 Mile Front.

The Germans, however, said that mobile battles raged all along the 62 mile front between Guben and Lauban, west bank Queis river town 12 miles east of Silesia's second city of Goerlitz on the road to Dresden, and 13 miles from the German Saxon frontier where it joins the Bohemian border of Czechoslovakia.

The Germans also told of Red army attempts to break thru to Cottbus, on the Spree river 21 miles southwest of Guben. The Spree, which flows into Berlin, is the last natural defense line for the capital, along with the lakes on the southeastern approaches to Berlin. Cottbus is 47 miles from greater Berlin.

On the icy Pomeranian front northeast of Berlin the Germans were reported hurling in fresh forces near Stargard, outer bastion protecting Stettin, Berlin's Baltic port at the mouth of the Oder river 19 miles to the west.

Reds Lose Towns.

Moscow said Russian troops on the Samland peninsula, northwest of Koenigsberg, had smashed enemy tank and infantry attacks seeking to break out of encircled Koenigsberg, East Prussian capital.

The only mention of Silesia in the Russian bulletin was of the area around Breslau, Silesian capital of 630,000 which the Russians last Friday announced they had encircled.

Red army troops captured a few more Breslau suburbs, including Treschen and Brockau on the southeastern and southern edge of the Silesian capital, gaining up to three miles as they tightened their siege ring.

Moscow acknowledged a reverse for Marshal Malinovsky's 2d Ukraine army troops in the sector east of Komarom [Komarno], Danube river town 40 miles northwest of fallen Budapest and 84 miles east of Vienna.

The Russians withdrew from several localities after repulsing strong enemy infantry and tank attacks, the Soviet bulletin said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Rep. Luce [R., Conn.], denouncing the sellout of Poland as making "traitors" of Poles fighting with the allies, today called upon the United States to open its doors to loyal Polish soldiers and their families after the war.

The congresswoman said there are 150,000 Poles fighting with the allied forces under allegiance to their exile government in London, which Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin renounced at the Crimean conference. Her resolution, offered today, would raise immigration quotas to admit these men and their families.

She charged Mr. Roosevelt's acquiescence to the carving up Poland marks the first time in history that "the American government is participating in the forcible partitioning of a friendly sovereign nation."

"The results of the Crimean conference," Mrs. Luce said in a statement, "would inevitably condemn these 150,000 men, if they prefer to remain loyal to their constitutional government, pledged to Polish territorial integrity, to choosing between being treated as traitors when they go home or to becoming men without a country."

PACKING HOUSE WORKERS DELAY CALL OF STRIKE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—A threatened strike call in the nation's meat packing industry was postponed today by CIO packing house workers who hoped for a war labor board decision in the meantime.

The strike threat arose over what the union contends is a long delay by the board which is blamed on Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilizer, who has requested the board to give the office of price administration veto powers over wage adjustments which might raise prices.

Lewis J. Clark, union president, said sufficient assurances had been received from the board to warrant putting off until tomorrow night, at least, the notice of intention to strike in 30 days, under terms of the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act. Clark said directly involved in the meat packing case are 125,000 production and maintenance employes in 23 plants of Swift & Co., 24 plants of Armour & Co., eight plants of Wilson & Co., Inc., 11 plants of the Cudahy Packing company, and two plants of John Morrell & Co. The plants are located in the middle west.

India's Casualties List 17,363 Dead; 45,906 Hurt

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 19 [Reuters].—India's war casualties are—17,363 killed; 45,906 wounded; 13,543 missing; 52,998 prisoners of war and 22,036 believed prisoners. Figures were given in the legislative assembly today by Chandumall Mahhavial Trivedi, secretary for war.

CRISIS WORRIES RICH GERMANS IN ARGENTINA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 19.—Political circles here predict Argentina will seize the opportunity to declare war on Germany and thereby enter the allied lineup without giving the impression that the proud South American country is acting under United States pressure.

Meanwhile, Argentina "exiles" here add this sardonic note: "Would it also provide a pretext to the Argentine government to call off its promised elections and prolong the reign of the provincial colonels?"

Nazi circles in Buenos Aires were reported not overly perturbed by the situation, but numerous wealthy Germans—many of them experts in the government's munitions and war factories in the province of Cordoba—are nonplussed.

Face Deportation to Reich.

Prosperous Germans of military age, living a luxurious existence in fashionable summer resorts, present a gloomy and subdued appearance. Should war be declared they face deportation to Germany.

Recent visitors to Cordoba bring back strange tales of Nazis swarming all over the expensive holiday resort of La Falda, of the Nazi swastika flag over swank Eden hotel, and of German and pro-German hotel guests bellowing "Heil Hitler" when entering the hotel.

In the nearby resort of La Cumbre, multimillionaire Fritz Mandl, former husband of Hollywood actress Hedy Lamarr, has purchased a large, unsightly, white stone castle built into a mountain face and surrounded by miles of turreted wall.

Former Austrian Chief.

In a small nearby cottage, residence of the original proprietor's seneschal, resides Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, former vice chancellor of Austria and R. A. F. pilot, and his Chilean movie actress wife, who pass their idle existence on Mandl's bounty. The prince is frequently seen on horseback but rarely goes into town. His wife is leaving for Chile this week to make a new movie.

In short, travelers depict life in the hills and dales of Cordoba as a veritable Nazi paradise where non-German inhabitants are expected to pay reverence to their Nazi "betters" or suffer banishment to the more remote regions.

Gary Flyer 300th Saved by RAF Rescue Squadron

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP).—Lt. J. E. Keelan of 4020 Cleveland av., Gary, Ind., who was picked up out of the North Sea over the week-end, was the 300th airman rescued by one R. A. F. air-sea rescue squadron. Keelan was the navigator on a Flying Fortress that caught fire and had to be abandoned. Not long after he hit the water a Walrus piloted by Flying Officer Fred Beadle, one of the air-sea rescue aces, landed nearby and took him aboard.

SPRING IN AIR, YANKS RARIN' TO 'SWIM RHINE'

Mud Begins to Dry in Balmy Sun.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Feb. 19.—Thirty days before winter's official ending on March 21, spring was in the air today and the elixir of sunshine and balmy weather was drying the mud and galvanizing activity along the entire front.

Troops in advanced positions dug new and fresh foxholes, piling straw and branches inside for warmth and dryness during the night. Those in support and in rear areas spread blankets and lay on the ground relaxing. Those packed in motor truck convoys sang and "kidded" the cheering, waving peasants. And countless thousands working on roads and highways wielded shovels, pick axes, and compressed air drills as tho being paid $8 a day for their work.

"We'll Swim the Rhine."

Blue skies were overhead and the sun was beating down. Every Messerschmitt was shooed back by patroling allied fighters. Nostalgic G. I.s slapped one another on the back and repeated their heart felt slogan: "Won't be long now."

"To hell with the Roer and to hell with the Rhine—we'll swim them," they replied to a smart guy, a sergeant who relayed the information that the raging river was surging at nine feet per second.

Farmer lads in tank crew uniforms snipped pussy willows from creek banks and pointed to birds building nests in the eaves of thatched roofs, where they billeted to prove that the day was approaching when the allies would get on the move.

Foes Feel Out Each Other.

And all along the front during darkness both belligerents probed, raided, and felt out each other's lines, seizing a couple of prisoners here and there to confirm identifications of units opposing them or to discover if a new outfit was thrown in.

Even the stern, martial brass hats in headquarters seemed to imbibe the spirit of spring, with the Yanks laying down a smoke screen and the Nazis slamming down a terrific barrage.

ENGINEERS TURN GHOST TOWN INTO BIG TANK PLANT

The story of a Chicago war plant which in 93 days rose from a ghost town in Hegewisch to a huge factory which has produced 10,000 tanks in less than four years was told last night in the third program of America Unlimited over radio station W-G-N.

The broadcast, telling the dramatic history of the Pressed Steel Car company, pointed out the great need for additional war workers. It also emphasized why workers in war plants must remain on their jobs as many hours a week as possible.

Transformation Is Swift.

The program told how a group of engineers representing a manufacturing company in Pennsylvania arrived in Hegewisch on Feb. 20, 1941, with a government order to build a factory. Before them stood only a skeleton building, empty for more than 10 years. In less than two months American ingenuity had created a factory with a production line more than 2,000 feet long.

Workers Save Lives.

Presented by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and W-G-N, in coöperation with the army, navy, war agencies, and leading war industries, this series attempts to show each war worker the vital role he plays in achieving victory. His contribution in saving the lives of allied soldiers on every battlefront is made clear. The show is presented over W-G-N each Monday night from 9 to 9:30 p. m.

The script for last night's broadcast was written by Jack La Frandre with original music by Robert Trendler. Other companies who will participate in the series are the Ingersoll steel and disc division of Borg-Warner, whose story will be told next Monday night, the Aluminum Company of America, the electro-motive division of General Motors, Western Electric company, the Buda company, and the Hallicrafters company.

150 LEADERS PUT THRU PACES IN RED CROSS DRIVE

John H. Platt, promotion chairman of the Red Cross 1945 war fund campaign in the Chicago district, last night put 150 leaders of the business division of the campaign thru their paces as representatives of the Chicago chapter in its drive for $11,300,000, to open March 1. The meeting took place in the Blackstone hotel.

A pageant, an army signal corps movie of the battle for Rendova, and a lecture by John Neblett, radio commentator, described the role of the Red Cross in aiding fighting men, a message the workers will use in their fund solicitations.

"This will be the toughest year of the war for our fighters," Platt said. "It is up to the people here at home to help the Red Cross in its fight against pain and death."

Martin H. Kennelly, campaign chairman, presided at the session, which was one of several preceding the kick-off of the drive in Cook and DuPage counties, and the southern half of Lake county. The drive will close March 31.

Woman, 87, Dies as Fire Sweeps Thru Her Cottage

Mrs. Maria Steck, 87, a widow, was fatally burned last night by fire which broke out in her frame cottage at 6724 Perry av., where she lived alone. Neighbors discovered the fire, which started in the basement, and turned in the alarm. Mrs. Steck was found by firemen in the hallway, near the kitchen, indicating that she had tried to escape.

A CASE OF COCKEYED SEQUENCE

We don't want sympathy — not a bit of it — but, my friend, if you've got a bit of understanding you can spare we can sure use it. When you get caught between a high standard of excellence in service, on the one hand, and help shortage accompanied by wage ceilings on the other — take it from me you're standing between the devil and the deep blue sea.

Have you heard the story of one of our waitresses who served breakfast to one of our customers. She served the toast — served the coffee, and 10 minutes later breezed over with the orange juice. The customer complained about the cockeyed sequence. "Are you married?" — asked our waitress. "Yes" — said the customer — "What's that got to do with it?" "Well" — sez our dilemma — "Why don't you have breakfast at home?"

How do we feel about it? What do you think? But thanks a lot for understanding.

SUSPECT F. D. R. WANTS STASSEN AS FOE IN 1948

Minnesotan Going Thru Willkie's Paces.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19. — Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, widely regarded among politicians as President Roosevelt's candidate for the Republican nomination for President in 1948, reached Washington today with Adm. Halsey, commander of the 3d fleet in the far Pacific, to whom he is assistant chief of staff, aide, and flag secretary.

Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, whom the President has named as Republican party delegate to the allied nations conference at San Francisco April 25, appeared at a press conference held by the admiral but had nothing to say pending his own press conference tomorrow. Asked whether he would give his flag secretary leave to attend the San Francisco conference to draft a post-war peace plan Adm. Halsey smiled that he was seriously considering it, tho it would be difficult to replace Stassen.

Appointment No Surprise.

The appointment of 38 year old Stassen, who advocates the incorporation of the United States into a world super-state, occasioned no surprise to the politicians who long have looked upon him as the fair haired Republican of the Roosevelt administration and the successor in that respect of the late Wendell Willkie.

Willkie was Mr. Roosevelt's choice for the Republican nomination for President in 1944 as he had been in 1940 when the President was reputed to have had a good deal to do with the drive that landed the barefoot boy of Wall street on the Republican ticket at the Philadelphia convention. Mr. Roosevelt's school of practical politics teaches that you have won half your battle if you have been able to select your opponent.

The President had every reason to be pleased with Mr. Willkie as his opponent in 1940. In the campaign Willkie stood on the Democratic as much as the Republican platform and after being defeated indorsed the President's intervention policy and excused his animadversions on Mr. Roosevelt during the election canvass as "campaign oratory." Finally the President provided Willkie with an army bomber and ambassador's credentials for a tour of allied capitals from which he returned to publish his book, "One World," an outstanding tract for internationalism.

Willkie Ballyhoo Recalled.

These and other evidences of the high favor he enjoyed at the White House convinced the politicians that Willkie was being groomed by the President for the Republican nomination in 1944. The New Deal organs conspicuously boosted Willkie for Republican opponent of the President for a fourth term and the Democratic organization sent Democrats into Republican primaries, notably in Wisconsin, to vote for Willkie. All to no avail, however, for the Willkie candidacy was snuffed out in the first primary, that in Wisconsin where the White House favorite and avatar of internationalism failed to win a single delegate.

Now, as the politicians view it, Mr. Roosevelt, as he groomed Willkie in 1944, is grooming Stassen for the Republican nomination in 1948. Stassen, if nominated, would be the opponent of Mr. Roosevelt, in the event of the President's candidacy for a fifth term, or of the Democratic nominee the President will seek to name. Former Vice President Wallace is the Presidential favorite for the nomination, conditional upon Mr. Roosevelt not running again. In any event, as between Stassen and his Democratic opponent, the issue of internationalism would be removed from the election as effectively as in 1944 by Gov. Dewey's espousal of the President's international program, which unexpectedly worked out fully as satisfactory for Mr. Roosevelt as if Willkie had been the Republican candidate.

Slap at Dewey, Too.

Some of the politicians see in the Stassen selection for the San Francisco conference not only a Roosevelt sponsored build-up of the former Minnesota governor for 1948 but a Presidential swat at Gov. Dewey. In the political rule book, particularly the President's, Dewey would be the logical appointee to represent the Republican party.

After the 1936 election Mr. Roosevelt sent his defeated opponent, Gov. Landon, to represent the United States at the 1938 Pan-American conference. It appears, however, that Gov. Dewey never stood any chance of being chosen for San Francisco. The President is said to be exceeding wroth with Dewey for impugning his integrity in campaign speeches for which the New York governor has yet to offer the Willkie excuse of "campaign oratory."

Stassen has been closely linked politically with the Roosevelt administration for several years. He resigned as governor early in 1943 to enter war service and acquire thereby the record of military service virtually essential to any young man who might later be a candidate for President. He took a two months naval training course at Fort Schuyler, the Bronx, New York, and thereafter his rise was meteoric to the rank of commander and his present position on Adm. Halsey's staff. It is understood that he now is to be placed on an inactive status for the period of his attendance of the San Francisco conference, if not longer.

Ball Pushes Program.

The political link was drawn closer by the events of 1944. Sen. Ball [R., Minn.], who came to the senate as Gov. Stassen's appointee to fill the Lundeen vacancy, fused the Stassen and Roosevelt international programs in a resolution proposing an international police force to enforce peace, which was sponsored by himself and Sen. Burton [R., O.] and two New Deal senators, Hatch [N. M.] and Hill [Ala.]. Ball was the leader of the Stassen bid for the Republican nomination at Chicago but the Stassen forces joined in making the nomination of Dewey unanimous.

Ball, however, became increasingly unhappy as a supporter of Dewey, whose post-war peace program he found a pale and inadequate copy of Mr. Roosevelt's. After responding to an invitation to the White House and having a two hour talk with the President and Harry Hopkins, Ball bolted the Republican ticket and came out for Mr. Roosevelt for a fourth term.

Rift with Dewey Widens.

As Stassen and Roosevelt drew closer together Stassen and Dewey drew farther apart. At the Indianapolis meeting of the Republican national committee last month it was a Stassen lieutenant, former Mayor Arthur Nelson of St. Paul, who voiced the opposition to the retention of Dewey's friend, Herbert Brownell, as chairman of the committee, because of the implication that Brownell will promote the nomination of Dewey in 1948.

Stassen set forth his proposal of a world super government rather elaborately in 1943. The "key unit," as Stassen termed it, of the super government would be a world parliament which would enact laws by a two-thirds or three-fourths majority. Representation of the United States and other nations in this world governing body would be determined by "the actual strength each nation has" measured by population, industrial development, resources and literacy.

THE QUESTION.
What don't you like about boys?

WHERE ASKED.
57th st. I. C. station.

THE ANSWERS.

Kay Wohl, 11, of 5474 Hyde Park blvd.—Boys show off too much. They do this in many different ways. They like to fight to show they are stronger than the boy they're fighting with. Then, too, boys go out of their way to attract attention of girls. For some reason they have the idea they're far superior to girls.

Sherry Grossman, 8, of 905 Winona st.—Sometimes boys are too mean. They always want to play war games, shooting and falling down on their faces. I want to play with them, but I don't want to play like they do. I think it's silly to run around saying, "Bang, bang, bang," and then fall down and get all dirty.

Judith Friedman, 10, of 8329 Ingleside av.—Whenever the teacher is out of the room boys start talking and jumping out of their seats. Then the whole class gets a scolding. They're not nice. They don't know how to behave. They are always starting fights—if it isn't with the girls it's with another boy.

Joyce Tompkins, 11, of 5728 Blackstone av.—I think they ought to wash their faces more often. Boys don't care if they're clean or dirty, ragged or neat. Some boys I know are mean and awfully rough. They don't know how to act around a girl. I guess they don't know it hurts to be hit with their fists.

Maxine Klein, 10, of 5485 Hyde Park blvd.—When we first got our Girl Scout uniforms they sneered. They think they're better than girls, and try to make us feel like two cents all the time. If you don't treat them exactly right their feelings are hurt, and just to get even they say mean things.

Ann Reinheimer, 11, of 5454 South Shore dr.—Most boys are so dumb! They don't care about their studies, their manners, their language. The marks they get in school don't make any difference to them. All they care about is playing football and wrestling, and thinking up ways they can tease us girls.

CHICAGOANS ARE AMONG WOUNDED RETURNED TO U.S.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp Shanks, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Being on his way home still seemed quite unbelievable today for Pvt. James R. Brooks Jr., 6922 S. Normal blvd., Chicago, but he gave himself a convincing pinch. It really was true. He and hundreds of other soldiers arrived at this camp yesterday from European battlefields where they were wounded.

For Jimmy, a journalism student at the University of Illinois and a member of the Illini sports staff before entering the army in March, 1943, his arrival was another step in a medical chain that began when mortar fire that killed a fellow tank corpsman two feet away shattered the nerve of his right foot.

Will Go to Chicago Hospital.

That was last Nov. 30, in the big air and tank battle along the Roer river. Jimmy was in a hospital in Holland when the only available American newspaper was an old election day copy of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, badly dogeared from reading by soldiers hungry for news from home. He spent his 20th birthday last Dec. 14 in an English hospital.

Jimmy expects to complete his surgical treatment in a Chicago hospital. So does another Chicagoan, Pvt. Henry Furmankiewicz of 8251 Coles av., who is recovering from shrapnel wounds in the chest which, he complained, prevented him from participating in the liberation of Paris. Chicago is also the hoped for destination of Pvt. John Rymer, 1509 174th pl., Hammond, Ind., suffering from trench foot after 14 months overseas.

Chicagoans Listed.

Soldiers from Chicago and its vicinity who returned are:

UNDER 30 DRAFT DEFERMENT DUE FOR 1¼ MILLION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Instead of "a very limited number," as officially announced, approximately 1,250,000 men under 30 who hold key jobs in war industries stand to be deferred from the draft.

This became known today when an official of selective service acknowledged that the new program allows the deferment of 30 per cent of all registrants who were classified 2-A and 2-B as of Jan. 1.

Since 4,198,000 men were in the two classes, which cover deferments in occupations other than agriculture, government agencies will be allowed to pick out a total of roughly a million and a quarter of registrants for deferment. Because the draft is not taking war plant workers over 30, the 30 per cent of the total will be composed of those under 30.

Chairman McNutt of the war man power commission and Draft Director Hershey conceded the plan is "not perfect," but said it represented the best reconciliation of competing needs for man power that could be worked out at this time.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

DEMANDS PROBE OF 'CODDLING' OF NAZI PRISONERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—Warning that the coddling of German war prisoners in this country has become a "national scandal," Rep. Harless [D., Ariz.] today demanded a special house investigation of the army's handling of prisoners.

The congressman told the house that "pampering" of Nazi prisoners is creating contempt among them for the United States. Undue liberties granted prisoners, he continued, constitute a threat to the safety of American citizens near prison camps.

Recalling the escape last year of 25 Nazis from a prison camp near Phoenix, Ariz., Harless said he learned that only one of every four guard towers surrounding the camp was manned.

"It is my contention," said Harless, "that it is high time for us to start now to instill in the heart and mind of every German prisoner a wholesome respect for this country and the principles of democracy."

CLERGYMEN WIN FIGHT ON GARY RACE WAR CURB

Ten clergymen appeared at the Gary council meeting last night and waged a successful fight against enactment of an ordinance prohibiting distribution of information which exposed any racial group to "hatred, contempt, ridicule, or obloquy."

Quoting from the Bible to show that the Pharisees attempted to harass Christians by similar edicts, the churchmen, mostly Baptist preachers, said such a law would be an unconstitutional restraint upon freedom of speech and religion.

Mayor Joseph E. Finerty, who said he suggested the ordinance in an effort to prevent racial differences, agreed to meet with a committee of the churchmen and revise the proposed measure. The council deferred consideration of it until Monday.

QUIZ WOMAN IN HOTEL TUB MYSTERY DEATH

Mrs. Lillian Snett, 35, of 1506 S. Kolin av. was questioned with the aid of a lie detector for several hours yesterday afternoon by police investigating the mysterious death Saturday of her friend, Mrs. Blanche Zimmerman, 38, of 4025 W. 16th st., whose nude body was found in a partially filled bathtub in a room in the Atlantic hotel, 316 S. Clark st.

Harry Zimmerman.

In the meantime a city-wide search was being conducted for a man and a woman whose almost simultaneous disappearances have brought additional mystery to the case.

Mother of Two Sought.

The man, in whose room the body was found, registered as John H. Hanan of Dallas, Tex. He rented the room Feb. 7 and hurriedly checked out less than 2 hours before a maid discovered the body.

The woman sought is another acquaintance of Mrs. Zimmerman. She is Mrs. Grace Kinson, 35, of 7630 Blackstone av., also a telephone operator, who left her husband and two children Friday afternoon, taking most of her clothing, $2,000 in bonds, and some cash with her.

Capt. Thomas Duffy of Central police and Lt. Phil Breitzke, head of the homicide detail, refused to divulge the nature of the questioning to which Mrs. Snett was subjected. She had previously told police she had been introduced to Hanan in a loop bar by Mrs. Zimmerman and that Hanan had later telephoned asking her for dates which she declined. A check of telephone calls made from Hanan's room disclosed that he had called her four times last week.

Mrs. Snett, who has been separated from her husband for six years, later admitted under questioning on the lie detector that she had been out with Hanan five or six times, police said. She told them she believed Hanan to be a wealthy horse dealer. Shortly after being cleared by the lie detector test Mrs. Snett was released from custody, Capt. Duffy said.

The inquest into the death, which opened yesterday, was ordered continued until March 6 in the county morgue when police requested more time to search for Hanan. A chemical analysis of vital organs also is being made to determine if Mrs. Zimmerman was poisoned. An earlier examination revealed no evidence of violent death.

Capt. Duffy said he learned from the husband that Mrs. Zimmerman had been taking a drug known as benzedrine. The drug, he said, is used as a stimulant. Medical authorities claim benzedrine tends to narrow the blood vessels and exerts a vigorous effect upon the circulation system much the same as adrenalin.

At the preliminary inquest hearing the maid who found the body, Mrs. Vera Sequence, 4541 S. Rockwell st., testified she had heard a woman's voice in Hanan's room Friday.

SEVERAL SMALL SCHOOLS GIVE UP SPRING VACATION

The office of defense transportation said yesterday that several small schools in the Chicago area have reported they will eliminate spring vacations in accordance with the agency's request in an effort to relieve congested travel facilities. The ODT said, however, that it had not sent requests to individual schools, but had depended on voluntary coöperation with press and radio requests.

CONVICT WOMAN OF GETTING ARMS DATA FOR REICH

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—A federal jury tonight found Brooklyn born Marie Koedel, 26, guilty of conspiracy to commit espionage. She faces a possible maximum sentence of 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Miss Koedel's foster father, Simon Emil Koedel, indicted under the same charge, pleaded guilty last Thursday. The government contended the pair obtained defense information sent to Germany between Oct. 1, 1939, and Oct. 25, 1941.

Judge Robert A. Inch set March 1 for sentencing.

AN INCOMPETENT INDICTS THE COMPETENT.

Our ancient secretary of war raised his voice Sunday evening on the Blue network, which no respectable man in his right mind would condescend to use, on behalf of the legislation which seeks to impose slavery on labor and industrial management in the United States.

Mr. Stimson had two arguments: one, that we ought to have a labor draft because Great Britain and Russia have one; the other, that soldiers will feel better and fight harder if they know that their fathers and brothers at home have been hauled away from their present jobs and sent across half the continent to take a new job at the behest of some New Deal burocrat. Mr. Stimson specifically argued that no one should pay attention to objections that the proposed law would move workers from their present places of residence, because, he said, the soldiers have had to travel even farther to fight.

Mr. Stimson at 77 is still suffering a hangover from the war department's panic at the Belgian breakthru, which came after the department, for campaign purposes, had done its best to convince the nation that the war in Europe was as good as won. Besides, he has become an outright totalitarian and is seeking to force this legislation on the people thru hysteria and threats.

"We stand alone among our allies," said Mr. Stimson. "While we have no service law, Britain and Russia have been working under such laws since the very beginning of the war. [This is an understatement. Russian workers have been slaves, tied to their jobs by government compulsion, for a quarter of a century.] . . . We alone are depending upon voluntary and therefore ineffective methods of organization among the workers who are producing the armed equipment of our soldiers."

In thus traducing the American people and extolling the British and Russians, Mr. Stimson conveniently forgets that the industrial system of the United States, which he seeks to indict as inefficient, has had to arm not only our own fighters but a very large proportion of those placed in the field by the two nations whose production methods he now exhorts America to emulate.

Mr. Stimson's statements about the war are totally discredited by the facts. The British are now fighting in Europe in order to be in at the knockout. Japan has been brought to the doorstep of defeat, despite the fact that we have had to fight the Pacific war virtually without allies, yet he seeks to pillory as unworthy of regard "voices which ignoring the long struggle which lies ahead of us to reduce Japan, express pious hopes of the early fall of Berlin as the end of military and naval needs."

This is an effort to deceive and, assuming that Mr. Stimson knew what he was saying, a deliberate one. No opponent of the bill has underestimated the task that still remains in the Pacific, but it is well recognized that the defeat of Germany will end the present strain on our productive machinery. Our need of munitions for war against Japan alone will be, at most, three-quarters of the present needs for the two wars, and the only people who have tried to deny this obvious fact have been some officers in the army and navy, who know it is a fact but fear that if they acknowledge it there will be too great an exodus from war plants, particularly those on the Pacific coast.

Mr. Stimson alleges that "while we have long since recognized that our government must have the means of scientifically selecting and training our soldiers and putting them where they can best fight for their country's welfare we have never given our government the adequate machinery to produce the equipment and weapons with which these soldiers are to fight." The machinery he seeks, of course, is the labor draft.

That is the New Deal argument. The assertion that the free industrial system whose war production has been the miracle of this age is inefficient, and needs the guiding hand of burocracy to cure its inefficiency, comes from the man who bawled for war in the wake of his commander in chief and while he was bawling neglected to supply the means of defending the Philippines. We are just now regaining the ground we lost because of Mr. Stimson's failure before Pearl Harbor to put our soldiers where they could best fight for their country's welfare.

Instead of reprimanding civilian industry for inefficiency, Mr. Stimson should be exerting himself to provide the necessary man power by ending the frightful disorganization in his own department and putting the hundreds of thousands of men in uniform whose efforts are being wasted today where they can either fight or work.

Mr. Stimson has 8,100,000 men in the army, and of these only 57 divisions have been identified as fighting at the front under Generals Eisenhower and MacArthur. This doesn't include more than a million men on combat duty with the air corps and its ground echelons, nor the six divisions of marines in the Pacific. But it does include about all of the American soldiers who are in a position to shoot at or be shot by the enemy.

It is necessary of course to train men before they can fight and to supply them while they are fighting. Nevertheless, a war plant that had less than 10 per cent of its employes actually working at its lathes and forges would deserve the imputation of inefficiency by which Mr. Stimson endeavors to strengthen his plea for labor slavery. The man power shortage would not exist if it were not for man power hoarding by the army and sabotage of production by Mr. Stimson's fellow travelers in the New Deal.

HOW TO KEEP GERMANY FROM THE WARPATH.

At Yalta, Mr. Stalin, Mr. Roosevelt, and Mr. Churchill were able to agree on a formula for the control of Germany after the war. As long after the war as the allies remain both able and willing to keep Germany disarmed, disunited, and industrially impotent, Germany isn't likely to start another war, but nobody can say how long the present resolution will hold. The history of such agreements suggests that they don't last very long.

Conceivably, Mr. Stalin, Mr. Churchill, and Mr. Roosevelt, if they lived forever and remained in power forever, might keep Germany impotent forever, but they are all elderly gentlemen and, anyway, nothing is more certain than that the present cannot bind the future. New circumstances will arise, not yet foreseen even in the vaguest outline. New personalities will come to power. New problems will demand new solutions.

This is not to say that nothing can be done which may tend to discourage German aggression in future. A good deal can be accomplished by requiring the Germans to accept our whole Bill of Rights as part of their fundamental law. To be sure they had something that looked like a bill of rights in their Weimar constitution, but the weakness in that document was the privilege accorded the government to suspend the people's liberties in periods of emergency. There is no such restriction on the operation of our Bill of Rights precisely because it is in periods of crisis that the maintenance of civil rights becomes most important.

After our Civil war, the people and states of the south were required to accept the 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments to the federal Constitution. This affords a precedent, if one is needed, for imposing the whole Bill of Rights on the vanquished in this war. Undoubtedly there will be much in the peace treaties which the German people will dislike and resent, but many millions of them will surely welcome a grant of liberty.

The failure of the German republic to preserve the people's liberties contributed largely to the rise of Hitler. When he came to power he completed the job. He put the press in chains, denied religious liberty, forbade public meetings of those opposed to him, denied the right of a fair trial to men accused of political crimes, seized property without due process, and in many other ways violated the Bill of Rights. Only by these means could he gain the mastery over his countrymen that made it possible, in turn, to send them to war.

The best way to prevent the rise of another Hitler in Germany is to specify the liberties which no German government may take from the German people. Unfortunately the men who met at Yalta were moved more by hate, hysteria, and desire for conquest than by an intelligent desire to promote the pacification of Europe.

BACK TO BATAAN.

It was a memorable occasion when Gen. MacArthur came back to Bataan. When MacArthur arrived in Australia March 17, 1942, after having been ordered out of the Philippines, he said, "I will return." He has made that pledge good.

The Japanese conquest of the ragged American and Filipino garrison on Bataan was completed April 9, 1942, four months after the enemy invaded the Philippines. On April 15, 1942, THE TRIBUNE in its editorial page masthead first printed the slogan, "We're going back to Bataan!" The efforts of this newspaper were exerted with all the force of which we were capable against those who, in Washington or elsewhere, were disposed to slight the Pacific war. Our publication of Lt. Col. William E. Dyess' story of the Death March of Bataan made the whole nation aware of the savage nature of the enemy. We are proud that when MacArthur and the Americans returned to Bataan, THE TRIBUNE'S overseas edition went with them.

The American campaigns under Gen. MacArthur, which certainly will be textbook models for future students of strategy and tactics, have been wholly successful. Our troops reentered Manila 26 days after their landing at Lingayen gulf. The Bataan peninsula was almost wholly reconquered in 18 days, with only a few disorganized Jap units still at large in the mountains. Corregidor is falling to our arms. Of all these triumphs, the reconquest of Bataan is the most symbolically satisfying.

MacArthur expressed its meaning well when he said of the fight put up by the original defenders, "Its long protracted struggle enabled the united nations to gather strength to resist in the Pacific. Had it not held out, Australia would have fallen, with incalculably disastrous results. Our triumphs of today belong equally to that dead army. Its heroism and sacrifice have been fully acclaimed, but the great strategic results of that mighty defense are only now becoming fully apparent. . . . No army in history more thoroly accomplished its mission. Let no man henceforth speak of it other than as of magnificent victory."

The heroism of the Americans who fought thru the shadows and into the silence of three years ago is bright in our memories. The Americans who came in their train to complete the cycle were worthy of their trials and sacrifices. The least a grateful country can do to commemorate the victory of our arms and the triumph of this nation's fighting faith is to erect a great monument on Bataan which will forever recall a lost cause that was won in the end.

NOTES FOR A CATALOG.

This column wishes to supplement the admirable catalog of the Hudson River school exhibition now at the Art Institute. Observe the pleasant Alpine landscape numbered 146: "The Wetterhorn and Falls of the Reichenbach." It was painted by Samuel F. B. Morse, the inventor of telegraphy, as the catalog will tell you. But the editor has overlooked an important point in the association value of this picture. It provides a distant view of the place where Sherlock Holmes met his end in the clutch of Prof. Moriarty.

The scene is idyllic here; a contented traveler has painted a vista of mountain peace and majesty. There is no hint of the grim drama that was to brood over that faraway cataract in the spring of 1891, nearly 60 years after Morse set up his easel in the village of Meiringen. So let us look at the Reichenbach falls thru the eyes of Dr. Watson, as he stood on their brink with his eminent companion in man-hunting adventures.

"It is, indeed, a fearful place. The torrent, swollen by the melting snow, plunges into a tremendous abyss from which the spray rolls up like the smoke from a burning house. The shaft into which the river hurls itself is an immense chasm, lined by glistening, coal-black rock, and narrowing into a creaming, boiling pit of incalculable depth which brims over and shoots the stream onward over its jagged lip. The long sweep of green water roaring forever down, and the thick, flickering curtain of spray hissing forever upward, turn a man giddy with their constant whirl clamor. We stood near the edge peering down at the gleam of the breaking water far below us against the black rocks, and listening to the half-human shout which came booming up with the spray out of the abyss."

* * *

There, at the dead end of a trail, Sherlock Holmes met the most dangerous man in London, and both vanished into the abyss. But the rage of a world of readers caused the great detective's resurrection.

LANGUAGES OF LOVE.

Famous courtesans were each
Noted for her powers of speech:
Sappho on the Lesbian shore
Struck glowing coin from verbal ore;
Cleo's words of charm and guile
Freely flowed by ancient Nile;
And talking seems to be the sport
That always graced a Gallic court.
Honor pay to all of these—
But think ye, thru the centuries
How many common persons find
Love can be dumb as well as blind,
And when their conversations fail,

Fable of the Perfect Husband.

After evading the issue for 10 years, Ajax Beambottom ran out of excuses and was forced to accompany Mrs. B. in her quest for a new bonnet.

The day they visited the store there was a shortage of stock, so that Mrs. B. was only able to try on some 25 hats. She boiled the problem down to a choice between two. Placing them on a table, side by side, she called upon Ajax to express his preference.

Ajax had been known to speak at the club, on occasion, for 1 hour and 45 minutes, but he now found himself as inarticulate as congress when opposing a piece of White House "must" legislation. So he stammered, "Why, I really love both——"

"Fine," interrupted Mrs. B. Then to the saleslady, "My husband thinks I should take both."

"No, no, my dear," broke in Ajax, "naturally I prefer one more than the other——"

"Which one?"

"Fine," said Mrs. B. To the saleslady, "Wrap up the one on the left." W. L. Hudson.

S. R. asks: "When a young man completes the apprentice seaman training in the maritime service, is that all the training he receives, or is there some method of advancement? Is advancement left to the whim of his officers?"

Advancement in the maritime service depends entirely on the initiative and ambition of the trainee. After completing his apprentice seaman training and 14 months of sea duty, merchant seamen become eligible for examination for any one of several officer candidate training courses and receive $126 a month, plus food, lodging, text books, and uniforms, during such training. Persons wishing more information may send us a stamped envelope for data sheets covering the various training programs.

R. L. asks: "When a man is once wounded in action and awarded a Purple Heart and then is wounded again, is something added to his Purple Heart ribbon, or is he awarded another Purple Heart?"

The Purple Heart is awarded for the first wound and the oak leaf cluster for subsequent wounds, with only one award authorized for multiple wounds received at the same time. However, the Purple Heart may be awarded twice to the same person—the second award being made posthumously.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Dr. Irving S. Cutter

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CATARACTS AND DISTURBED METABOLISM.

THE question of whether or not cataract can be prevented or cured has been a much mooted query. Every now and then, some eye specialist will raise our hopes that the beginning stage, at least, may be arrested in certain cases. As a rule, his belief is founded on the assumption that nutrition is at fault. In consequence, degenerative changes in the lenses come on, with ensuing clouding of vision. In addition, attention is given to all factors which are designed to disturb the nourishment of the body, chiefly the vital organs.

Many investigators look upon the disorder [a developing cataract] as part of the growing old process. The average age at which it is observed is approximately 62. We can understand that, as the lens deteriorates, it is likely to lose water and to become firmer. In other words, the tissues undergo sclerosis — hardening.

This structure [the lens] is surrounded by a membrane in which cholesterin and calcium are present. The potassium-lime ratio fails and the capsule becomes less permeable. As a result, waste material accumulates within the cells. Many substances which carry oxygen are so altered that this function fails. Is the whole subject merely a matter of digestion, assimilation, and excretion? As we can understand, the life of important fibers [including those of the lens] would be shortened because the exchange of oxygen is retarded.

Other authorities regard cataract as the outcome of a toxic state. In other words, it may have something to do with metabolism and any disturbance in the power of the system to use foods and get rid of their débris, will affect the lens. We know positively that certain poisons will increase the permeability of the capsule. Thus it can be suggested that the cataracts which may accompany diabetes are metabolic and that such products as acetone and diacetic acid may play important rôles.

While no expert has had the temerity to claim that these opacities can ever be dissolved, once they have appeared, nevertheless, no harm will follow the reëstablishment of the chemistry of the body to normal, with the maintenance of the calcium-potassium percentage. Furthermore, most of us are now taking enough vitamin-rich edibles to warrant the conclusion that there will be fewer instances of malnutrition to explain their formation. But no one can say as yet that vitimin C, D, or any other fraction does exert a specific effect, altho a few physicians have thought that the lesions disappeared under the influence of cod liver oil and some form of lime by mouth.

Along with attempts to aid nutrition, the eyes may be checked frequently to determine the influence, if any, of a better balanced diet, including vitamin enriched meals, plus the injection of hormones. Examinations should be conducted not less often than once every two or three months so that progress can be observed.

Fortunately, the necessary surgical procedure has been placed upon a highly satisfactory and safe basis. Thereafter, correction with suitable glasses will restore sight to normal, or nearly so.

SIMPLE JAUNDICE.

Mrs. L. writes: Can a child with yellow jaundice spread the disease to others in the schoolroom?

REPLY.

The chances are that the type of jaundice described is a catarrhal condition of the liver which, in itself, is not infectious. Needless to say, the cold, which was probably the causative factor, is contagious. Of course, the appearance of the victim may "scare the liver out of" the other pupils.

COMPLICATION.

P. H. writes: Is there any danger in continuing syphilis treatments if high blood pressure has developed?

REPLY.

In the management of syphilis, several drugs are used, some of which are not recommended if the elevated tension is the result of the infection. Your physician should decide this question.

KEEP IT CLEAN.

T. Y. writes: Why are boils partial to the back of the neck?

REPLY.

"A clean neck never boils" is the saying. Furthermore, the presence of hair follicles in this area and irritation from tight collars are factors.

KNEE ACTS UP.

K. L. writes: What causes a locking knee?

REPLY.

Usually, a torn cartilage. If it becomes more severe, orthopedic consultation may be necessary.

The Forgotten Men.

["Again I bother you," began the letter from Corp. S. Van Delinder Jr., an American boy with the French 1st army. "This time in the form of a poem. It speaks for itself. It isn't at all pleasant whimsy, and if you don't care for it, there will be no hard feelings.

["Just short of 30 months across, all but three or four in or around actual combat, sometimes causes us to become bitter. I do not speak entirely for myself, as I still have hopes for tomorrow, but for the boys around me who have no hope, no faith, nothing to cling to but the simple reflexes of breathing, hungering, and tiring. Only they no longer tire. Rather, they never abandon it. It is always with them.

["I am sorry it isn't a better poem. I would like to write a eulogy instead. They are so wonderful and brave. But I can't write that. Their wonder and bravery are too much a chimera to themselves to unmask. They prefer their loneliness and bitterness. It is closer to them."]

We are the forgotten men,
Dreaming dreams no one can share,
Dreaming nothing more than rest,
A bit to eat, eternal sleep.

We are the loss in gain,
Trading blows with inevitability,
Trading cries with nightingales
Who linger mournfully above.

You are the answer, you
Who told us scalding words of faith,
Who told us we were the only hope,
And now we know your charity.

You sent us forth to war
With a gun, your prayer, and hope,
With a smile, your kiss, and love,
Then turned to lighter things.

I speak of lesser gods
That try men's souls before they kill;
That twist and torment e'er they give
Release in death itself.

I speak of winter's snows,
White, a luring feet to tread
White, belching death when steps try
Ground well mined, well bled.

I speak of wives who cried,
Then smiled at other men and played,
Then wrote and whimpered loneliness;
Yes, souls have also died.

I speak of wealth new found,
So long denied so many by the years,
So long we also suffered poverty—
Remember? Is this wealth?

Is it riches that we see?
Watching carrion circling high to land,
Watching bones picked clean of meat
That spoke and walked. Remember?

We do not wonder now,
The time has been too long, too much,
The time has passed too late, too soon
We stop and cease to be.

Determination.

The passengers on the top shelf of the double decker bus began to sniff. What was that cutting thru the blue haze of cigaret smoke? Wasn't it a more ominous vapor, heavier and more pungent? It was. Some one peered out a back window. Smoke was curling from the engine of the bus. Quietly but quickly the passengers began to wander downstairs. One lady remarked conversationally to the driver that the bus seemed to be on fire. Soon all had left the upper deck but a lady of great bulk and an elderly gentleman. The gentleman was preparing to leave. He paused to suggest the lady do likewise. "Not I," she retorted. "I had enough trouble getting this seat. I'm not leaving it now until it gets hot."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

WHY THE TRIBUNE SURVIVES.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—For many years I have been a reader of THE TRIBUNE, not because of its avowed political policy or its management, as impeccable as that seemed to be, but because I believed THE TRIBUNE the best news medium available, and for 60-odd years I have continued to harbor that opinion.

Your continued existance, and your service to the people of Chicago, have justified my faith in you. As I look backward thru those many years, I see a long list of Chicago's infallible newspapers and their scintillating editors, who with poignant pen condemned many crackpot ideas, and supported others equally as bad. The obituary list of defunct local newspapers contains the names of many widely known publications — the original Chicago Times [1880], the Dispatch, the Chronicle, the Inter-Ocean, the Chicago Herald, the Chicago Record, the Record-Herald, the Examiner and the Herald-Examiner, the Chicago Journal, and the Chicago Evening Post. Quite an imposing list! Their management had a fair percentage of brains, capital, and political prestige.

Yet they died! Yes, they died, and others that have taken their place in Chicago's maelstrom will go the same route, whether it be "Finnegan's Fake" with its corps of federal stooges, or the tax-dodging royalist organ. Within the next 10 years they will join their predecessors in the tomb of forgetfulness, and none will lay a wreath on their graves. Dead newspapers and dead slogans are soon forgotten.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE lives because it has been a vital influence in the community, and has drawn its vitality from intelligent citizens who love their country and respect its fundamental laws.

OVERTIME FOR POLICE.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—I read that Commissioner Allman has been authorized to hire 100 extra policemen. After sending these men thru a training course of three months it will cost the taxpayers around $70,000, and we will still have rookie policemen [if they can find 100 men between 21 and 31 years old]. What is the matter with letting the present experienced policemen work a couple of hours extra, or on their off days, and pay them overtime, as any other business does when it is short of help?

It is a cinch that more than half of the present police force of 5,000 can use the overtime, and 2,500 experienced men working overtime would more than make up for 500 rookies, and cost the taxpayers less. M. A. D.

FOR THESE HE FOUGHT.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Going west on a 63d street car last Saturday night, a young soldier with the purple heart and with three major campaigns in the South Pacific under his belt, and, of course, with war nerves, was criticized by three ungrateful people, and, may I add, ignorant people.

This young soldier was explaining to his wife or girl how he got hit. One of these ignorant women said, quite audibly, "Why, he's telling her how he got shot," and then all three of them had a good laugh and looked around, wanting others to join them. Let's give these kids coming back a break.

45 YEAR OLD GOB.

HOW TO BEAT THE ONE-WORLDERS.

Hot Springs, N. M., Feb. 11.—You are dead right in what you say about Brownell and the Republican leaders. I've supported that ticket for 35 years yet in the last two elections I have only voted it as a protest vote, the only protest open to real Americans, knowing full well that the leaders had sold us down the river to the internationalists.

Eighty-five per cent of Americans are opposed to any surrender of our national independence or to the Hatch-Hill, Burton Ball treason that would give to a foreign setup power to conscript American youth for war and for international police service. I suggest a nonpartisan pledge for real Americans to take, pledging them to register and vote against every person advocating such things, to oppose this group in every way possible.

Thru nonpartisan action we can pledge enough votes to defeat every one of these scheming traitors to God and home and native land. If we organize a third party many states have laws preventing filing of a ticket, and if we could, these internationalists would plant a Willkie on us who would feed the people on lying propaganda after stealing the nomination.

By voting and working actively against every internationalist and for only men who openly and consistently uphold the Constitution and laws, we can do what Wayne Wheeler did to the liquor interests.

NONESSENTIAL, JIMMY SAYS.

Richmond, Ind., Feb. 9.—The midwinter meeting of the Chicago Dental society, held for 80 consecutive years, which was to have started Feb. 12, has been canceled by order of Jimmie Byrnes, thus preventing over 6,000 dentists from getting a four day post-graduate course that would assist them to keep informed about the advancements made in their profession during the last year. These dentists would have returned to their communities to give the benefits of this refresher course to an untold number of dental patients.

The trip that 2,000 people made to New York to promote a job for that fertile brain that thought up that marvelous idea about killing little pigs was considered essential.

A HOLLYWOOD CASUALTY.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—As the father of an army nurse, who is overseas, caring for our wounded, and many days working 12 to 15 hours, it makes my blood boil to pick up today's TRIBUNE and see a picture of Mischa Auer attended by two nurses, all because he fell over a fence and broke his leg.

The necessity for probate depends on the nature of the assets and on the attitude of the parties in possession rather than on the presence or absence of a will.

KUM BUM'S LAWYERS WAIVE ARGUMENT AT HIS MAIL FRAUD TRIAL

Proceedings of the Kum Bum mail fraud trial in federal court were halted suddenly yesterday when attorneys for Hugh Greer Carruthers waived their two hour argument before the jury. The surprise announcement was made after Asst. United States Atty. Francis McGreal had spent 40 minutes attempting to establish the identity of Carruthers.

"The defense waives argument in view of the quality of arguments offered by government counsel," Edward J. Hess said after McGreal described Carruthers as the "Bearded Boerum of Brooklyn, founder of the neological nonsense, and a faker, who tried to defraud groups of innocent people out of their money by misrepresentation."

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan dismissed the jury until 10 o'clock this morning and warned the members not to discuss the case nor to read the papers. The admonition was necessary because of an affidavit presented the court by Atty. Walter Bachrach that an article in a Chicago newspaper [not THE TRIBUNE] was prejudicial and damaging to the character of the defendant.

Bachrach's motion for a mistrial was denied by Judge Sullivan after a poll to determine whether members of the jury had read the article.

George D. Carbary Gets Master in Chancery Post

George D. Carbary, former state's attorney of Kane county, was appointed master in chancery of the Kane County Circuit court yesterday by Judge Charles A. O'Connor. DIES OF HEART DISEASE.

The coroner's office yesterday attributed the death of Paul Lind, 76, an ice salesman, to heart disease. He was found dead Sunday in the garage at the rear of his home at 7384 Vernon av.

BLOW TORCH SETS $150 FIRE.

It cost John Kapankas, 3326 Lithuanica av., $150 to thaw a frozen water pipe in his basement yesterday. The blow torch he was using for the purpose set fire to the house. Chief Rudolph Goetz of the 21st battalion estimated damage at $150.

PROBE KILLING OF NAVY TRAINEE IN FRAT HAZING

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 19 [Special].—The death of a young navy trainee in an explosion during his initiation into a fraternity at St. Louis university tonight stirred educational circles over practices some termed "hazing" but a university dean called "horseplay."

The victim was Robert G. Perry, 20, Harrisburg, Ill., a student at the university school of medicine. He died this morning at the university's Desloge hospital of burns that covered about three-fourths of his body.

Four other students were treated for minor burns about the face and hands they received in the explosion yesterday afternoon in the chapter house of the Phi Beta Pi fraternity.

Army and Navy Investigate.

They are Peter Couri, 23, an army trainee, Peoria, Ill.; Frank Masari, 20, navy, Tampa, Fla.; Robert G. Dawson, 23, navy, Cuyahoga Falls, O., and Edmund Massulo, Youngstown, O.

Army, navy, and university officials were conducting an investigation of the tragedy.

Students who participated in the fatal ritual explained that they were preparing to blacken the face of Perry, a "pledge," with a mixture of lamp black and collodion. The latter is sticky compound of ether, alcohol, and gun cotton which would make the black difficult to remove.

Ignited by a Spark.

The mixture was in a milk bottle near an electric induction coil which was connected to an electric circuit. It was believed a spark from the coil ignited the ether. The explosion showered glass and flame upon all who stood near.

Joining in demands for the "abolition of hazing," was Circuit Judge Edward Ruddy, chairman of the Circuit judges and an alumnus of the university.

A Letter of Appreciation
WRIGLEY'S
CHEWING GUM MANUFACTURERS
We want to thank all the people here at home for the fine spirit of understanding shown us since we told you that, for as long as possible, all the very best gum we could make would go only to our Armed Forces and Merchant Sailors overseas and at sea.
With this in mind, and so that there can be no misunderstanding, we want you to know that we have now used up all our pre-war ingredients and that we have stopped making the well known trade-marked brands of Wrigley's Spearmint, Doublemint and "Juicy Fruit" even for the Armed Forces overseas.
There will be no more chewing gum of these three famous brands and flavors for anyone - until we can again make gum worthy of these three trade-marked labels, which have always been your guarantee of uniform, finest quality and flavor.
Until we can bring back Wrigley standard brands we are making a plain but honest Wartime chewing gum to help take care of both military and civilian needs. We are offering this gum to the public only on its own merit and for that reason it is not associated with any Wrigley standard brand but has its own brand name and flavors.

WAUKEGAN BOY, 10, FINDS $3,000; GETS $10 REWARD

For a few moments yesterday Charles Abel, 10, of 738 S. Jackson st., Waukegan, was a rich little boy. It happened when he found a canvas bag near 411 May st., in the suburb. In it were bills and checks. Charles took the bag into the near-by Swedish Glee club, and turned it over to Oscar Wendell, who called Police Chief Bart Tyrrell. A count showed $3,000, mostly in cash, with some checks. Investigation disclosed it had been lost by Robert Gorodess, manager of the Lake Shore Liquor store, 1641 Sheridan rd., North Chicago, while he was on his way to a bank. The money was turned over to Gorodoss, who gave Charles $10 as a reward.

For Joyful Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Saves Big Dollars. No Cooking.

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable, effective medicine for coughs due to colds. It is so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of cough medicine, very effective and quick-acting, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving quick relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please in every way.

MODERN SHIFTS IN LA SALLE ST. DEPOT PLANNED

Betterment in Service to Follow War.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Post-war plans to modernize the La Salle st. railroad passenger terminal are under consideration, it was disclosed yesterday, but they depend largely upon final plans for the projected west side subway and the proposed west side super-highway. Both would pass beneath the tracks of the station, in Congress st., entailing considerable engineering work in the train shed.

Meanwhile, plans to modernize the interior of the station itself have been halted for the duration of the war. New decorating, improvement of the dining rooms, and other facilities are included. Also there is a plan for the improvement of platforms, which now are well worn. A proposal for the betterment of cab service has been held back by uncertainties over the super-highway question. When this is settled, the station officials say they can make more definite plans.

New Taxi System Planned.

It is proposed to install a new in and out cab service: In at La Salle st., under the station, and out at Sherman st. Cab service at this station left much to be desired even before the war time congestion of traffic. Redcaps are wont to speak of the nervousness many thru passengers display, caused by fear they may miss their trains at other stations.

Of all six downtown terminals, the Union station is accounted to have the best taxi service. Cabs go in down one incline and discharge outgoing passengers; then travel under the station to pick up incoming travelers, and depart on a separate incline.

When the Union station was built, some roads protested against the expense of this improvement. Now, the station officials regard it as one of the most convenient features of their terminal.

Subway and Highway Plans.

The proposed west side subway would require escalators for a connection with the La Salle st railroad terminal. When subway building is resumed after the war, the city plans a tube west from Dearborn st. Beneath Congress st. the Dearborn st. tube is complete to Van Buren st. and the mezzanine stations are in, but tracks and equipment have not been installed because of war limitations. The extension to the west is to pass beneath the La Salle st. station, the top of the tube 35 feet below the surface.

The super-highway proposed in Congress st. would run beneath the station, with a 3 foot dip below the street level between La Salle and Sherman sts. Part of the mail and express rooms of the station will be pushed somewhat farther south by the subway construction. In this connection, the station officials are giving some thought to conveyors below the platforms for handling mail. Definite plans on this, however, await final plans on subway and highway projects.

Later on, the city proposes to link the Congress st. subway, across the river, with Lake st., with stations close to the Union and the North Western terminals.

The train shed at the La Salle station, officials state, will take care of modern 12 car streamlined trains where traffic gets back to normal. With the present trains of 16 to 19 cars, some coaches are left outside the shed.

Roads Prepare for Competition.

Clearance of tracks at the throat of the shed is one problem in extending the main train shed, the engineers said. As the tracks enter the shed they are spread apart to give space for platforms. If trains of the present extreme length continue much into the post-war era, umbrella sheds may be built out.

The La Salle station is owned by the Rock Island and the New York Central roads, and also is used by the Nickel Plate road. Like other terminals in the city, it is called "most desirable and convenient in town," by its officials. Railroad men in general speak of the modernization the roads are planning for after the war, with highway and air competition likely to grow.

J. D. Farrington, executive officer of the Rock Island Lines, said: "We are naturally desirous of improving station facilities to make them as comfortable and convenient as possible for the passengers. Some of our plans depend on the city projects in Congress st.

"Modern, high speed trains, comfortable equipment, fast schedules at very low rates, convenience for patrons are the answer to competition. If we can accomplish those things, we can haul a larger percentage of thru traffic than we did before the war."

Two Colleges' Alumnae Will Meet Saturday

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO college alumnae groups will meet Saturday, one to welcome its newest career girl and fellow alumna, and the other to celebrate the birthday anniversary of its alma mater's founder. The members of the board of the Chicago Vassar club will give a tea in the Cordon club at 3 p. m. to meet Miss Jean Faricy, the youngest and newest alumnae staff member. She is serving as liaison officer between the Alumnae association and the students interested in Vassar.

Miss Faricy, daughter of the William T. Faricys of Evanston, was graduated from Vassar last December and now travels to different cities to show Vassar movies and interview prospective students. She attended the Summit school in St. Paul and the Roycemore school in Evanston and was graduated from the Masters school at Dobbs Ferry.

Members of both the Chicago and North Shore Vassar clubs and all Vassar alumnae are invited to the tea. Mrs. Harold Pulsifer, president of the Chicago club, will receive, assisted by Miss Jane Dubbs. The young women who were graduated with Miss Faricy have been invited to pour tea. They include Miss Anne Broeksmit, Miss Deborah Smith, Miss Sarah Robbins, Miss Martha Harbrecht, Miss Mary Louise Wieboldt, and several others.

Other Alumnae News.

It was more than 100 years ago that Mary Lyon founded a seminary now known as Mount Holyoke college, and to celebrate her birthday alumnae groups all over the country are planning special meetings. The Chicago Mount Holyoke club will meet for luncheon at 1 p. m. in Huyler's restaurant, 308 S. Michigan av., with interracial understanding as the theme of the meeting. Such a theme is appropriate, the club feels, as Mary Lyon was a fearless worker for the rights of all women everywhere. Members of the black, brown, yellow, and white races are attending Mount Holyoke together, representing 15 different nationalities, including Argentinian, Chinese Colombian, East Indian, French, Dutch, and Polish as well as American.

The luncheon speaker will be Archibald J. Carey Jr., minister of the Woodlawn African Methodist Episcopal church, with "A Page of History: What the American Negro Gives and What He Gets" as his subject. Dr. Helen Vincent McLean of the Institute for Psychoanalysis, will lead a discussion. She is an alumna. Mrs. E. S. Guzman Barron is president of the club.

When the North Shore Wellesley circle meets at 2:30 p. m. today in the Evanston home of Mrs. Ward V. Evans, Mrs. C. Stanley Smith, a Wellesley mother who recently returned from China on the Gripsholm, will speak on "Women in War Time China." Mrs. Drennan Slater, Mrs. Walter M. Sackett, and Mrs. F. Postin White will be assistant hostesses.

Engagement News.

At a small cocktail party Saturday in her apartment in the Oak Crest hotel, Evanston, Mrs. Arthur J. Mitchell, formerly of Winnetka, announced the engagement of her daughter, Jeanne Lucille, to Lt. George Robert Sackerson of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Sackerson of East Cleveland, O. Miss Mitchell, whose father was the late Mr. Mitchell, was graduated from Bennett Junior college. A talented artist, she has been devoting her spare time in the last two years to driving for the navy and the Red Cross motor corps.

Lt. Sackerson, who attended the Case Engineering school in Cleveland, is stationed at Chanute field, Ill. His fiancée's brothers also are on duty in this country, Frederick as a lieutenant in army ordnance, stationed in New York, and Donald as a captain in the army air forces. The latter recently returned from the South Pacific, having received a silver star and the Purple Heart, and now is on limited service with the military transport command.

The wedding date will be set when Lt. Sackerson receives his new orders April 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Oliver Wilson of Palos Heights, Ill., formerly of New York, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Janet, to Lt. Edward Topping James of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Vincent James of Chicago. Miss Wilson was graduated in 1939 from Smith college and received a master's degree from Bryn Mawr college. At present she is Miss Jean Faricy, for whom the Chicago Vassar club will entertain at tea at 3 p. m. Saturday in the Cordon club. Members of the North Shore Vassar club are invited to the gathering. Miss Faricy is the newest and youngest member of the Vassar Alumnae association staff.

On the Aisle

By Claudia Cassidy

Coffee and Pistols at Dawn.

Remember Grace Moore's recital on the History and Enjoyment of Music series at the Civic Opera house and resultant reverberations about no seats for service men on the stage? Some of that was inadvertently caused by the air forces, because "Winged Victory" closed the night before and stagehands who worked until 9 o'clock Sunday morning getting the show out of the house were not asked to dig out a bigger set and 500 or 600 chairs for the concert.

Grace Moore.

However, all is not yet calm, witness a letter to me, signed "Secretary to Miss Grace Moore," and a reply, at my request, from Edgar L. Goldsmith, president of Allied Arts, sponsors of the concert. Space being what it is, or rather isn't, I have had to resort to what Charlie Collins once dubbed "the birdshot school of journalism" in order to reprint the letters, but there is nothing personal in those three dots of birdshot type by which I carefully trim words without mauling meaning. Nor am I sending Miss Moore an uppity note signed "Secretary to Miss Claudia Cassidy." I am, in the whole episode, an almost innocent bystander.

Exhibit A: "Dear Miss Cassidy—The reason for a clause in Miss Moore's contract for no stage seats to be sold is because she wishes the stage to be unoccupied to be filled with FREE seats for the service men and women. Therefore, not only her receipts, but the manager's are necessarily lower. . . . After Pearl Harbor Miss Moore initiated the custom of inviting service men and women as guests of honor to each and every concert. . . . Dedicating her songs to the men and women in the service who were the guests of honor in the audience was purely a protection to the manager, Mr. Goldsmith, because there had been so much criticism from the camps and stations in the vicinity of Chicago. There were very few service people invited in that audience and they were scattered, but Miss Moore felt they were deserving of consideration anyway. The custom has been adopted by many other artists, but, as is usually the case, Miss Moore was the one to think of it and to insist upon it in each city. Chicago has been the one exception. [Signed] Helen R. Matthews, Secretary to Miss Grace Moore."

Exhibit B: "Dear Miss Cassidy—Miss Moore gave out a story to the fact that her contract stipulated there were to be stage seats; exactly the opposite is the fact. Her contract stipulated no stage seats, and if it was her intention to ask us to have service men and women on the stage she had not so indicated at any time in the past 11 months since the contract was signed. As I understand it she has stated to you that this would cause a reduction in her receipts as well as in ours. This is not true. Her contract with us was for a flat fee regardless of the size of the audience. All guests at our concerts are guests of the management and not of the paid performer. I further understand that Miss Moore says she dedicated her songs to the service men and women in the audience as protection to me because of the criticism from the camps and stations in the vicinity of Chicago. May I say in this regard that the only criticism that reached us came from Miss Moore and that the requests for free seats from those in the service was negligible and was met. It may be of interest to note that we have given away between five and six thousand seats to those in the armed services in the past four months. This record can be checked with the service men's centers in Chicago. [Signed] Edgar L. Goldsmith."

Foxhole Foods May Influence Post-War Diet

BY DOROTHY JOHNSON.

American women may be surprised, in the not too distant future, to find the much berated foxhole foods helping to shape postwar menus. The ingenuity of army food and clothing experts promises a brighter tomorrow in the kitchen for the housewife, and a more durable family wardrobe, civilian observers believe.

By streamlining food preparation and treating soldiers' garments with special solutions, the quartermaster corps, charged with the care and feeding of this era's most important person, the American soldier, has conceived and executed developments only dreamed of in 1941. Necessity and the tempo of battle caused quartermaster laboratories to ignore time. After the war the housewife will inherit the benefits of such research, with the veterans themselves frequently urging adoption of the war-born items, it is predicted.

Standard stock in army kitchens overseas and in the United States when and where fresh foods are not available are dehydrated fruits and vegetables. Washed, chopped, and needing only moisture reconstitution before popping into a kettle for cooking, several score of the common edibles, if available, would save the homemaker time in the kitchen.

Among dehydrated foods used by the army are potatoes, both white and sweet, in various forms, including whipped; beets, carrots, rutabagas, apples [for pie and sauce], cranberries, beans, cabbage, and onions. Cereals, prepared with milk and sugar in compressed cake form, need only the addition of moisture in the breakfast bowl, and should be an inducement, because of their novelty, to make Junior eat his vitamins without fussing.

Quick omelets and scrambled eggs for impromptu guests could be whipped up "on the double" from the powdered whole eggs the army uses. Delectable soup, rich in food values, could be concocted by the kettleful from either dehydrated vegetables or from the ready prepared soup mixes now on army food lists.

When the family hitches a trailer to a post-war automobile and heads for South America over ribbons of wide highway, the wilderness need have no fears, for the vacation hamper might well contain a number of compact mixtures now included in army rations, among them: compressed sugar cookies, soluble coffee and cocoa in weatherproof packets; chopped ham and eggs in cans, and ready-cooked hamburgers [two to a can], which need only be heated and served.

Sliced bacon, cheese, and bacon combined, chopped pork and egg yolks, and canned pork loaf with carrots and apple flakes are other army field ration foods which might well pinch hit in trailer larders on cross-country safaris.

Suspect water in unfamiliar streams could be made drinkable by dropping two purifying tablets into a quart of it [such tablets are standard in some army packages used overseas].

Perhaps, in the years after the war, the home baker won't reach into the cupboard for a bottle of vanilla extract. She will, instead, dip into a small box for a vanilla flavoring tablet, one of the newest quartermaster cookery ideas, developed, like most of the other improvements, to save shipping and storage space, and to defeat climate hazards.

In the field of woolen clothing, the army has discovered that it isn't the weight of the garment which assures warmth but, rather, the wind resistance of fabrics. Scientific layering of materials, the experts say, helps to retain body heat and to keep chill winds out.

Woolens which won't shrink are a post-war possibility to make the whole family grateful. The quartermaster scientists, after a year of research, developed a simple shrinkage preventive treatment for wool socks, applied to the yarn before weaving, which may well be extended to other woolens.

The army also is impregnating shoe leather against water absorption and cracking, thus extending the wearing quality of footgear, and also has devised a composition sole which should, if used for civilian shoes, go a long way toward cutting down the number of boots the children will scuff up in the playground.

One of the neatest inventions turned out by the quartermasters is the "ambidextrous glove," a knitted type which defeats uneven wearing. The weak spot in the thumb socket has been overcome, because the glove is knitted without intersections. Being transferable from hand to hand, it assures even wearing on back and palm. Only one new glove need replace a worn, torn, or lost one, thus eliminating the necessity of buying a pair as replacement.

The post-war housewife may find, too, that by the simple expedient of spraying the entire family wardrobe with a mixture now used in chemical warfare, father, mother, and the children can be caught in a heavy storm and come out dry, since their clothes will have been weather proofed by the solution. Another spray, equally simple to use, will mothproof an entire closet with a few quick whiffs.

Let Child Follow His Urge to Draw, and Don't Criticize

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Don't criticize according to your adult, conventional ideas of art, the drawings or paintings which your small child produces. Children have a free, spontaneous, untrammeled technique; they don't even know what traditional art expression is; and, besides all that, they actually don't see what we see, nor do they care about certain details we take for granted as important: perfect straightness, perfect roundness, literal color repetition, and so on.

In addition, if you will free your mind of set ideas about art you will be fascinated to notice how often your child's art work will approach in effect today's impressionistic or modernistic paintings and drawings, which to some persons seem farfetched and "cockeyed" but which are greatly approved of by many art critics.

Besides this caution I want to add a few more "don'ts" on this subject:

Don't laugh at or ridicule your child's pictures.

Don't let others discourage or confuse him by doing so.

Don't ask too searching questions about what he means by this or that.

Don't provide, in the early years, painting books with ready-made outlines to be filled in or copied.

Don't buy cheap art materials or "sets" in the toy departments. A few good supplies from an artists' materials department or store are superior.

But you can, at odd times, talk about color, and casually notice with your child beauty of form and interest of line in the world about him. Also, he should have good picture books to look at. But chiefly, let him alone in his art expression.

Negro at War Ably Portrayed in Art Exhibit

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

An interesting exhibition of paintings, drawings, and prints by a young Negro artist, Hughie Lee-Smith, is being held at the South Side Community Art center, 3831 S. Michigan av. Some of the canvases have been done since his service with the navy and depict scenes of action.

One called "Machinist Mate, World War I." is a large painting, measuring about 6 feet by 5, the subject being a Negro sailor at his post of duty on shipboard. The artist has made a powerful picture, especially notable because of his use of light.

Another scene shows Negroes struggling at the oars of the little boat that took Washington across the ice-filled Delaware. There is a tremendous drive and surging movement in this canvas that make it memorable.

One of the most appealing oils is a portrait of the sailor artist's buddy at Great Lakes. Other excellent portraits are three drawings of German prisoners and two self-portraits.

The landscapes are, perhaps, the least pleasing in the collection. Here Mr. Lee-Smith uses a sombre palette, the colors at times being muddy and the intent not clear. An exception is "Dog Fight," in which a single downward zooming plane is seen against a night sky in a cold, dark landscape.

There is a beautiful and poignant painting of Walt Whitman ministering to a wounded Negro soldier, the erect, sybil-like figure of a Negro woman in the background, the whole scene bathed in a radiant white light. It is called "Freedman's Hospital, Washington, D. C. [1863]."

Hughie Lee-Smith spent his early life in Cleveland, where he received his art education, then taught at Claflin university in South Carolina, and later worked in Detroit. He has exhibited and won prizes in Cleveland, Atlanta, and New York as well as here. Currently he is working on the history of the Negro in the navy, at Great Lakes.

The exhibition will continue until March 7.

Thru the Looking Glass

Men may laugh when you pull out your lipstick brush, but you know and we know that a brush is a fine, professional tool for the woman who wants her lipstick coat to be suave and lasting.

Finding a brand new shipment of brushes—they're not as plentiful as they once were—in one of the shops reminded us that lots of women have been looking in vain for this little item. These brushes are good ones, of just the right number and length of brushes to do a perfect job of mouth makeup.

The brush serves two purposes. If you don't like the mouth line nature gave you and want to do some reshaping, the brush is better than the stick. You can make a firm, lasting outline that won't feather, drawing it carefully with a couple of even strokes.

If you don't go in for improving on nature, but just want your scarlet lips to be flawlessly made up, the brush is a decided help in that it works lipstick into every crevice, making the whole operation smoother and better wearing.

The lip rouge mustn't be applied in a couple of bold strokes. You must paint your mouth carefully, first outlining the lips with horizontal strokes, then filling in with small, sure up-and-down strokes until the mouth is perfectly coated, even to the inside corners. The texture of your lipstick will look better, and your mouth makeup won't slide, as it often does when you apply a stick quickly and carelessly with the usual three swipes, two on the upper lip and one on the lower. Those Kindly Gestures Pay in Friendship

BY SHEILA DALY.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

on the SOLID side

Popularity, like morale, is made up of a lot of little things. Once you have made friends, it is these little things that will help you keep them and make them glad, in turn, that they have you for a friend. Here are five of these "little things" which can raise your popularity rating with both guys and gals and mark you up as one of their favorite people, but king-sized.

When you are out of town for the week-end, visiting your Aunt Ethel in Springfield or making a quick trip to see your brother at camp, buy a stack of postcards and drop a line to each of your friends. They will like to hear from you and to know that you gave them a thought even amidst the excitement of the trip.

If one of your fellow or gal friends isn't in school for a day or two, give his house a ring in the evening to see what's wrong. He may have missed school only because he overslept, but if he isn't well or if he's kept out of school for other reasons, he'll be flattered to think you cared enough to call.

Perhaps your best gal friend has promised to take care of her little sister on Friday night while her father and mother go out for a special bright lights evening of their own. But in the meantime, a smooth date offer comes up. So why not offer to take your friend's place as baby-sitter for the evening? Both she and her particular hunk of heartbreak will love you for it.

Many of the guys and gals at school have brothers in service, in this country or overseas. They are certain to be lonesome and occasionally worried; remember to ask about that brother once in a while. You might hit a lonesome day, and your friend may be grateful for that chance to talk.

If the fellow who sits next to you in aeronautics or the gal next to you in chemistry has to miss a few days of school, you might come up with the offer to bring home his books or do a little back assignment coaching. Back work is difficult to make up, and you may want the same service if the situation should be reversed.

These friendship gestures may seem trivial, and even inconvenient at the time, but it's all worth it in the end. You wanted to be popular, didn't you? Well, there's no better way.

There's Some Gingerbread in Paris Prints

BY ANNE BRUYERE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 19.—Worth has chosen gingerbread brown, honey yellow, and chocolate as color grounds of new spring prints allied with variegated candy stripes or gay, vivid flowers and designs.

Contrasting the sheer silk print of one frock are twin three inch wide bands of white cotton lace coiling around armholes, the neck, and the bust. The fitted waist is beltless; the sleeves are elbow length; the skirt is short and very full.

The armholes of another printed afternoon dress in satin back crepe are also prominent. Four wide plaits of the same material encircle the shoulders. The long sleeves are fitted and the skirt is trimmed with all-around plaiting.

For evening wear Worth is preparing glamorous hostess gowns of lace and net. One model is in blue and white polka dotted satin entirely covered with airy net. The skirt has second empire fullness, two deep pockets disappearing in the folds. Huge orchids formed of lavende. Venetian lace cover the balloon sleeves and the whole of a butterily yellow hostess gown executed in Rodier's new djersamat.

Twelve rows of finely gathered tulle placed in slanting, parallel lines from bare shoulders to the long waist form the bodice of a glittering evening gown with a widely flared skirt trimmed with seven rows of twinkling spangles placed in the same sloping lines as on the bodice.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West

3 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead, king of spades.

Today we have a problem in percentages.

When the word percentage is mentioned the average person conjures up thoughts of intricate mathematical problems. Take it easy! It is not as mysterious as all that, for in its simplest form the principle of percentages is another way of saying that two chances are better than one, and three chances are better than two.

Which of two choices offers the better chance of sucess is not always easy to determine. Some of the principles will be offered you and you will be asked to accept them on Gospel. The mathematicians have worked them out and we should take their word for the figures.

Against a three no trump contract West led the king of spades and rattled off the first four tricks in that suit, dummy discarding a club and declarer a heart.

West continued with the nine of hearts, declarer won in dummy with the king and he now apparently has nine tricks, the only difficulty being that he has no entry to cash the ace of hearts. Holding nine diamonds he trusted that they would break two and two, and that the eight of diamonds would become an entry, he therefore played the ace and king, and his hopes were shattered when East failed to follow to the second lead. He was obliged to concede a club trick at the end for down one. South did not select the best play.

And now comes a bit of statistics, information which you will have to accept. When there are four cards out against you, they will probably not break two and two. The more probable distribution is three and one. An easy way to remember this is that an even number of outstanding cards will probably not break. An odd number of outstanding cards probably will break. In other words, five outstanding cards will probably break three and two, six outstanding cards will probably be divided four and two. South therefore had less than an even chance of developing the eight of diamonds as an entry. His proper play was to overtake the king of hearts with the ace and try the club finesse. A finesse is an exactly 50-50 chance, because the king might just as well be with West as it is with East. It is true that this line of play risks going down two tricks instead of one, but 50 points is a small price to pay for the increased chance of making the contract.

Movie Bungles Its Handling of Youth Problem

"YOUTH ON TRIAL."

By Mae Tinée.

Working on the premise that the juvenile offenders now crowding our courtrooms are the natural result of the indifference or delinquency of their parents, this film tells a lurid tale. It is regrettable that it is so poorly done that the moral falls flat.

David Reed is one tough little boy, the son of the owner of a shady night club. His father provides him with a car, plenty of money, complete freedom of action, and nothing else. The lad is a bully and a brat, as handy with his fists and a gun as any two-bit gangster. Cora Sue Collins is the rather simple minded daughter of the local feminine judge of the juvenile court, and the girl and David start out playing craps and progress to drinking, manslaughter, and, finally, murder.

The girl's mama sits in judgment on other youngsters and makes long speeches about the youthful criminals appearing before her, but the night her daughter gets into her first serious trouble, mater has a date with her own boy friend and doesn't know where her daughter is headed. A student council at the school also is brought into play, but it's headed by Eric Sinclair as a lad so pompous and wordy that I can imagine most kids would want to defy him.

On the whole, the picture is pretty painful, and you can take that any way you wish.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 19.—Sol Lesser returned from New York with a new story in his pocket—"Show Me the Land" by Clark McMeekin. It's about the post-Civil war period, goes back to 1860, and among other things will show the first Kentucky Derby. . . . William K. Howard has a producer-director contract at Republic, and his first will be "A Guy Could Change." He'll star Alan Lane, one of their young western actors. . . . Metro bought "The Lady in the Lake" from Raymond Chandler for 35,000 smackers. It's a murder mystery. I have a hunch they've got Bill Powell in mind for it. . . . Warners is trying to borrow Chuck Waters from Metro to stage the big dance numbers in "Night and Day." . . . James Thurber not only has a new one which is the book of the month, but he's sold an original story to Sam Goldwyn. I hope Sam borrows Nunnally Johnson to do the screen play. Nunnally understands Thurber's delicate humor and would retain all its flavor.

Well, I Swan! Is Peggy Carson Marguerite Nelson?

If Peggy Carson, here under contract to Warners, isn't Marguerite Colbourne—pardon me, Mrs. Donald M. Nelson—then Marguerite's a twin. Their photographs are exactly alike. Peggy Carson was here for some time, but I haven't heard of her being in any pictures. . . . Lois Andrews testing for Amber in "Forever Amber." There'd be a riot in our town if, after all the 'names" Bill Perlberg's tested, he handed the part to Lois. . . . Evelyn Ankers started something new, at least for our town—a dew bath. I don't think it will be popular, 'cause it means a roll in the dew [and I do mean dew] at 5 a. m. . . . Evelyn Keyes and Charles Vidor must have reconciled. She's moved back into the Vidor apartment.

Monty and Mountbatten Got on Swimmingly.

Have you heard the silly about Lord Louis Mountbatten and Gen. Montgomery? Lord Louis wanted to see the battle of Normandy. Montgomery promised to fly him over, but the fog hemmed them in so they proceeded by boat. Boat was sunk, throwing them both in the water. Lord Louis started to sink when Monty threw him his life preserver, and said, "Put your hand on my shoulder—I'll swim you ashore." When they arrived there, Lord Louis said, "Monty, as lord of the admiralty, I hope you'll keep my secret that I can't swim." Said Monty, "I will if you won't let it be known that I can't walk on the water." . . . Allan Jones has been grounded from his motorcycle. He narrowly escaped being killed. . . . Louise Allbritton is being paged by the Pan American theater in Mexico City.

Let the Yanks Decide G. I. Joe Question.

Les Cowan gave a farewell luncheon for Capt. Milton Thornton, who returns to Fort Benning after doing technical work on "G. I. Joe." With so much controversy over title, Les should let soldiers themselves pick a title. Why not run an ad in their own newspaper, Stars and Stripes, learn what they'd like to be called, then call 'em that. . . . Eleanor Roosevelt, in talking to 1,200 wounded who'd just returned from Europe, said this to them: "Remember, when you return home, you'll have to be very patient with your families. They don't understand what being blitzed means." . . . Dan Kelley of Universal and Brod Crawford, both being Irish, used to have the darnedest arguments when Brod was loaned off the lot and would object to certain clauses. Now Brod's short-waving from London, and Kelley wrote him: "How about your quitting at 6 p. m. now? Surprised at your accepting a sergeant role. You never played less than a general here. So you'll only work from 9 to 6, huh? Boy, have I got the laugh on you. You're in the army." Yes, and Dan's got a son there, too.

From Bulls to Bull.

When Bud Boetticher did a broadcast to South America, we discovered he's also a Mexican bullfighter. He directed "Escape in the Fog" for Columbia. When he graduated from Ohio State, he decided to travel, got as far as Mexico, learned to fight bulls. That was a little too strenuous, so he landed in Hollywood to become a messenger boy for Hal Roach, and now he's directing pictures. . . . The sets on "State Fair" are so like the gay white way that Walter Lang has to appoint his assistant, Joe Richter, as truant officer. The 40 kids working on the picture skipped classes to play on the gay white way. . . . Jack Douglas says the man power shortage is REALLY getting serious. He saw a sign: "Wanted—expert watchmaker. No previous experience necessary."

'Private Investigator Maclain'

(Copyright: 1945: By Baynard Kendrick.)

By Baynard Kendrick

INSTALMENT XXXVIII.
AN EXPERIMENT.

This was a problem, complex because it was simple. Maclain had forgotten that two equilateral triangles placed together can make a square.

The elements had all existed and he had stupidly ignored them, yet less than 15 minutes before he had given the sergeant the answer when he'd told him, "The readiness is all."

The puzzle was nearly completed. He swept the piece into a drawer and pushed his time signal button.

The operator's voice assured him it was 20 minutes to 10.

The captain found his hat, checked his automatic, and called to Schnucke. Five minutes later he was in a cab headed downtown to have a talk with Paul Hirst.

The secretary admitted him without surprise.

Maclain touched the sleeve of the dressing gown Paul was wearing and said, "I hope I didn't disturb you."

"I'm here alone. I turned in early to read, that's all. What did you find at the hospital?"

"Nothing much more than I told you at Sarah Hanley's. Does Larmar subscribe to a clipping bureau?"

"Yes," said Paul.

"What color are the slips they attach to their clippings?"

"It's probably Romeike's Clipping bureau," said Paul, "if you're referring to the slips that were torn from the clippings Sybella found."

"Did Larmar ever do any newspaper stories that you know of?"

"Not that I know of."

"What kind of ties does Larmar wear? Bow or four-in-hand?"

"Four-in-hand, but you're mistaken if you think he ever left one up at Troy's place," said Paul.

"What makes you say that? Did any one mention finding a tie in Troy's place?"

"Then what are you asking about them for?" Paul lit a cigaret. "He's a careful man, Capt. Maclain. If he had any affairs, he kept them clear of his married life."

"But I understand he ran around with women?"

"He did nearly everything to win back Lucia."

"From whom?"

"Morse," said Paul.

Maclain locked his fingers around one knee. "How well did Troy Singleton know him?"

"Morse? I didn't know she knew him."

"That's one on me. Troy got around. I just found out this morning that Sarah Hanley knew her, too."

"Who told you that?"

"Gallagher," said Paul. "He called me up, wanting to come up here. I called Bob Morse because I wanted some one here during the interview."

"You said nothing about that at Sarah Hanley's this afternoon. Why not?"

"I've learned to keep my mouth shut unless people ask me questions. Besides, I wanted to see if Hanley would mention it herself. She didn't even crack when she heard about Gallagher being killed, yet he told us here this morning that he was going to talk to her."

"Did you intend to tell anybody about that fact?" asked Duncan Maclain.

"That's her business, and it's certainly not mine to involve innocent people. Morse knew it. Let him say something if he wants to."

"Maybe you're right. You live here, don't you?"

"Yes."

"I tried to get some information from Larmar this afternoon. His memory's hazy. Maybe you can help me, Paul."

"I'll do what I can." Paul snuffed out his cigaret.

"Larmar said that on Wednesday night Brownie Mitchell was here."

"That's right."

"On Thursday morning, the day Troy was killed, Larmar went up to Sarah Hanley's then came home and had lunch with Bob Morse."

"Check," said Paul.

"Was Morse here at any other time that you know of within 24 hours before the murder?"

"No," said Paul.

The captain stood up. "Is there a clock on the wall?"

"Yes. It's 20 past 10."

"Get me one of Larmar's pistols, will you?"

"Which one?"

"Any one, Paul. Preferably that Stotzer target pistol, if you can find it. It's similar to the gun that killed Troy."

Paul was back in a minute with the gun.

The captain said, "I'm going to set this up on the terrace wall. You keep your eye on that clock."

He vanished into the dark dampness outside and was gone some time. When he came back in, he asked, "How long did it take me?"

"About 12 minutes," said Paul.

The captain came back in and sat down. "Whoever set that gun up out there had to take much longer than that to do it. It had to be done when Larmar wasn't around. It certainly couldn't have been planted there during the cocktail party. Would Morse have had a chance to do that during lunch time?"

"He didn't go out onto the terrace during lunch time. He was with me and Larmar getting dope on the profile from the time he arrived till the time he left."

Maclain stood up, frowning. "There are just too many things that don't fit in," he announced. "I don't believe in too many coincidences. I'm beginning to think that whoever hit Sybella knew she was going to Troy's apartment. Now I can't figure out how that gun got placed on the terrace, even tho I know who fired the shot at Troy."

Paul left his seat and walked up closer to the captain. "If you know who fired the shot at Troy, why don't you have him arrested?"

Outside of the Jordan apartment the captain stopped, then turned and went back and rang the doorbell.

Paul answered and asked, "Forget something?"

"Yes. I forgot that it wouldn't make any difference when that gun was set in the terrace wall."

"I don't get it."

"You and Mitchell were cataloging the guns, weren't you?"

"Yes."

"Do you remember the last time you came across that Buchel pistol?"

"It wasn't really part of the collection. It was a target pistol Larmar used. I don't believe we cataloged it."

Mrs. E. J., Chicago.—When I need half a cup of shortening for a recipe I fill my measuring cup half full of water. Then I add shortening until the water in the cup is at the one cup line. This is an easy and quick way of accurate measurement, I've found.

Ellen H., Valparaiso, Ind.—In most cases plain salt will remove tea stains from china, but where stains are stubborn I make a mixture of salt and vinegar. More efficacious.

Mrs. John G., Waterloo, Ia.—I find household tasks easier if work surfaces are the right height—certainly not too low. Because I am tall I had a special two inch cutting board made, and I place this on a work surface when I'm on the job. If surfaces are too high for a short person, a small working platform on which one can stand, is a help.

'STANDINGS OF THE STARS'

Lucky Thirteen

Thirteen programs still maintain their position among America's "Favorite 15." The two shows that break into the charmed circle in this week's report are Frank Morgan and The Aldrich Family. Bob Hope, practically a fixture in first place, is still tops; Fibber is second.

Majestic Radio News No. 26
February 15, 1945

THE STANDINGS OF THE STARS

National Program Ratings of your 15 Best-liked Shows from Hooper Radio Reports

PROGRAM	RATINGS Feb. 15	Feb. 1
Bob Hope	1	1
Fibber McGee & Molly	2	2
Radio Theatre	3	6
Bing Crosby	4	3
Mr. District Attorney	5	5
Charlie McCarthy	6	7
Walter Winchell	7	4
Jack Benny	8	8
Screen Guild Players	9	10

Eddie Cantor	11	11
Abbott & Costello	12	12

Frank Morgan	15	34

Ratings are based on 2500 telephone calls per hour made from 6 PM to 10:30 PM in 32 cities. National ratings computed for programs heard in certain areas after 10:30 PM local time.

Wistful Vista, "radio home" of Fibber and Molly, has been chosen as the name of a Liberator bomber based in England.

What's "Electronics"?

You've heard that Electronics will bring new listening pleasure from your radio—will bring television into your home—will do countless "magic" tricks about the house. But what is Electronics? Is it new? Is it magic?

It's not new: you have Electronic tubes in your radio now. It's the methods of using Electronics that are new. It's not magic: it's simply an electric current flowing between two points and traveling in space instead of along a wire like electricity.

It is true, however, that the most important new applications of Electronics will provide higher quality of reception in the new Majestic Radio—plus better reproduction of records in the new Majestic Radio-Phonograph. Skilled engineering and expert styling make a Majestic Radio or Radio-Phonograph your best choice for better listening. Be sure to see Majestic before you buy.

Experienced Boss

Ed Gardner, the Archie of Duffy's Tavern, had quite a career before he began bossing the place where "The elite meet to eat." No stranger to radio, Ed was producer for such stars as Bing Crosby, Rudy Vallee, Al Jolson, Fanny Brice, and George Burns and Gracie Allen.

Flash! Soon you'll be able to buy Majestic Phonograph Records! Watch for musical hits on Majestic records at your favorite shop.

Bing's Healing Voice

For a long time your ears have recognized the soothing quality of Bing Crosby's voice—but now . . . your eyes can see it! An electronic device transfers the sound waves to light waves in technicolor!

A 16 mm. technicolor film of Bing's voice showing color patterns formed by the variations in tone, is found to be specially soothing in nerve cases. The film will be distributed to rehabilitation hospitals so that wounded soldiers and sailors may benefit from seeing Bing's voice.

WASTE FATS—Each pound worth 2 red ration points and 4 cents.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

There are indications that potatoes may not be too plentiful this spring. We'll have to conserve present supplies. One of the best ways to avoid waste is to cook the potato in its skin. This not only stretches the potato itself, but saves food nutrients lying next to the skin.

We must shake the pepper jar lightly, for pepper supplies are almost gone. Until we get the Japs out of the Dutch East Indies, there won't be much more.

A recent report indicates that homemakers are paying 121 per cent more for fresh fruits and vegetables than they paid before the war, in 1939.

A fine consolation when we use molasses to replace sugar is the fact that molasses is rich in blood building iron, and sugar has no food value aside from its quick energy, which molasses also affords.

Cut skinny slices from this rich molasses sweetened pie. It's the kind of dessert you serve after a light meal.

Prune Marmalade Pie.

- 9 inch pastry lined pie plate
- ½ pound prunes, cooked
- ½ cup prune juice
- ½ cup sugar
- ⅛ cup molasses
- 4 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- ⅔ cup shredded coconut
- 2 tablespoons melted margarine
- ¼ cup orange marmalade
- 2 stiffly beaten egg whites

Pit prunes. Combine prune juice with sugar and molasses and heat gently until sugar is dissolved. Pour sirup slowly over egg yolks, stirring vigorously. Add prunes, coconut, margarine, and marmalade. Fold in egg whites. Pour into pastry lined pie plate and bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Decrease heat to 350 degrees and bake a half hour longer.

Potato and egg croquettes, seasoned with parsley and mustard, are a Lenten delicacy. Deep fry the croquettes if you have enough fat; otherwise saute them until brown in a skillet.

Potato and Egg Croquettes.
[Serves six.]

- 6 hard cooked eggs, chopped
- 2 cups mashed potatoes
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- ¼ cup sliced sauteed mushrooms
- Fine bread crumbs

Combine chopped eggs with potatoes, seasonings, and mushrooms. Blend well and shape into croquettes. Roll in fine crumbs and fry until golden brown in small amount of fat in a skillet, or in deep fat heated to 375 degrees.

TURN IN WASTE FATS FOR POINTS AND PENNIES!

Here and There.

Corp. Edward L. Ryerson III. just missed being able to greet his new son, born yesterday in St. Luke's hospital, as he was at home on leave last week from Camp Crowder, Mo. The baby, who has been named Benjamin, has a little sister, Susan, who is staying in Lake Forest with young Mr. Ryerson's parents, the Clay Judsons. Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson are the paternal grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Walworth of Evanston hope to make a trip east early in April to see their new grandson, Edward Zinsser Walworth, who was born Jan. 30 in Columbia hospital in Washington, D. C. The baby is the first child of Capt. and Mrs. Walworth Jr. [Nancy Zinsser]. Capt. Walworth, who recently was promoted from first lieutenant, is stationed in Washington. The Walworth's other son, Capt. John Walworth, and his wife and little daughter, Jane, are living in Detroit, Mich.

A familiar figure from time to time on the tennis court of the Racquet club is Dennis King, who will be found there in the afternoons after today and during the Chicago run of "The Searching Wind," in which he appears with Cornelia Otis Skinner. The play opens tonight in the Erlanger theater.

Noted Medical Missionaries Honored Here

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Two of the Protestant world's most noted medical missionaries from the orient were honored by Chicago last night in the Hotel Sherman. One was Dr. Ida Scudder, known almost everywhere in the world as Dr. Ida, and Dr. Edward H. Hume, famed thruout the orient as a president of Yale in China and former coördinator of independent missions hospitals for the Chinese republic.

Dr. Ida, first woman graduate of Cornell university medical school and founder of Women's medical college at Vellore, India, told of the founding of her hospital in 1900 and the Vellore medical school in 1918. Her grandfather, Dr. John Scudder, was the first medical missionary to enter India, and 49 members of her immediate family have given 1,200 years of missionary service to that country. Now the Vellore school, having obtained support of 38 communions thruout the English speaking world, and Denmark, Sweden, and India, is to become coeducational and renamed the All-India Christian Medical college.

The importance of women doctors in India was emphasized by the fact that men are virtually prohibited by religious custom from practicing obstetrics. Up to now, Dr. Ida's school has graduated 300 doctors. But due to the rise of the Congress party in India, a crisis faces not only the medical school but also all Christian institutions of medical care in that country.

Sudden demands of the government for heightened medical education standards, together with demands for affiliation with state universities and communal quotas for students in state medical schools [Christianity is one of the smallest communal groups in India], threaten Christian institutions of more than a century of development. Christian graduates of medical schools would be too few to staff the 900 Christian hospitals and dispensaries, inasmuch as the number of Christian students has been placed on a quota basis. Moreover, only state universities are now to grant degrees, with the enlarged Vellore institution accepted for affiliation with Madras university.

The British government in India has asked the Christian groups, thru the Vellore medical center, to undertake vast researches in leprosy and tuberculosis. Christian research students are now doing two thirds of this work. Thru their mission boards, the 38 denominational groups are being asked to contribute a million dollars for the necessary development.

Dr. Scudder told of treating the sick by roadsides under the trees. Ambulances from the Vellore college and hospital now treat 300 to 400 roadside patients daily.

Dr. Hume praised the work of Dr. Scudder and, as an authority on oriental medical needs, pleaded for unstinted support of the new development. He is the father of the late Rev. Theodore H. Hume, who was pastor of the former New England Congregational church. The latter was killed in an airplane accident over Sweden in 1943 while studying post-war needs of European churches for the World Council of Churches.

DOWNSTATERS BEHIND CANAL SUPER-HIGHWAY

Joliet, Lockport Leaders Join in Indorsing Plan.

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

A score of business leaders from Joliet and Lockport joined yesterday to indorse construction of the proposed super-highway into Chicago on the site of the abandoned Illinois and Michigan canal. They sent to Gov. Green a resolution commending the utilization of the old waterway as the southwest Chicago expressway.

Sen. Barr [Joliet] and James E. Bulger, vice-president of the Chicago Motor club, announced at the meeting in the Louis Joliet hotel in Joliet that members of the legislature would be invited on an inspection tour of the canal as soon as weather permits.

Commission Bill Pushed.

To further the campaign to give downstate Illinois a super-highway connection into the heart of Chicago, Rep. Hollingsworth [R., Joliet] asked all members of the Illinois house of representatives to join in emergency enactment of a bill creating a special Illinois and Michigan canal commission. The bill is scheduled to come up for a passage roll call at Springfield today.

Mayors Arthur O. Janke of Joliet and Joseph H. Raue of Lockport attended the meeting, which was called by the Chicago Motor club. Bulger told them that their cities, as well as other downstate communities, would gain population and have increased economic importance if a fast and safe traffic artery into Chicago is provided. A modern expressway along the canal would permit hundreds of thousands of downstaters and suburbanites to reach the loop quickly, while Chicago residents would be able to get to rural highways without difficulty.

Would Reduce Accidents.

Accidents would be reduced 90 per cent, and each motorist would save $210 a year by using a superhighway thru Chicago's southwest side, Matthew Sielski, motor club engineer said.

Thru Joliet, the canal is now merged with the Illinois deep waterway whose construction helped speed the abandonment of the Illinois and Michigan canal. The resolution adopted at the Joliet meeting urged that the super-highway be constructed at least to the Lockport-Joliet area, instead of terminating at Summit, Willow Springs, or Lemont.

The Joliet resolution suggested that the super-highway connect the canal, which terminated at South Ashland river and the Chicago river's south branch, with the Outer drive. Gov. Green has instructed state engineers to survey the canal, and Mayor Kelly is among those who have approved the project.

STATE ASYLUM PATIENTS KILL FELLOW INMATE

Coroner Madison of Kankakee county said yesterday he had officially closed the inquest into the death on Feb. 13 of Louis Field, 35, Chicago Negro, a patient in Manteno State hospital who was fatally beaten by two white inmates. Field, who lived at 660 S. Clark st. when he was committed on Feb. 8, 1944, suffered a ruptured liver in a fight with Joseph Even and Charles Sitzler in the hospital. Dr. Edward Ross, supervising physician, said Field was always especially violent.

FINED $25 ON GAMBLING CHARGE.

Andrew Kirozulos, 55, of 303 S. Halsted st., was fined $25 by Judge Jay A. Schiller in South State st. court yesterday where he was charged with keeping a gambling house at 21 E. Balbo av. Five patrons were dismissed.

STORES PACKED BY RATION-FREE SHOE SHOPPERS

Shoppers stormed shoe stores yesterday to purchase women's ration-free, odd-lot leather footgear released for special selling thru March 3 by the office of price administration.

Department managers said shoppers were waiting at the doors when the stores opened at noon, and within a few minutes had occupied every chair and crowded the standing room. In the basement section of one store, a clerk was posted at the stockroom door to keep impatient women from helping themselves.

Women stood about with several pairs of shoes, and the money to pay for them, in their hands, waiting for salespersons to complete the sales. "This is the first day of the sale," a harassed clerk said. "If tomorrow is anything like today there won't be a ration-free shoe in the house in a couple of days."

While most other departments of the shops were quiet, clerks in the basement linen section of one store were snowed under by purchasers of bed sheets and bath towels, items on the scarcities list. A large shipment had been placed on the counters and customers were five deep around the rims.

BABY SNATCHED FROM KIDNAPER AT TEXAS TRIAL

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 19 [Special].—Two month old Milly McGill was the center of a whirl of legal procedure and parental emotion today as the state began a trial designed to jail the woman who kidnaped her last month and now is the real mother's choice to have her custody.

At the end of a bewildering day, Velma McGill, 19, the mother, was awarded temporary custody of Milly by Civil District Judge Bruce Young, who is presiding in a divorce action brought by Velma against the baby's father, C. A. McGill. Judge Young enjoined Velma from carrying out her expressed intention of turning Milly over to Mrs. Melba Branson, 19, the kidnaper.

Meanwhile, in the adjacent courtroom of Criminal District Judge Willis McGregor, the selection of a jury to try Mrs. Branson on a kidnaping charge was completed after the judge denied a defense motion to quash the indictment.

Baby Taken by McGill.

Milly started her day by being carried into the criminal court in the arms of Mrs. Branson. In the party were Velma and Mrs. Branson's husband, Lt. C. E. Branson, a gunnery instructor at the Laredo army air field.

McGill was waiting for them. He stepped up to Mrs. Branson, snatched Milly from her, and bolted out the door. He dashed across the street to a health center and plumped Milly there. McGill said he doesn't intend to contest his wife's divorce action but that he will fight any move to turn the child over to Mrs. Branson.

Nurses at the health center found that Milly is a nursing baby and needed her mother. They sent a call to the courthouse for Velma, who took time off from her courtroom appearances to visit the health center and feed the baby.

Asks Another Probe.

District Atty. Al Clyde, who has asserted he will prosecute Mrs. Branson to the limit for the kidnaping, promised to "find out what's behind this new deal." He asked the grand jury which last week indicted Mrs. Branson to reopen its investigation. Velma, who previously had testified against Mrs. Branson, was recalled and questioned at length by the grand jurors.

McGill met this move with a cross-action accusing his wife of "abandoning" Milly and asking custody himself.

Dist. Atty. Clyde late today also joined the custody fight by filing dependency suits against Milly and her half brother, Donald Ray Britton. The suit alleged that the parents were unable financially to support the children and that they were not "fit and proper persons to have their care and custody."

Mrs. Branson took Milly from Velma's hotel room Jan. 9 on the pretext of showing her to a friend. The baby was found the next day in a bus station in San Antonio, 200 miles away, with a note pinned to a blanket giving the mother's address.

Nurse Gets 1 to 3 Years for Fatal Abortion Case

Mrs. Louise Myers, 44, of 5490 Kenwood av., a practical nurse, was sentenced to one to three years in the reformatory for women at Dwight by Judge Frank M. Padden in Criminal court yesterday. She was found guilty Feb. 5 of performing an abortion, which resulted fatally, upon a 26 year old south side woman, the wife of a soldier. Mrs. Myers had been charged with manslaughter.

YOUR TIRES IN 1945

THE car owners of America now face the most serious shortage of tires since the war began. Today, more than ever before, it is essential to take the best possible care of the tires that are now on your car. No one knows when you will be able to get new ones.

A year ago, the outlook for new civilian tires was much better than it is today. At that time, the government, recognizing the need for more civilian tires, authorized the rubber industry to proceed with a $75,000,000 expansion program. If the war had progressed as expected, these additional facilities would have made it possible to provide more new tires for civilians by now.

But the war situation changed and changed greatly. General Eisenhower has declared that the armed forces must have more tires, and many more than were ever anticipated. Of course, the needs of our fighting men must come first. So the rubber industry's new facilities are being used for military tires instead of civilian tires. Certainly no one would have it any other way.

Firestone factories all over the world are working night and day to increase their production of tires and other war materials. And Firestone dealer stores and Firestone stores throughout the United States are prepared to give you the benefit of their expert advice based on long experience in tire care.

Car owners should not lose sight of the fact that tire conservation is still an urgent matter, nor feel that they can run out their present tires and get new ones whenever they want them. On the contrary, the only hope that car owners have of keeping their cars on the road is to have their present tires recapped and repaired before it is too late.

I cannot emphasize too strongly the seriousness of the situation. And I urge that those simple, yet fundamental, precautions for conserving tires, which have proved so successful in keeping America's irreplaceable cars in service, continue to be observed.

ILLINOIS AND IOWA WIN IN BIG NINE RACE

HARRIDGE, FRICK TO ASK YES OR NO ON '45 BASEBALL

PRESIDENTS OF LEAGUES MEET IN WASHINGTON

Expect Conferences with Officials.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The presidents of the two major leagues, Will Harridge of the American and Ford Frick of the National, today will start searching in Washington for the answer to baseball's 1945 fate. By midweek they hope to have definitely learned whether the game will operate this season.

Without any advance notice, President Harridge left yesterday afternoon for the capital. Frick arrived in Washington yesterday from New York.

It was learned from an authoritative source in Chicago last night that Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, has arranged for a series of conferences between the game's two representatives and high government officials. It is presumed that Harridge and Frick will confer with War Mobilization Director Byrnes.

Harridge Reported as Optimistic.

Harridge was reported to have been optimistic that baseball will continue before he left on his mission. At a major league meeting early this month he and Frick were appointed by the club owners to visit Washington and confer with the powers that be to clarify baseball's position.

The American league president was armed with a brief case containing complete factual information on the player personnel of the league. It was believed that Frick also had such statistics on the National leaguers. The player lists have been broken down to include 4-F's, 1-A's, those from 18 to 29 inclusive, and the group in the 30 years and older bracket. The American league has half a dozen 17 year olds who are not affected by the draft.

Will Harridge.

Ford Frick.

Want Yes or No in 1945.

It was emphasized that the baseball leaders are not carrying a plea to Washington, but that they simply want to tell their story and be given a direct yes or no as to 1945. It is generally agreed that if the work-or-fight bill passes in congress, baseball may not have enough players to carry on.

A baseball source in New York made this comment to the Associated Press:

"As we have said many times before, we don't want to use a single man who is needed by the armed forces or by essential industry. However, we'd like to keep the men who are not needed. All we ask is no discrimination. I believe Frick's principal point will be, "Either leave us enough men to play baseball or tell us to stop. You can't expect us to play without players."

REPORT BLOZIS, FOOTBALL STAR, LOST IN EUROPE

North Bergen, N. J., Feb. 19 [Special].—Lt. Al Blozis, former outstanding athlete at Georgetown university and later a star tackle with the New York football Giants, has been reported missing in action in the European theater, his parents said today.

Blozis, 6 feet 6½ inches and weighing 245 pounds, was last heard from on Feb. 2. He was inducted by the army on Dec. 9, 1943. He went to Walter Reed General hospital as a physical instructor and then to officers' candidate school at Fort Benning, Ga., where he was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the infantry.

Last fall when on furlough he reappeared in a Giant uniform for a few games. His presence proved of great help in enabling the Giants to win the eastern championship. Blozis was a former national champion in the shotput.

We do not know the reason for
This universal strife,
We only know that God, somehow,
Controls each human life.
And it may be the tears we shed

Some day we'll understand.

We do not know the reason why
Our dear friends have to part,
We only know when God comes in
He fills the lonely heart.
It may be in our loneliness
He lifts us by His hand
To greater blessings than we lost;
Some day we'll understand.

OMAHA AGAIN EYES TITLES IN GOLDEN GLOVES

Brown, Zuke Lead Nebraska Team.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

When the finest boxers in 23 states assemble for the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions in the Chicago Stadium next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, they well may give more than a respectful eye to the eight young men who will represent the Omaha [Neb.] World Herald. For more than a decade the Nebraskans have been outstanding performers in boxing's main event, and Sports Editor Floyd Olds of the World Herald admits that they are not going to be backward when the 1945 event starts.

Omaha teams have one of the best backgrounds of the 28 which will compete in the three day battle in the Stadium. Back in 1936 they sent up a couple of Creighton university football players who showed that they could throw punches as well as they could smash opposing tackles. The two, of course, were Heavyweight Paul Hartnek and Light Heavyweight Carl Vinciquerra, who went on to win golden gloves in their respective divisions. The following year Hartnek came back to repeat his triumph, thus becoming the only heavyweight title holder in the history of the tournament to date to complete a double.

Five Preps, Three Soldiers.

This year's World Herald team includes five 17 year old prep school swingers and three army men. Of the eight, three have had previous Golden Gloves experience, and all are determined this time to win their way thru the Tournament of Champions and into the finals, to be settled in the same Stadium ring on March 9.

Returning from last year's squad is Gene Brown, Negro high school student who distinguished himself in the 1944 Tournament of Champions as a 135 pounder, the same weight classification in which he will compete next week. Another who has been thru the Golden Gloves mill is Sgt. Truman Swingle, 23, an army air forces mechanic from the Harvard [Neb.] air field. A native of Kirksville, Mo., the sergeant, a welterweight, won a golden glove at Quincy, Ill., three years ago.

Zuke Knows the Ropes.

The third veteran, and the one on whom the Nebraskans are relying to carry on the Hartnek tradition, is Corp. William Zuke, physical education instructor at the Lincoln [Neb.] army air field. Bill, who scales 202 pounds, made his debut as a Golden Glover with the Minneapolis team of 1942, going to the quarter-finals of that year's Tournament of Champions.

Hartnek still will have a hand in this year's show, since the Omaha flyweight entry, Billy Book, is a student at Nebraska's famed Boys Town, where Hartnek is now athletic director. Other high school boxers among the World Herald invaders are: John Steiner, light heavyweight, who played end on Omaha Central High's eleven last fall; John Feeney, bantamweight, from South High, and Walter Reynek of Creighton prep, the featherweight. Pvt. Charles Green, Negro middleweight from Louisburg, N. C., who is stationed with the army air forces at Fairmont, Neb., completes the team.

Four More Pick Teams.

Four of the 28 centers which will open the Tournament of Champions next Monday completed selection of their candidates last night. They were the Fort Worth [Tex.] Star Telegram; the Minneapolis [Minn.] Star Journal and Tribune; the Terre Haute [Ind.] Tribune Star, and the Columbus, [O.] Dispatch. Tonight, the Cedar Rapids [Ia.] Gazette and the Pensacola [Fla.] News Journal will open their tournaments, with the former winding up Thursday and the latter Friday. The Streator [Ill.] Times Press will determine its team in a two day joust tomorrow and Thursday.

SNEAD DEFEATS NELSON ON 19TH IN OPEN GOLF

Gulfport, Miss., Feb. 19 (AP).—Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., won the Gulfport $5,000 open golf tournament today by one stroke after a 19 hole play-off against Byron Nelson of Toledo, O.

Snead's victory pulled him even with Nelson in the P. G. A. winter series, each having four championships, altho Snead has played in two fewer tournaments than Nelson.

Snead barely missed ending the play-off on the 18th when his five foot putt stopped on the lip of the cup. He wound up with a bogey on the par-4 hole while Nelson was getting even par to deadlock the score at 71-71. Then came the extra hole.

Nelson drove off first on the 19th hole. His ball stopped in the soggy grass at the edge of a ditch. His second try hit the opposite bank of the ditch and he dropped his ball out of it to lose one stroke. Byron was on the green on his fourth shot, and sank a 30 foot putt for a bogey 5.

Snead was within 15 feet of the cup on his second shot and when he putted to within one foot of the pin, Nelson walked over and clasped his hand, conceding the championship. Their cards:

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—Ralph Greenleaf made it two in a row over Willie Mosconi tonight as he defeated the world pocket billiard champion from Toledo, 125 to 20, in the second block of the New York competition in their cross country title match. Greenleaf won this afternoon, 125 to 76.

Crane Juniors Win; Stay in Section Race

Crane Tech's junior basketball team yesterday defeated Foreman, 50 to 40, in the west section of the City league for its fifth victory in nine games and retained a chance to gain a play-off berth in its section.

If Austin loses to Wells today Crane will be tied with Foreman for fourth place and will be chosen over the Foreman five, since City league rules specify that when two teams are tied preference must be given the team that has beaten the other.

Tech's offensive yesterday was paced by Alf Anderson, who scored 27 points. Crane led at the half, 25 to 21.

In the senior division McKinley defeated Tuley, 38 to 32, in an overtime session after John Netherly scored the tying basket as regulation time ran out. Netherly contributed two additional field goals in the overtime, with James Trammel scoring the other McKinley points.

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—Using his longer reach to good advantage Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., retained his New York version of the featherweight boxing championship tonight by outpointing Phil Terranova of New York in a 15 round bout in Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 10,247 contributed to a gross gate of $48,701 and saw the Hartford 124¾ pounder jab his way to a unanimous decision. Terranova, 125, waged a game fight, but Pep's superior reach proved too much of an advantage for Phil to overcome.

In gaining his 24th straight victory and his 86th in 87 bouts, Pep came close to scoring a knockout in the 10th round, when he overwhelmed Terranova with jabs, lefts to the stomach and rights to the jaw that had the Bronx challenger reeling as the bell rang.

At the end Judge Tom Guilfoyle gave Pep 12 rounds, Terranova three and called one even. Judge Marty Monroe scored it 10 to five, while Referee Arthur Donovan carded it as 10 for Pep, three for Terranova, and two even.

GOPHERS LOSE IN CHAMPAIGN GAME, 49 TO 48

Hawkeyes Defeat Badgers, 54-53.

Down the Stretch

THE University of Iowa, half a game ahead of Illinois in the Western conference basketball race, has three games remaining, two on the road and the final one in Iowa City against the Illini. Four contests remain on Illinois' schedule, all away from home. Remaining games for the rivals:

IOWA.	ILLINOIS.
Feb. 24, at Wis.	Feb. 23, at O. State
Feb. 26, at Minn.	Feb. 24, N. U. at Chi.
March 3, Ill. at Ia.	Feb. 28, at Indiana
	March 3, at Iowa.

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 19 [Special].—A fighting Minnesota basketball team tonight pushed Illinois to the limit before losing, 49 to 48, in a Western conference game.

Minnesota did not lead in the final 17 minutes of play but it was twice within a point of the league's second place quintet, at 45 to 44 with three minutes to play, and at the final stage.

Illini Take 49-44 Lead.

Baskets by Howard Judson and Jack Burmaster in the final three minutes gave Illinois a 49 to 44 lead. Clarence [Kleggie] Hermsen, 6 foot 7 inch Minnesota center, scored on a rebound shot to cut this margin to 49 to 46 with a minute left. Arnold [Butz] Lehrman drove in for a short shot to make the score 49 to 48 with 30 seconds to go.

When Walton [Junior] Kirk, acting Illinois captain, was fouled with 21 seconds to play, he attempted the first throw, missed it, and took the ball out of bounds so Illinois could stall the rest of the way.

Eighth Straight Victory.

Tonight marked Illinois' eighth straight victory, and its seventh in conference competition against one defeat. Minnesota has won three and lost seven.

Hermsen led scorers of both teams with 17 points. Jack Burmaster paced Illinois with 16. Line-ups:

IOWA KEEPS PACE

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 19 [Special].—A final two and a half minute Badger splurge fell one point short tonight and the Iowa basketball team retained its hold on the Big Nine lead by scoring a 54 to 53 victory over Wisconsin before 11,50o.

This gave the Hawkeyes a record of eight conference victories and one defeat to seven and one for Illinois.

The Badgers built up an early 12 to 3 lead, let down momentarily while the Hawkeye scoring machine swung into action, and then spurted again to take a 30 to 13 margin at the close of the first 10 minutes of play. Then Iowa turned on its scoring power to pull away to a 29 to 24 margin at half-time as the Hawkeye defense limited the Badgers to four free throws during this 10 minute span.

It Was Mighty Close.

Iowa jumped off to a 34 to 24 lead before the Badgers scored their first point of the second period, then Wisconsin struck out to trim this down. It had little luck tho until the final three and a half minutes after Herb Wilkinson had closed the scoring for Iowa.

Then Ray Patterson hit a one hander, Substitute Vince Goering scored on a set shot, and Tiny Gene Mathews counted from under the basket. With 15 seconds remaining, Patterson tipped one in, but the Badgers never got their hands on the ball again.

WILDCATS HOPE TO SCORE UPSET AGAINST ILLINI

Conference Teams Clash Saturday in Stadium.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The University of Illinois, which will be a factor in the concluding weeks of the Western conference basketball race by virtue of games with Iowa and Ohio State, will help bring the Chicago Stadium double headers to a successful conclusion Saturday night by meeting Northwestern in the first game of the program. De Paul's return contest with Western Kentucky of Bowling Green, Ky., completes the schedule.

Northwestern ends its conference schedule Saturday and, while the Wildcats have won only three games, they have lost three of eight in overtime periods and have scored seven points more than all 11 opponents. Illinois won the first game of the series, 51 to 42.

Wildcats Aim at Upset.

Northwestern hopes to duplicate last year's dramatic finish by which it knocked Purdue out of the championship race and then divided a series at Iowa City which enabled Ohio State to win the title while the Hawkeyes finished second.

Illinois will have the handicap of travel, as it meets Ohio State in Columbus Friday night, when the Wildcats are idle. However, Northwestern will not resume practice until tomorrow and will not have Frank Wright, regular guard, who is spending a leave at his home in Bremerton, Wash. Other members of the squad whose R. O. T. C. duties prevent practice until tomorrow are Ben Schadler, John Rothrock, Fred Johnson, Duane Sickels, and Red Clawson.

Kentuckians Shift Lineup.

Western Kentucky's Hilltoppers have made a change in their starting lineup since being beaten by De Paul in Louisville, 65 to 37. Jim Bazzell, 6 feet 2 inches, has earned a forward position in the last three games. In this game De Paul will finish its regular schedule. It has won 17 and lost 2.

The Demons, of course, are eligible for selection to represent the fourth district in the National Collegiate Athletic association tournament in New York or may participate in the New York invitational tournament as they did last year. Iowa now is included in the fourth district with other Western conference teams.

Casting Again Is Outdoors Show Feature

BY BOB BECKER.

The Tribune sports department again will sponsor the casting contests to be held at the annual International Sportsmen's show in the Coliseum March 10-18.

This feature, one of the most popular on the show's program, will include competition for fishermen, who may use their regular fishing rods and reels; casters attached to various clubs in Chicago, women, boys and girls under 17, and men in uniform. There are no entry fees for any of the events.

Two New Events Listed.

The casting program for this year's show offers two new events —one for husband and wives, who will cast as a team, and another for men in uniform. Last year many soldiers, sailors, and marines competed in the various events. This year a special bait casting contest will be held solely for service men and women. A $25 war bond will be awarded to the winner, with $10 in war stamps to the one who places second.

Casters who wish to enter any of the events listed below are advised to use the entry coupon which will be published in the sports section Sunday, Feb. 25, and for several days thereafter. Or entry may be made by postcard to the Casting Editor, Chicago Tribune.

Sopko was down for an eight count in the first round but came back to give a good account of himself the rest of the way.

In other bouts on the program Sammy Saunders of Chicago knocked out George Sapolich of Johnston, Pa., in the second round; Robert Weatherly of Chicago beat Bobby Pryor, also of Chicago, and Art Brown, Chicago, knocked out Jimmy Wilson, also of Chicago, in the first round.

Harvard Five Is Favorite in Private Meet

BY DAVID CONDON.

A Harvard school quintet only once defeated in league competition will have the role of favorite tomorrow afternoon when play begins in the University of Chicago fieldhouse in the fifth annual Private School league basketball tournament.

Todd school of Woodstock, Ill., is the defending champion, but Harvard, coached by Les Dehr, has compiled an impressive record over the season and has been ranked over last season's winner. Harvard has won nine and lost one, a defeat dealt by University High, in league competition, having won the league title last week. In nonleague performances, the Harvard five has won six and lost one.

Jerry Neff paces the Harvard school attack. This forward has scored 211 points in 17 games, for a better than 12 point per game average. On the other hand, the league champions will be playing without their center, Alan McKinley, who was graduated recently and is awaiting a call to military service.

Also missing will be one of the most colorful performers seen in the Private School league, Johnny Groth, Chicago Latin triple letter winner who withdrew from school two weeks ago after leading the Latin football team to the league championship and sparking the Latin basketball team.

BOSS OF F.B.I. NOT SEEKING LANDIS' POST

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 19 (AP).—Sports Editor Sam Adams of the Montgomery Advertiser, who recently suggested the appointment of John Edgar Hoover as national baseball commissioner, had this reply today from the FBI director:

"I have no intention of leaving my present position . . . in the midst of a war."

Hoover in a letter said, however, "I appreciate very much the sentiments you have expressed."

3 GAMES MAKE HAWKS FORGET MORAL VICTORY

The Blackhawks, flushed with the moral success of Sunday's scoreless tie against the champion Canadiens were permitted no time for self-congratulation yesterday as Manager Paul Thompson sent them thru a 90 minute drill on the Chicago Stadium ice. Nor did Thompson stop there, for he devoted another hour to lecturing the team on its prospects, if any, for a berth in the Stanley cup playoffs.

Thompson took time out to praise his charges for being the only National Hockey league team to hold the rampaging Canadiens to a single goal in two consecutive games, then confronted them with the difficulty of their remaining games. Most immediate problem, of course, is tomorrow night's battle against the Boston Bruins on the Stadium rink. The Bruins now hold fourth place, last in the Stanley cup cast, by a margin of four games over the last place Hawks, with the fifth place Rangers heading Chicago by two games.

Play 2 with Detroit.

In the last three games against the Bruins, traditional bane of Chicago hopes, the Hawks won two and yielded another by a single goal, 3 to 2. Aside from tomorrow's argument, Boston and Chicago have two more scheduled games, in Boston on March 11 and in Chicago on March 15. Two other vital contests are the pair left against the Rangers, whom the Hawks will meet in New York on March 1 and in the Stadium on March 7.

Following the Boston game tomorrow, Thompson pointed out, the Hawks could put in a strong claim for a playoff spot if they could score a double against Detroit this weekend. They will invade the Wings' rink Saturday, returning to the Stadium for an encore on Sunday.

Richard Paces League Scorers.

The Hawks and the Canadiens shared the league spotlight last week. The Chicagoans, who tied the Frenchmen on their own ice, 1 to 1, on Feb. 1, became the first team to shut out the champs since last Nov. 25. Montreal continued to dominate individual scoring, with its first string line holding down three of the first four places. Individual pacemaker is still Maurice Richard, who set a new league record with his 44th goal.

ILLINOIS PREPS START DISTRICT TOURNEYS TODAY

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 19 (AP).—Champaign's invasion of Taylorville, bringing together the state's No. 2 and No. 7 teams, shares top billing in Illinois prep basketball tomorrow with 56 district tournaments.

The district meets open the 38th annual title eliminations that begin with a field of 831 teams. The 56 champions to be named Friday, along with the runners-up from two meets, will join 422 larger schools in next week's 60 regional tournaments.

The 60 regional winners from that 480 team field will advance to 15 sectional meets which will send champions to the state finals in Champaign March 15, 16, and 17.

Seeks Second Triumph.

Champaign will be seeking a second victory over Taylorville, the defending state champion, tomorrow. Champaign won by 11 points on Jan. 9.

Meanwhile the Pinckneyville Panthers, who skidded two places to 10th in the latest Associated Press poll ratings, will entertain Herrin [won 19, lost 7]. They split two earlier encounters.

The top 15, only slightly revised but with three newcomers at the bottom of the list, were chosen in this order in the 11th weekly poll: Decatur [29-1], Champaign [24-1], East Rockford [18-2], Galesburg [17-2], Morton of Cicero [16-4], West Frankfort [26-4], Taylorville [25-4], Elgin [13-3], Riverside [17-3], Pinckneyville [25-5], Paris [26-5], Moline [12-8], Alton [23-3], Robinson [19-3], and Danville [12-7].

Decatur was ranked first by 26 of 30 sports writers. Champaign got 26 second place nominations and four firsts, putting it only 21 votes behind the Reds.

Morton Moves Up.

Morton exchanged places with West Frankfort, and Elgin and Riverside moved up as Pinckneyville descended. Moline also gained strength, advancing slightly in front of Alton's Southwestern conference titlists, who made the select group for the first time this season. Robinson and Danville rejoined the elite by narrow margins over Joliet, Centralia, Freeport, and Waukegan.

Decatur expects a rough challenge Friday at West Frankfort before closing at East St. Louis Saturday. Champaign winds up at Mattoon Friday.

Other week-end contests which end regularly scheduled competition include:

Cubs Begin to Think About Spring Drills

The Cubs will start stirring this week preparatory to their March 7 getaway to French Lick, Ind., for spring exercises. Manager Charley Grimm will arrive Thursday morning and remain in the city until March 1 or 2 when he will go to the Indiana camp to await the arrival of the players.

Bobby Dorr, the Cubs' veteran diamond landscape artist, will leave in a few days for French Lick to inspect and supervise work on the training field.

The management is making no announcements relative to signed contracts and the squad personnel probably will not be completely known until drills begin on March 8 at French Lick.

Grimm will team up with Bob Lewis, Cubs' traveling secretary, in a comedy skit Thursday night on the Calvalcade of Sports program in Chicago Stadium. The show is being sponsored by the Illinois state department of the Disabled American Veterans, whose service fund will receive the proceeds. Wounded veterans from Vaughan, Gardiner, Hines, and Great Lakes hospitals will be guests. The Grimm-Lewis act is one of 20 on the bill.

TOP CAMEL BACK IS CUT OFF FOR TIRE RECAPPING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—Grade A camel-back, the top grade for recapping tires, soon will not be available for recapping passenger car and small truck tires, WLB said today.

Only grade C camel-back will be available, it said, because a shortage of carbon black will postpone indefinitely the manufacture of grade A camel-back for such purposes.

Grade A camel-back is made of buna synthetic rubber and requires large quantities of new carbon black. Grade C uses about 30 per cent reclaimed rubber, reducing the required amount of carbon black.

INSURANCE MEN APPROVE WIDER SECURITY PLAN

Oppose Impairment of Will to Work.

Extension of the federal social security program to many millions of workers now excluded and other changes to strengthen its effectiveness were recommended yesterday by a joint committee of life insurance organizations. Altho indorsing the principles of social security, the committee advised against changes that would impair the will to work or prove so costly as to affect the nation's economy.

The recommendations were prepared by representatives of the American Life Convention, Life Insurance Association of America, and National Association of Life Underwriters, and were issued thru the Institute of Life Insurance.

Coverage for All Workers.

Extension of old age and survivors' insurance was urged wherever feasible to include gainfully employed groups not covered, among them agricultural and domestic workers, government employes, railroad workers, employes of nonprofit organizations, and the self-employed.

A thoro review was asked of processes which determine benefits and eligibility status. For example, present minimum benefits could be raised to $20 a month [$30 per aged couple], subject to appropriate safeguards, with no increase in the top limit of $85 a month, the study asserted.

Other recommendations were:

1. Close study of the best means to safeguard the interests of men and women in the army and navy and of persons who continue to work beyond 65.

Would Aid Prematurely Aged.

2. Extension of old age and survivors' insurance to provide benefits for total and permanent disability after the age of 55, thereby making allowances for some persons who become prematurely old in the sense that they no longer can work.

3. Extension wherever feasible of unemployment compensation protection to all groups of workers except the self-employed and possibly employes of nonprofit organizations.

4. Study of the practicability of relating unemployment compensation benefits partly to the number of dependents of a married worker.

5. Continued experimentation by the states with merit rating in financing unemployment benefits.

6. A moderate increase in the maximum number of weeks for unemployment compensation if and when the financial position of state plans permits, rather than shortening the waiting period or increasing the level of benefits.

Tax Based on Needs Asked.

The statement called for a reexamination of the entire problem of financing old age benefits. It characterized as unsound proposals that social security taxes should be increased to combat inflation or help finance the war. To protect the system it urged that social security taxation policy be determined only by the needs of social security.

"To maintain proper incentives to work, social security benefits should be determined by the level of subsistence," the statement asserted. "Just as benefits must not be so large as to interfere with the will to work, so the cost of social security must not be so high nor so allocated among taxpayers as to discourage industry and private saving. It is essential that social security measures be developed with caution, prudence, and moderation. Otherwise they will create conditions and impose costs even more serious than the situations they are designed to cure."

WPB PLACES FABRICS ON PRIORITY TO GET LOW PRICED CLOTHES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19 (AP).—The war production board today ordered 80 per cent of the civilian supply of woolen goods and 75 per cent of rayons set aside for low and medium priced clothing.

The WPB also designated 37 kinds of rayon garments and 29 of woolen and worsted fabrics for which manufacturers may get priorities to obtain materials. These actions were WPB's final steps in its share of the program to replenish store shelves with inexpensive clothing by early summer.

The office of price administration, co-sponsor of the program, announced a plan to control manufacturers' price levels to help achieve a 6 or 7 per cent roll-back of retail prices for clothing.

WPB previously had ordered about 80 per cent of civilian cotton fabric channeled to low and popular priced garments, and OPA last night set retail ceiling prices for these.

PERSONAL INCOME TAX—5.

A new tax term, "adjusted gross income," was introduced thru amendments to the revenue code last year. It means an individual's gross income minus certain deductions related to business, employment, rental receipts, and capital losses.

As a result it has become necessary for taxpayers to discriminate closely between deductions of these kinds and those personal items which can be subtracted from adjusted gross income to arrive at net income. Adjusted gross income provides the test which determines whether you may use the optional tax table to find your tax. Such use is limited to adjusted incomes of less than $5,000.

For many, perhaps most, taxpayers who are employes, adjusted gross income is the same as their gross, or total, income.

To arrive at adjusted gross income, the taxpayer who conducts his own business, practices a profession, or is a farmer, deducts from total receipts all ordinary expenses [other than capital expenditures] directly incurred in such activities. If the result is a loss it is deductible from other gross income, altho the new tax law sets certain limitations on such deductions if a business shows losses for five consecutive years.

Following are other items which may be deducted to determine adjusted gross income:

1. Expenses attributable to property held for production of rents and royalties [but other investment expenses are personal deductions].

2. Expenses of travel, meals, and lodging paid by an employé while away from home on his employer's business, for which no reimbursement is received.

3. Reimbursed expenses in connection with employment [if reimbursement is included in gross income].

4. Allowable losses from sale or exchange of property and nonbusiness bad debts.

The second group of deductions, which are subtracted from adjusted gross income, embraces contributions; interest payments; state and local taxes, including sales taxes but not taxes on business or rental property; business expenses of an employe not reimbursed by the employer [other than those traveling expenses which are deductible from gross income]; labor union dues; investor's expenses; losses from fire or other casualty or theft; medical and dental expenses under limitations explained in the instruction sheet accompanying form 1040; periodical alimony or separate maintenance payments which are taxable to the recipient; and the special $500 deduction for the blind.

Gambling losses are deductible only to the extent of similar gains.

You have a choice of itemizing these miscellaneous deductions or of availing yourself of the blanket standard deduction. The latter, it is believed will be to the advantage of most taxpayers. The optional tax table in form 1040 makes allowance for a credit of 10 per cent of adjusted gross income for these deductions. If you use form W-2 as a return, the collector determines the tax from the table. On incomes of less than $5,000, it is only thru use of the tax table or of form W-2 than the benefit of the standard deduction may be obtained. For incomes of $5,000 or more, the standard deduction is $500. The earned income credit has been repealed.

Deduction of federal excise and stamp taxes is now disallowed except to the extent that they represent business expenses or, in the case of an individual, investor's expense.

[Wednesday's article will discuss the personal exemptions.]

Army Drops Control Over 2 Ward Units

The army has given up active control of two important departments of Montgomery Ward & Co., which were seized along with other Ward properties in Chicago and six other cities by Presidential order last Dec. 28, it was disclosed yesterday. The seizure has since been declared illegal by Judge Sullivan in United States District court.

The departments freed of army direction are the Schwinn warehouse, Cortland st. and Lawndale av., and the fashion mail order house in the company's main building on W. Chicago av. They were turned over to the company Feb. 9.

No Reason Is Offered.

The surrender of the units was formally acknowledged in a statement from army authorities. No reason was offered, and company spokesmen declined to comment, but it was understood that the financial complexities involved were too much for the army. The following statement was issued by Col. R. Parker Kuhn, executive director of operations of Ward under Maj. Gen. Joseph W. Byron:

"On Feb. 9 the war department relinquished active operation of Schwinn warehouse and the fashion mail order house. These establishments are the central purchasing and distributing agencies serving the entire Ward chain of approximately 650 retail stores and mail order houses, only 13 of which are operated by the war department.

"The status of operation by the war department remains unchanged in the other stores. All financial obligations are being met on a current basis, and the over-all accounts are substantially in balance at the present time. The provisions of the executive order are being enforced to the extent that they were enforced at the time of the stay granted by the District court.

Army Reported in Red.

"Wage increases which were in effect at that time are being paid. The unions involved are being informed of policies followed by the war department, and are coöperating in their execution."

Col. Kuhn added that no wage increases were granted to Schwinn and fashion house employes.

The army's abandonment of the Schwinn warehouse and the fashion mail order section was reputedly predicated on the prevailing system of purchases and sales. Under that system the army bought supplies for those departments and the company received the customer sales receipts.

Both departments supplied retail outlets with the government purchased merchandise. The retail outlets collected sales payments and credited them to the company—not the army. Thus it was all outgo and no income for the army. It is reported the army has gone into the red by several million dollars.

STOCKS ATTAIN NEW PEAKS IN BROAD TRADING

Investment Buying Is Main Factor.

New York, Feb. 19 (AP). — New highs for more than seven years were widely distributed in today's stock market as idle investment funds continued to seek employment in actual or potential dividend payers. The Associated Press 60 stock index rose 0.4 to 61.8, highest since Sept. 4, 1937.

Rails, steels, and motors took the lead after a steady opening and bidding was fast at intervals. Light selling in the last hour reduced gains which had ranged to 2 points or more for many. Of 999 issues traded, 603 closed higher and only 185 declined. Transfers approximated 1,880,000 shares.

Less apprehension over economic upsets when Germany is defeated and persistent inflation indications again provided bullish sentiment. Boardroom traders turned a bit cautious, however, because of the belief a technical setback might be in the offing.

RAIL BONDS ACTIVE.

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—Railroad issues had a large following in today's bond market but other groups moved indifferently.

Buyers concentrated in a half dozen special rail situations, notably those in reorganization or other difficulty, and advances ranged to 2 or more. Sales totaled $12,170,000, compared with $11,560,000 Friday.

Milwaukee road adjustment 5s took top honors for volume, moving up 1 to 21 on sales of $2,344,000. The 5s of 1975 rose 2½ to 79 on sales of $428,000. Ten separate bonds of the New Haven rose ½ to 3⅝ points with heavy volume in the convertible 6s and 4s of 1955.

Another big buying splurge in Russian 5½s and 6½s sent both bonds to 20, up 5¼ points each on the Curb exchange.

CHICAGO LIST RISES.

Eighty issues advanced yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange and 33 of the 136 issues traded declined. Transfers rose to 80,000 shares. Most actively traded were Belmont Radio, up 1⅝ to a 1944-'45 peak of 20½; Libby, McNeill up ¾; Admiral corporation up ⅜ to a 13¾ new high; Pressed Steel, up ½, and Central and South West Utilities common, up ⅜ to a peak of 1¾. Point or more gains to new highs also were made by Modine Manufacturing, Minneapolis Brewing, and Central and South West preferred.

Berge Asks Court to Reject Pullman Plan of Separation

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 19 (AP).—The anti-trust division of the justice department today asked the 3d United States District court to reject the plan submitted by Pullman, Inc., for the separation of its sleeping car servicing business from its car manufacturing interests.

Wendell Berge, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, said the company's plan is "ambiguous" and does not provide complete separation of the two businesses.

Split Ordered by Court.

He said it does not comply with the intention of the court which on Jan. 22, 1944, ordered the separation.

Pullman, Inc., is the parent of Pullman company which operates the sleeping car service and Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company which builds the cars.

Given a choice of remaining in the manufacturing or operating ends, Pullman elected to retain Pullman-Standard and suggested that the railroads form a pool to buy the operating facilities.

Asks Forced Car Sale.

Berge contended, however, that no one else is able to take over the servicing business and suggested that the court order Pullman to sell its stock in the operating end of the business not only to railroads but to any group wishing to purchase it. He also suggested that Pullman-Standard be compelled to sell sleeping cars not only to a pool of railroads but to individual railroads at reasonable prices.

National Tea's Clash Ended; McKinlay Out

Long standing differences between the officers and certain stockholders of the National Tea company over the management of the business yesterday appeared to be resolved.

Reconciliation of the two groups became apparent with the announcement of the resignation of John McKinlay, chairman of the board of directors, effective on or before March 21, and the release of a statement by John F. Cuneo, a large stockholder who has been critical of the company's management.

Plans Proxy Statement.

Cuneo, president of Cuneo Press, said of McKinlay's resignation:

"This is a part of the plan which R. V. Rasmussen, who is to remain as president, and I have worked out, and we are at the present time working out the management of the National Tea company. Within two weeks there will be a proxy statement issued to the stockholders which will give all the details of the plan."

McKinlay, whose resignation becomes effective not later than the company's annual meeting, declined to disclose his reasons for leaving.

Cuneo, who owns 101,325 shares of National Tea's common stock and 1,907 shares of its preferred, has objected for some time to various business practices of the company, but did not make his objections known publicly until early in January.

Profit Margin Held Low.

At that time he and three associates wrote shareholders that National's margin of profits was one of the lowest in the industry and that there was nothing fundamentally wrong with the company other than "ineffectual management which was incapable of or unwilling to apply modern and approved management policies to the conduct of the business."

The four men wrote that their specific recommendations designed to improve the business had been rejected, and that the salaries of the officers "must be considered excessive when compared with the net profits of the company."

Cuneo's three associates and their holdings are: Guy A. Thomas, Denver, 12,363 shares of common and 1,660 preferred; Charles G. Cushing, New York, 2,000 shares of common, and Arthur J. Feicht, Chicago, 7,975 shares of common.

CORPORATIONS MAKE 1.2 BILLION INCREASE IN WORKING CAPITAL

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 20 (AP).—An increase of 1.2 billion dollars in working capital of American corporations between July and September, 1944, brought net working capital to a new high of 45.1 billions, the securities and exchange commission said today. This is nearly double the 24.6 billion working capital level reported at the end of 1939.

Working capital during the third quarter of 1944 was reported to be "in extremely liquid form" with cash and United States government securities accounting for a substantial portion. Cash increased 2.3 billions to a record total of 24.1 billions on hand and in banks. Corporations sold 800 million of government securities, reducing such holdings to 18.9 billions.

WORKER SLASH DEADLINE GIVES FIRMS BIG TASK

Seek to Shift Jobs to Cover Gaps.

Altho the reduction of personnel of various "unclassified" businesses, including banks, insurance companies, brokerage houses, and others, is scheduled to go into effect today with an initial 5 per cent cut, many of the firms yesterday had difficulty in arranging their work schedules and all agreed the order would result in much hardship.

Representatives of the businesses said they were doing their utmost to meet the order of the war man power commission, tho many up to a late hour had not made specific plans how to do so.

Affects Male Workers.

They said they would attempt to cut their employment of male workers the 5 per cent requested by the WMC and get along as best they could by "short cuts"; by shifting of personnel within the various departments of the business, or by simply loading the fewer employes with more work.

Some companies informed the WMC that the reduction would result in extreme hardship and asked relief from the order. In many cases it was said that if the WMC would "credit" them in the lowered employment ceilings with woman employes, rather than male only, they could make the cut without unduly disrupting their business routine.

One insurance company reported that it had already made its 5 per cent cut. An official said that "in some respects we had to make short cuts not desirable" but necessary to meet the requirements of the order. Part of the reduction was accomplished by eliminating the company's own analysis of its records, which he said was not entirely necessary to the business, but was helpful in getting certain information it wished.

May "Farm" Some Work.

Because of the technical knowledge required in the various departments, it found that shifting employes within the company was not feasible. It has studied the possibility of "farming out" some of its work to other types of companies.

Many of the companies said their big difficulty was in replacing key personnel, many of whom already were in military service. Also in some cases accountants and others had gone into war plants for much higher pay than they received in their former employment.

Brokerage houses said the order was of vital concern to them because it came on top of a big increase in the volume of securities trading in the last few months, and their already depleted staffs were becoming more overburdened daily.

They said their chief difficulty was retaining and acquiring experienced personnel. Altho they have employed more women and girls, many said their experience with these has not been too successful. They explained that training of individuals in the brokerage business requires time.

Cut Effective at Two Dates.

The WMC order on the reduction of pay rolls is effective at two dates, with the first 5 per cent cut below the March, 1944, worker totals set for today, and the second 5 per cent cut to be effected by March 1.

Employers have been told by the WMC not to remove any worker from their pay rolls until instructed to do so by the United States employment service, explaining that workers' seniority and other rights would be protected until new jobs were found.

William H. Spencer, regional WMC director, said no firm that can prove undue hardship will be forced to "close its doors" and that these firms will be permitted to make adjustments satisfactory to WMC.

The USES staff of interviewers in Chicago has been increased by the transfer of 35 from downstate USES offices and 30 have been "borrowed" from the Illinois unemployment compensation division to handle the increased referrals.

Consolidated Vultee Aircraft corporation reported net income in the fiscal year ended Nov. 30 of $12,424,313, or $8.80 a share, after setting aside 6½ million dollars for post-war readjustment, against 1943 profit of $12,279,801, or $8.67 a share, after a provision of $6,800,000 for similar purposes. WRIGLEY HALTS PRODUCTION IN 3 BRANDS OF GUM

The William Wrigley Jr. company will discontinue manufacture of its three popular brands of chewing gum until sufficient quantities of pre-war quality raw materials again are available, the company announced yesterday. Its entire production of these brands has been going overseas for nearly a year.

Wrigley's war time brand will replace the others in overseas shipment and will continue for sale to civilians.
